PEACE PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN AS WILSON HEARS RAIL MEN'S PLEAS

PRESIDENT SEEKS TO BRING WARRING FORCES TOGETHER

PRESIDENT WILSON ISSUES STATEMENT.

"I have met both sides and have gone over the case with the utmost frankness. I shall not be able to judge until tomorrow whether we have a feasable basis of settlement."

Washington, Aug. 14.—The committee of railway managers remained an hour in conference with the president this afternoon, and as they left Elisha Lee, their spokesman, refused to make any statement.

The managers left the white house to hold a meeting to take up suggestions laid before them by the president and will see him at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning The president arranged to see Judge Chambers later today.

It was indicated the employes had made a suggestion which the managers wanted to discuss among themselves. The suggestion was believed to be that the president appoint neutral arbitrators to serve with representatives of each side.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Prospects for averting a nation-wide railway strike, or at least for the formulation of some tentative program, will be the ground work for further negotiations, brightened up today after President Wilson had conferred with thirty-five chiefs of the great brotherhoods.

After the conference the brotherhood men declared the president's grasp of the situation and the position of the men might result in an understanding being reached, and others in touch with the conference said the representatives of the men showed a disposition to co-operate to avoid a strike.

After hearing the leaders of the men two hours the president sent for the managers for a conference at 3 o'clock this afternoon. How far whatever progress made at the conference with the managers can go toward averting a break cannot be determined until after the president confers with the managers' committee.

Wilson Grasps Situation.

The president, according to those who attended the conference, showed a familiarity with the situation that surprised the men.

"The president was most sympathetic" said one of the brotherhood leaders, "and his surprising knowledge of the situation and of our position may result in an understanding being reached."

The president, it was said, submitted no counter proposition to the men, but he held out hope for an adjustment by legislation if necessary. The impression prevailed among the brotherhood leaders that as a last resort the president might ask congress for an eight-hour day legislation.

Explained to President.

The leaders explained to the president their stand against arbitration by saying that they were carrying out the wishes of the 600 delegates who sat with them at their recent meeting at the federal mediators.

The delegates, the president was told, in voting on whether they should accept or reject the mediators' proposal to arbitrate, voted unanimously for rejection. The brotherhoods presented detailed reports of the vote cast in favor of a general strike.

Calls It Hopeful.

One leader of the four brotherhoods, after leaving the white house, characterized the conference with the president as "most encouraging," and declared "the outlook for the prevention of a general strike was hopeful."

Mr. Garretson was asked whether the negotiations were off. He replied, "Absolutely not." While no grounds for the feeling were given, administration officials expressed confidence that the president's intervention would result in averting a strike.

Discussion This Morning.

The discussion this morning it was learned, cent red largely about the possibility of reaching an agreement on some form of arbitration and particular attention was paid to the subjects to be arbitrated.

It was considered possible that a tentative agreement would provide for arbitration of the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and for time and a half overtime with the elimination of the counter proposals of the employers.

The railroads have wanted to arbitrate their counter proposals and that the men resist. They were first inclined to arbitrate their own demands but later indicated their disinclination to arbitrate anything.

Shortly after 2:30 o'clock the managers committee at the conclusion of half an hour's conference, went to the white house to meet the president. There were nineteen managers in th party and all were silent over the developments of the conference of the men and President Wilson earlier in the day.

The brotherhood men went into the conference firm in their determination not to accept an arbitration under the Newlands act, which they contend has always furnished arbitrators before whom the men did not have an unprejudiced opportunity. There was some indications that the president, recognizing that view, might propose a special arbitration before a board of twelve members on which the four great brotherhoods could be represented.

Pollak, 917 West Berry street.

The accident occurred in front of the Majestic theater as both cars were trying to pass a large moving van. Myers claims that he was on the right side of the street and cannot be blamed for the mishap. Mrs. Pollak says that Myers was looking up at the driver of the moving van and not where he was going. The front of the machine driven by the woman was damaged. The windshield on the little car was smashed and several baskets of groceries in the bed of the car jumbled together.

DEMOCRATS TO AGAIN CAUCUS ON REVENUES

Washington, Aug. 14.—Senate democrats will caucus again tonight to consider further the finance committee's amendments to the revenue bill, including the wine and stamp sections. At yesterday's caucus the democrats agreed on stock license on corporations to yield about $20,000,000, elimination of most of the objectionable stamp taxes, which had once been accepted, and approved an amendment to the munitions section which would reduce the net profit tax on manufacturers of materials entering into munitions of war from 10 per cent as proposed by the finance committee to 5 per cent.

MANY PAPERS MAKE ADVANCE IN PRICE

Because of the advance in the price of print parer many Indiana newspapers have been compelled to increase their subscrition rates. Several also have increased their advertising rates. Among the papers in the state that have announced increases are the Hammond Times, two papers at Elkhart, two at Goshen, the Kendallville News-Sun and three weekly papers at Lawrenceburg. Many papers have reduced their exchange lists to the very minimum, while the paper at Knightstown has cut off all delinquent [illegible]

TWO CITY CARRIERS IS LAGRANGE PLAN

Free Delivery Service to Be Established There on Wednesday.

Free village delivery service will be established at Lagrange Wednesday by W. B. Piatt, of Fort Wayne, postoffice inspector. Two carriers will be employed at salaries of $600 a year each. The receipts of the Lagrange office are about $9,000 a year, entitling it to village carrier service.

Two carriers Ralph H. Hilterbrant and Ray S. Fisher—are temporarily in their capacities until they can take the civil service examination. If they are among the four highest in the grading following civil service tests for carriers they will be given the preference over other applicants for the positions. Ten letter collection boxes will be put in at Lagrange, and patrons, Mr. Piatt is informed, have already begun the installation of private mail receptacles.

Three Now Have It.

Three towns—Garrett, Dunkirk and Lagrange—will have free delivery after Wednesday. Garrett, Mr. Piatt says, stands good chance of getting free delivery for first-class offices, as the receipts at the Garrett office will probably soon pass the $10,000-a-year mark. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad has a division point at Garrett, and supplies of the company's stamps are purchased there. The B. & O. will boost postal receipts at Garrett $200 a month.

Free delivery service for villages was established at Dunkirk June 1 by Mr. Piatt. The Fort Wayne district for postal inspection is ahead of the South Bend district, according to late reports. The South Bend district has but one town affording free village delivery.

BUSY DAY SCHEDULED ON MR. HUGHES' TRIP

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 14.—Charles E. Hughes today expects to spend one of the busiest days of his campaigning trip. He was up early to lead an automobile parade, arranged so those who would be unable to attend the two later meetings could see him. His forenoon program included a motor trip to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, twenty-five miles away, through a country of scenic interest. There he is to address an open-air meeting, remaining for luncheon.

Two speeches are on his day's program here. The first at 3:30 p. m. is to be a meeting for women voters only, the first of its kind arranged for the nominee. The second, at 7:30 p. m., is to be a general meeting. Mr. Hughes will leave immediately thereafter at 8:45 p. m. for Tacoma.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Railroad men and shippers from many parts of the country appeared before the interstate commerce commission today to argue over the reasonableness of proposed increased freight rates from the Atlantic seaboard to the inter-mountain section, and from Pacific coast points east. Some of the increases are as high as 100 per cent, and unless suspended by the commission, will go into effect September 1.

PUSHING ON TO LEMBERG

HEAVY PRESSURE ON BOTH FLANKS

Germans Retake Positions Lost to British on Sunday.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The Russian drive in Galicia is pushing the Austro-Germans backward towards Lemberg at a rapid rate. Both flanks of General Count von Bothmer's army at Lemberg are under heavy pressure and its center forced from the line of the Strip is accounted by military observers in entente capitals to have now too secure a position in its rear along the upper Zlota Lipa, to which it is presumed to be retreating.

Petrograd today announced new gains for the Russians on the northern wing of this front on the upper Sereth, while to the south Gen. Letchitzky is continuing his thrust up the Dniester in the vicinity of Mariampol, seven miles from Maicz. The Russian armies in the center also are pursuing the Austrians in the middle Stripa and Koropice regions.

Continuing their advance from Gorizia, on the Isonzo front, the Italians have made further progress on the Carso plateau to the southeast, Rome reports the piercing of a strongly defended Austrian line east of hill 212 and the capture of about 800 additional men. The Austrians are sharply attacking along other sectors of the front, but were repulsed in all attempts the Italian war office announces.

Following the usual course the Germans have sharply counter attacked along the line west of Pozieres, which London last night reported the British to have carried to a depth of 300 or 400 yards on a front of nearly a mile. The attack was partly successful, the Germans gaining a foothold in a portion of the lost trenches.

Following up their gains on the north bank of the Somme the French are pushing their advance to a point where evacuation of Clery, commanding the direct approach to Peronne from the northwest, may be compelled. Fighting is being continued in the Maurepas sector northwest of Clery, where brisk cannonading is reported today. To the left of the Fay-Deniecourt road a French attack resulted in carrying some trenches.

Petrograd, Aug. 14.—Along the Galician front the Russian sweep continues unchecked, the official announcement today states. Further gains have been made on the upper Sereth. In the region of the middle Stripa and the Koropice the Austrians are being pursued by the Russians, who reached the northern bank of the Dniester before Mariampal

AUSTRIAN AIRMEN ACTIVE.

Berlin, Aug. 14.—"An Austro-Hungarian naval aeroplane squadron on the night of August 9 carried out a very successful bombardment on a hostile battery at the mouth of the Isonzo and the hostile naval aeroplane station at Grado," says an Austrian admiralty statement today. "Several exact hits were obtained.

Kinney, Minn., Aug. 14.—Two prominent members of the Industrial Workers of the World are under arrest today and the police are searching for two others for the attempted kidnapping last night of Mrs. Edward Eno, wife of a deputy sheriff; Mrs. Lucy Clark, of Virginia, Minn., and her four-year-old son.

Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Eno, who are sisters, were leaving a street car when four men attempted to overpower them. Mrs. Clark was struck on the head with a club and a serious wound inflicted. They broke away from the men and ran screaming down the road. The kidnappers threw the baby into a waiting automobile and fled.

The police were on the trail in a few minutes and found the baby walking along the road. Two men discovered hiding in bushes nearby were arrested. They are L. Burelich and Andy Veatich, both members of the I. W. W. Physicians attending Mrs. Clark declare her wound serious.

Suffragists Plan for Emergency Convention

New York, Aug. 14.—Preparations are being made for a great assemblage of suffragists at Atlantic City, N. J., from Sept. 6 to 10, when leading suffragists from all over the United States will attend the emergency convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association to discuss its policy.

One of the most important phases of the convention will be a three-cornered debate of the question whether the association will investigate the granting of suffrage to women by amendment to the federal constitution by the different states or by both methods. Arguments representing three points of view will be presented by Miss Laura Clay, of Kentucky; Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, of New York, and Mrs. Raymond Brown, of New Yor.

The presidential candidates of the democratic and republican paries have been invited to present their views on suffrage to the convention and other distinguished men and women will deliver addresses. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the association, will preside. Among the speakers announced today are Newton D. Baker, secretary of war; Mrs. Julia Lathrop, chief of the children's department of the United States bureau of labor; Dr. Katherine B. Davis, chief parole commissioner, New York; Mrs. Raymond Robins, Herbert Parsons and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, of New York.

WILLCOX CLAIMS 300 VOTES FOR MR. HUGHES

Republican Chairman Puts 25 States in List Certain for Him.

Washington, Aug. 14.—In his first statement on the political situation throughout the country, William R. Willcox, manager of Mr. Hughes' campaign, last night claimed 300 electoral votes for his candidate. In addition, Mr. Willcox said the total probably would mount to 325, while only 266 are needed to elect.

The states which are claimed as certain for Hughes and Fairbanks are:

Connecticut, 7.	North Dakota, 5.
Idaho, 4	Ohio, 24.
Illinois, 29.	Oregon, 5.
Iowa, 13.	Pennsylvania, 38.
Kansas, 10.	Rhode Island, 5.
Maine, 6.	South Dakota, 5.
Massachusetts, 18.	Utah, 4.
Michigan, 15.	Vermont, 4.
Minnesota, 12.	Washington, 7.
Montana, 4.	West Virginia, 9.
New Hampshire, 4.	Total, 300.

States which are regarded as doubtful at this time by the republican leaders, but in which they will do a great deal of work with the expectation of carrying a number of them, are:

Arizona, 3.	Nebraska, 8.
	New Mexico, 3.
Colorado, 6.	Oklahoma, 10.
Kentucky, 13.	Indiana, 15.
Maryland, 8.	Wisconsin, 13.
Missouri, 18.	Wyoming, 3.

"These eleven states," said Mr. Willcox, "have a total of 100 votes and while none of them has been placed as reasonably certain, several of them might well have been so placed. At any rate, I feel that a guess on twenty-five votes out of the 100 is, to say the least, conservative, and unless I prove to be a very poor guesser Hughes and Fairbanks will poll upwards of 325 out of the total of 531 electoral votes in November next."

KING NOW RECANTS HIS CONFESSION OF GUILT

New York Man Repudiates Double Crime He Had Admitted.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—District Attorney Knickerbocker announced today that Erwin King had repudiated the confession he made at Little Valley, August 10, that he was guilty of the murder of Charles Phelps, and his housekeeper, Mary Wolcott, at West Shelby, March 22, 1912. Charles Stielow, now is in Sing Sing prison under sentence of death for the murders, but was reprieved recently. Stielow's friends believed King's confession would save the life of the condemned man.

The district attorney said that King made his statement to a committee of citizens of Orleans county, while no prosecuting officials nor police were present. It is said that King gave the reasons that actuated him when he made his confession, but the district attorney did not make public that portion of the statement. Mr. Knickerbocker said his present interest is solely to insure the orderly progress of justice and not to engage in controversy with those seeking to save Stielow from execution.

TURN FOR THE BETTER IN INFANTILE PLAGUE

New York, Aug. 14.—The epidemic of infantile paralysis took a turn for the better today. The number of new cases reported to the health department went under the hundred mark for the first time in several weeks. During the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m. the plague killed 31 children and 95 new cases were reported, 43 of them in Manhattan and 31 in Brooklyn. This compares favorably with yesterday's figures when there 141 new cases and 22 fatalities. The falling off in cases was attributed to the cooler weather.

Physicians employed by the health department to investigate reported cases of infantile paralysis hereafter will be equipped with serum made from the blood of persons who have recovered from the disease so that in every true case an injection may be made at once before the patient is removed to a hospital. This action has been decided upon by the health department because the best results of the serum have been obtained in cases where the disease was in the premonitary stages, when the symptoms mainly are high fever and restlessness and before paralysis has developed.

TROUBLE IN INDIA HAS SIMMERED DOWN

International Affairs of British Colony Called Satisfactory.

London, Aug. 14.—International conditions in India save in portions of Bengal, where the Dacoties periodically break out are highly satisfactory, says a Reuter's dispatch from Simla. The people of Bengal showed their desire to help in the war by organizing a stationary field hospital for services in Mesopotamia. This hospital, with the exception of officers commanding, was staffed entirely by Bengal medical graduates and the personnel was entirely Bengali. After doing excellent work, this hospital has now been withdrawn, but scope for the national and patriotic aspiration of the Nogali have been afforded by the raising of a double company of them. It will be trained on the frontier and when fit for service will be sent to the front for active operation. The result of this experiment will be watched with interest. Besides the Bengalis, three double companies of Indian Christians recruiting the Punjab have recently been raised and are doing well.

No less than six officers and soldiers have earned the Victoria Cross and twenty-seven have gained the military cross.

All classes of creed throughout the entire country held intercession services on Aug. 4, praying in the churches, mosques and temples for success for the British arms.

ADAIR WILL MAKE A STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

Portland, Ind., Aug. 14.—Congressman John A. M. Adair, democratic candidate for governor, is making every minute count. He is booked for a strenuous speaking campaign following the opening of the democratic campaign in Indiana, Saturday, August 19, in Fort Wayne. Portland and Jay county democrats are planning to attend the Fort Wayne meeting and a large number will be on hand to hear the opening gun fired by Portland's favorite son.

Before the date of the Fort Wayne meeting arrives Congressman Adair is booked for three other addresses next week. These are at the Jay and Randolph county Old Settlers' meeting at Ridgeville, Wednesday, August 16th; Johns' Day, Eaton, Thursday, August 17th; political day at the chautauqua at Attica, Friday, August 18th.

James P. Goodrich, Mr. Adair's opponent on the republican ticket, was originally scheduled to speak at the Old Settlers' meeting, plans being to have the two gubernatorial candidates speak from the same platform, but Goodrich has announced his inability to attend the gathering because of a previous engagement.

NO BIG PROFITS IN SIGHT

Washington, Aug. 14—The department of agriculture today warned prospective growers of drug plants seeking to take advantage of high prices for drugs that possibilities of big profits are slender. Inexperienced growers are told that it is doubtful if they can grow the plants successfully and that if they succeed, satisfactory markets are hard to find.

Raising of drug plants, the department declares, is a distinct specialty and calls for exact knowledge and skill.

WALTER KREISELMEYER DROWNS AT ROME CITY

Canoe Upsets and Young Man Loses Life 150 Feet from Shore.

Walter Kreiselmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Kreiselmeyer, 1302 Swinney avenue, was drowned in Sylvan lake, Rome City, Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, when a canoe in which he was riding upset 150 feet from shore. The young man, who was 21 years of age, was riding alone, having taken the canoe out just a minute before to try his skill in paddling.

The accident occurred near the rapids where the water is nearly twenty-five feet deep. The unfortunate young man had just returned from a fishing trip and upon arriving near the cottage stated that he was going to try and paddle the canoe. He had only gone a short distance when he shouted to Henry Brunner, a companion, that the canoe was unmanageable. He was informed to remain quiet until Brunner reached him with a boat. However, before Brunner got away from shore a large wave upset the small craft and Kreiselmeyer was hurled into the water. The body was recovered an hour later.

The deceased was employed at the Dudlo Manufacturing company, where he held a position of honor and trust. Saturday noon previous to his departure for the summer resort he was told that he was to be advanced in position Monday. He had a bright future and the sudden death comes as a very sad blow to his relatives and many friends.

The young man was born in Van Wert county, Ohio, but he had resided in Fort Wayne for the past eight years. He was a member of Emmaus Lutheran church and of the Young Men's society of the same congregation.

Besides the grief-stricken parents he is survived by a brother, Richard, of Adams township, and a sister, Miss Hulda, at home.

Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and at 2:30 o'clock at the Emmaus Lutheran church.

Only a few days ago Kreiselmeyer had paid his first premium on a $2,500 accident policy, which he had taken out with Clinton R. Willson. Kreiselmeyer's estate will receive the face value of the policy.

Augusta, Me., Aug. 21; Concord, N. H., Aug. 22; Hartford, Conn., Aug. 23; Springfield, Mass., Aug. 23; Utica, N. Y., Aug. 24; Lansing, Mich., Aug. 25; Madison, Wis., Aug. 26; Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 28; Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 30; St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 31; Fargo, N. D., Sept. 1; Helena, Mont., Sept. 2, and Spokane, Wash., Sept. 4.

From Spokane the board will go to Oregon and California and return across the central part of the continent. Later a trip will be taken through the south.

The hearings will be public, and farmers and farmers' organizations are invited to appear before the board and submit information which they think will assist the board in its deliberations.

In selecting the cities for the headquarters of the districts the board will be guided, in some measure, by each city's relation to the surrounding farming territory in need of farm loans.

WOULD HAVE SCHOOL TO TRAIN FATHERS, ALSO

Chicago Men Admit There is Need of Instruction Among Sterner Sex.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—A woman trained for the arduous duties of motherhood is only 50 per cent. of the potential family, according to opinions expressed yesterday by Chicago men who are the fathers of large families. These approved Miss Mary McDowell's assertion that it is right and proper to train women for motherhood, but that it is equally essential to train men for fatherhood.

The discussion was the outcome of news dispatches from Detroit telling of Mrs. Lizzie Merrill Palmer's bequest of $1,000,000 to found a school of motherhood.

Chief supporter of Miss McDowell was Joseph J. Murphy, fire attorney, who is the father of nine children—five boys and four girls.

"The duties of fatherhood, while distinctive, are equally as important as those of motherhood," he said. "The mother, to be sure, is the very keystone of the ideal home, but without a husband and father who realizes his responsibilities and who has been trained to fulfill them the entire structure will soon crumble away.

"It devolves upon the father to afford that protection and support, without which the mother is helpless, no matter what her innate qualifications and training may be. The bane of many homes is the irresponsible father. It is not enough that he merely provide funds. The average young father fails to realize that 50 per cent. of the obligation of parenthood is his and he must fulfill it with the woman who bears his children.

"Perhaps some day one will found a school to teach boys these duties. Or better still, they should be incorporated in the curriculum of every public and private school in which the young are educated."

Prof. Henry Meyer was in charge of the games and athletic contests of the afternoon. The following were pronounced the winners in the various contests:

Injunctions to prevent the continuation of the alleged practices also are asked. The suits are the outgrowth of agitations covering several years.

The president's plan was to appeal to managers and men on the highest patriotic grounds to find a way to compose their differences without a strike.

The managers went to one hotel and the brotherhood leaders went to another to await the call from the white house, while the federal mediators set about arranging a conference. It was decided that the president should see the contestants, not together, but one side at a time, to get a clearer idea of their respective positions.

Spurn Newlands Act.

The first development of the day was a delegation by A. B. Garretson, speaking for the brotherhoods, that the men were through with the proposition of arbitrating under the Newlands act. Previous arbitrations under that law, he reiterated, had demonstrated that the neutral arbitrators held the balance of power. He declared that any special arbitration into which the men might agree to enter would have to make provision for an extension of those arbitrators to give the men what they considered a fair chance.

Early today an hour for the conferences at the white house had not been set, but the men were expecting to return to New York for further conferences with the managers tomorrow and had re-engaged the hall where they have been meeting for tomorrow morning.

Mr. Garretson said today the brotherhoods had no knowledge of Secretary Tumulty's flying trip to New York nor of the message he carried from the president.

Objection by Brotherhoods.

"The chief objection to the existing form of arbitration on the part of the brotherhoods," said Garretson today, "centers on the difficulties that has been experienced in selecting neutral arbitrators, who could do justice to the cause of the men. In the past there have been neutral arbitrators of high standing and intelligence, such as John H. Finley, of New York, and Seth Low, former mayor, but no matter how honest their intentions, they could not bring to bear on the questions at issue the disinterestedness necessary. Finley's future relies entirely on the direction of corporate influence, while Low, although honest, was surely influenced by the fact that he is a large owner of stocks and bonds.

"The appointment of neutral arbitrators in the past under the provisions of the Newlands act have damned arbitration as a practical proposition in the minds of the men."

Arranges for Conferences.

W. L. Chambers, of the federal mediators, conferred with President Wilson early this morning and arranged for the conferences. There was a suggestion that the president might urge an arbitration by a board of twelve members so that each of the railroad brotherhoods could be represented. The president, it was indicated very clearly, would appeal to both employers and men on the highest patriotic grounds to meet and settle their differences without resort to a strike. President Wilson cancelled a long list of engagements in order to give all his time to the situation.

Brotherhoods Called First.

President Wilson called the representatives of the brotherhoods to the white house at 10 o'clock and arranged to see the committee of managers immediately afterwards.

Representatives of unorganized railroad employes outside of the four big brotherhoods involved in the strike negotiations, called at the white house early this morning and left word for the president that they stood behind him in his efforts to avert a nation-wide railroad strike. P. K. Walden, representing the unorganized workmen on roads running out of Chicago, presented a petition signed by 16,000 men opposing a strike.

Garretson to President.

The president's conference with the men was opened with a statement by A. B. Garretson, of the conductors, as spokesman. He outlined the demands for an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime. He insisted that the demands were fair. President Wilson then addressed the men, pointing out what disaster would follow a general strike and insisting that an agreement must be reached. The president then asked to know the specific things on which the employes were prepared to insist. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking for the men and he and the president discussed the situation thoroughly.

Mr. Wilson promised to take the demands up with the managers in an effort to find a common ground on which the two sides could meet. He said he was anxious to settle the difficulty as quickly as possible and was prepared to remain in continuous conference all day if necessary. The conference was held in the green room of the white house. Large crowds of tourists gathered on the lawn in front of the white house to hear news of the proceedings.

Wilson as Arbitrator?

While the president and representatives of the men were conferring, Mr. Chambers got in touch with the railroad managers and told them to be ready to come to the white house as soon as the conference was over. The managers waited at a nearby hotel. There were some suggestions purely informal, emanatingfrom neither one side nor the other but from sources in touch with both, that the men were regarding the possibility of arbitration with the president himself as chief arbitrator.

Declines to Make Statement.

After being with the president two hours the representatives of the men left the white house and Mr. Garretson said they expected to see the president again later in the day, after he had conferred with the managers. Mr. Garretson refused to say whether the outlook was hopeful.

"As long as the matter is in President Wilson's hands we will have no statement to make," said Mr. Garretson. The president immediately sent for the railroad managers to lay before them the position of the workmen.

It was arranged that the managers should see the president at 3 o'clock this afternoon and that meanwhile the president would keep one or two other important engagements, including one with Mr. Chambers, of the federal board.

At the white house it was said no indication could be given of the progress of the negotiations until after the president saw the managers.

ALL SET FOR BIG STRIKE.

Struggle, if It Comes, Will Be Directed from New York.

New York, Aug. 14.—If President Wilson fails to persuade the railroad men and their employers to settle their differences and a general strike is called it will be directed from headquarters in this city. This announcement was made today as the leaders of the four big railway brotherhoods and the railroad managers reached Washington for a conference with the head of the nation.

At brotherhood headquarters it was said that all preparations had been made for putting into effect a strike that would stop every train, passenger and freight, on the 225 railroad systems of the nation. The critical state of affairs was indicated by the anxiety displayed in every big industry which would be crippled by the failure of transportation.

What Leaders Say.

"Unless the president can find a road out, it means a strike," said A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Trainmen, and official spokesman of the employes as he boarded the train for Washington. Elisha Lee, chairman of the conference board of managers, with the eighteen members of his committee who went to Washington on the same train that carried the thirty representatives of the brotherhood, placed responsibility upon the men for the failure of attempts at mediation. Mr. Garretson said that the unbending attitude of the railroad managers was to blame for the break.

The conference committee of the railroads and the leaders of the four brotherhoods went to Washington in answer to summons from the white house brought here last night by Joseph Tumulty, the president's secretary. President Wilson in his letter pointed out that a general strike at this time might have a disastrous effect upon the country, and said: "I feel that I have the right, therefore, to request and I do hereby request as the head of the government that before any final decision is arrived at I may have a personal conference with you here."

Power of President.

Authorities here related that while the national labor laws gave the president no right to interfere officially the broad police powers vested in him gave him authority to put soldiers on the trains and even to declare martial law if he believed the peril of the situation called for such drastic measures. Attention was called to the last national railroad strike in 1894, when President Cleveland used the regular army to guard locomotives and cars. The tension in business circles here today showed a realization of the acute danger of a national calamity. The aggregate of financial losses, running into hundreds of millions labor idleness and food privation, were some of the possibilities which a strike presented.

It was to be remembered, business men said, that there is scarcely a factory of any importance which does not depend on a railroad for its products. A strike, for instance, would mean that the steel mills of Pittsburgh would be cut off from their ore supplies in Michigan and Wisconsin, the automobile industries of Michigan from supplies of steel from Pittsburgh, the cotton mills of New England from their cotton from the south, the garment makers of New York from their cloth from New England and every industry everywhere will be cut off from coal to feed their furnaces and dynamos. Of more immediate seriousness would be the closing of the food supply. The large communities which receive the bulk of their food from long distances would be forced to rely on what products could be brought in by wagon, automobile trolley or vessel.

The suspension of the country's exports, the congestion of imports at coast cities, the stranding of hundreds of thousands of travelers and summer resort visitors far from their homes—these are other possibilities which the strike situation presents, to say nothing of its effect on the railroads themselves and their employes.

The total capitalization of the railroads in the country amounts to more than $20,000,000,000 and their gross revenue has been estimated at more than $4,000,000,000 on the basis of recent reports.

The latest estimates available show that the railways operate 251,984 miles of tracks and transport annually 1,033,679,680 passengers. The passenger cars have been computed at 51,700 and other cars to 2,393.

SAYS INDIANA GUARD IS 3,500 MEN SHORT

Some Companies Need More Than 100 to Come Up to War Strength.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Indiana's brigade of soldiers on the Mexican border requires about 3,500 men to recruit it to war strength, according to Maj. Glenn VanAuken, brigade adjutant, whose statement of shortages in each unit of the Indiana organization reached Indianapolis Saturday from Llano Grande, Tex. The statement was addressed to Maj. Jesse T. Johnson, who served two weeks as recruit camp commander at Fort Benjamin Harrison under an order which was suspended last week.

Adjt. Gen. F. L. Bridges said that the figures contained in Maj. VanAuken's summary show that the Indiana soldiers are at no more than peace strength. The needs of the brigade are given in the following table:

Companies.	First Infantry	Second Infantry	Third Infantry
A	91	97	102
B	76	74	101
C	76	79	78
D	95	101	90
E	63	99	85
F	60	105	82
G	87	82	104
H	92	88	99
I	90	76	112
K	88	82	89
L	72	74	87
M	99	95	82
Headquarters..	30	5	..
Machine gun..	30	15	..
Totals	1,038	1,097	1,121

In the artillery battalion forty-eight men are needed for Battery A, twenty-three for Battery B and thirty-one for Battery C. Ambulance company No. 1 needs seventy-nine men and Ambulance company No. 2, twenty-three men. The Field Hospital company No. 1 needs twenty-five men and the signal corps company seven men.

Some Coming Back.

Orders have been issued for the return of eight recruiting parties, comprising about forty men, from Llano Grande to Indianapolis, but it is not known when they will leave camp.

Adjt. Gen. Bridges charged that the methods of the war department in handling the Indiana national guards are seriously handicapping the organization and endangering its solidarity in the future.

"Forty per cent. of the men in the guard can claim discharge because of dependent families and it is said now that another 10 per cent. will be relieved from duty because they are college students," said the adjutant general. "The college boys enlisted without any desire for exemption, and there is no reason that I can see why they should be sent home.

"Our efforts at recruiting have been stopped, and that accounts for the fact that the guard is not up to war strength. Men left at their home stations in the early days of mobilizaion were ordered into camp. Subsequently an order was issued for a special recruiting detail in Indiana, and just about the time it was organized and ready for work it was mustered out.

Costs About $2,500.

"To send recruiting parties from Texas to Indiana will cost $2,500 or more, and the parties must be organized and instructed in the voluminous details of recruiting after they reach here. There are more than 100 blank forms with which every recruiting officer must be familiar before he begins work."

Maj. Johnson, who was mustered out of service as a recruiting officer Aug. 9, said Saturday that he did not know the reason.

"I am ready for service if they want me again," he said. "We had just completed the preliminary organization of an efficient recruiting corps when the war department ordered us out of service. Eighteen men were ready for work. Each of them was compelled to report in Indianapolis to be mustered out, and the war department refused to pay their transportation home. The state had to bear that expense."

YUCATAN PROFITS FROM REVOLUTION

BY GILSON GARDNER.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Some beneficial effects of the Mexican revolution are related by Herbert Janvers Browne, of this city. Mr. Browne is one of the few Americans who has studied the Mexican problem from a point of view other than that of the American exploiter. He is a personal friend of Carranza, and knows all the principal revolutionary leaders and has visited every province in Mexico—some of them many times.

Mr. Browne's picture of Mexican conditions is very different from that which filters through military or big business sources. I asked him to tell me particularly about the province of Yucatan, which figured in hearings before the senate committee on agriculture.

"To those who are willing to look beyond the border disturbances for true realities of the Mexican revolution," said Mr. Browne, the state of Yucatan presents an object lesson of surpassing interest and significance. There the full program of political, economic, agrarian, industrial, social and educational reforms is in actual progress—not fully attained, but making such headway as to show their beneficial effects and to justify the propheries of the friends of the revolution. No state in the United States has so ambitious a program of reform, or can show a more devoted and public-spirited body of citizens enlisted in its behalf.

Hennequin Principal Crop.

"Yucatan, the low limestone peninsula to the extreme southeast of Mexico, has one principal crop, hennequin or sisal fibre, from which cordage and binder twine are made," continued Mr. Browne. Since 1902 the "trust"—the International Harvester company and the Plymouth Cordage company—have dominated the entire state. By 1907 the principal independent banks and producers of Yucatan were in bankruptcy, the railroads had passed into the hands of foreign interests and the sisal industry was at the mercy of these two powerful corporations. The corrupt governor, Alagario Molino, was the largest sisal planter in Yucatan; his son-in-law, Aveline Montes, was agent for the International Harvester company, and Arthur Pierce was agent for the Plymouth Cordage company. These three men absolutely dominated the sisal industry of Yucatan. Molino was a partner and beneficiary of Ramon Corral, vice president of Mexico, chief of the 'cientificos,' who instigated the warfare against the Yaqui Indians of Sonora, and after numerous atrocities shipped thousands of them to the hot plains of Yucatan to work on the sisal plantations of Governor Molino. There, their families disrupted, they were kept in compounds, starved with insufficient food, beaten for the slightest infraction of discipline, and shot for insubordination.

"Then came the revolution. With the advent of Governor Salvador Alvarado in 1915, Governor Molino and his previous son-in-law, Montes, fled for their lives. Their huge plantations are now operated for governmental benefit. Alvarado established a government commission to control the handling and marketing of the entire sisal crop. Its finances were arranged through a group of New Orleans bankers who underwrote a credit of $10,000,000, and the commission was thus enabled to tell the International Harvester company and the Plymouth Cordage company that they could no longer dictate the price of sisal in Yucatan and the price of twine in the United States.

Effect is Marvelous.

"The effect in Yucatan has been marvelous. The sisal planters can now walk erect without fear of forced bankruptcy. Over $20,000,000 gold was the Yucatan value of the year's crop, and this vast sum was spent largely in the United States, for food, clothing, machinery and building material shipped to Yucatan. Wages advanced from 10 cents a day to upwards of 50 cents a day. The peons were freed from the contract labor law and the law of debt. They are free to go and come as they please and to work [illegible] they please.

"But Governor Alvarado has done more important work. He has restored to every village an area of common land, so that every family can have a garden plot sufficient to raise its fruit and vegetables. He has made plans for the collective cultivation of sisal on public lands. He has established over 1,200 public schools, besides trade, agriculture and normal schools, and has brought teachers from the United States to organize and conduct them.

Volunteer Association Helps.

"Governor Alvarado is aided by a volunteer association of the most advanced and highly educated men and women of Yucatan, called the 'Ateneo Peninsular de Yucatan.' The members serve without pay, and have undertaken the sanitation of the towns and cities, the solution of problems of sewage and water supply, the building of model houses and schools, the further development of a model educational system and the problems of land distribution and scientific taxation. They are even going into problems of town planning on the most modern lines of symmetry and beauty.

"The change is visible to any present traveler in Yucatan. All classes, rich and poor, high and low, have caught the enthusiasm of Governor Alvarado and his splendid corps of assistants and are working in hearty accord to carry on true reforms so happily begun."

Pottsville and St. Clair, Pa., are now conected by a new trolley line three miles long, costing $1 an inch to construct.

WHEN THE BIG STRIKE COMES

The people of this country will realize how much they depend on the railroad man. For years railroaders have been so matter-of-fact to us that we never give them a thought. Think of the engineers who through day and night speed us along and the dependence placed on their keen sight.

"WAR BRIDE" PROFITS BOOST U. S. REVENUES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—War bride profits taxed by the government swelled the internal revenue taxes last year to more than a half million dollars, according to a statement issued here last night by the commissioner of internal revenue.

The precise amount of internal revenue collected was $512,723,287, which is $97,042,263 greater than was paid in the previous fiscal year.

The increase in income tax collections alone was $44,733,493, and experts of the government figure this increase was entirely due to the war created prosperity and the enormuos profits made on deals in munitions contracts and "war bride" stocks.

The war revenue act produced $84,278,302, while the total from the income and corporation tax was $124,916,315.

Midwest Returns a Fifth.

Of the grand total, the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin contributed $124,062,719—more than one-fifth. Their contribution to the income and corporation tax was $18,000,860, to the war revenue act $17,115,905, and to the ordinary internal taxes $88,945,954.

The war revenue tax and the corporation and individual income taxes paid by the central west follow:

	War rev. tax.	Corporation inc. tax	Individual inc. tax.
Illinois	$8,783,789	$5,579,151	$5,166,689

Peoria, Ill., which for many years has paid more internal revenue taxes to the treasury than any other city in the country, gives way this year to New York City on account of the enormous income and corporation taxes paid in New York. Chicago, on account of the revenues accruing from the war revenue and corporation and income taxes, presses Peoria closely for second place.

New York, Peoria, Chicago.

From incomes under $20,000 the treasury netted from the entire country $23,995,777. The larger incomes paid the balance of $67,943,594.

One-fifth of the super-tax collected was paid on net incomes of more than $500,000. The individual income receipts, according to classification, were as follows:

Exceeding $20,000 and not more than $50,000	$ 6,091,775
$50,000 to $75,000	4,071,361
$75,000 to $100,000	3,623,472
$100,000 to $250,000	10,936,326
$250,000 to $500,000	6,393,358
Above $500,000	12,647,862

Internal Revenue by States.

In the total amount of internal revenue paid into the treasury New York is first with $104,910,489, Illinois second with $65,287,404, and Kentucky third with $37,242,180.

In individual income tax collections New York was far in the lead with more than $30,000,000. Pennsylvania paid in $6,313,191; Illinois, $5,106,689; Massachusetts, $4,193,828; New Jersey, $2,928,300; Ohio, $2,416,701.

The commissioner's report shows an almost uniform increase in the production of taxable articles. The taxes on distilled spirits increased from $144,000,000 in 1915 to $158,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

More Cigarettes Smoked.

Tobacco taxes increased by $8,000,000 more than half of which was due to the increased consumption of cigarets. The taxes on fermented liquors increased $9,000,000.

The same increases are reflected in the special taxes under the act of Oct. 22, 1914. The bankers' tax increased from $2,828,747 to $4,226,342; the tax on theaters from $789,997 to $1,014,911.

It appears from the report that the greater part of the individual income tax is paid upon fortunes yielding an income of more than $100,000 a year and a very substantial portion of it upon incomes exceeding more than half a million dollars.

For automobile tourists there has been invented a complete bed that weighs only fourteen pounds and, with the exception of the blankets, can be folded and carried in the tool box of a car.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

St. Matthews 7:1-17.

1. Judge not, that ye be not judged.
2. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.
3. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?
4. Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?
5. Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.
6. ¶ Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.
7. ¶ Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:
8. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.
9. Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?
10. Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?
11. If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?
12. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.
13. ¶ Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat:
14. Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.
15. ¶ Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.
16. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?
17. Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

The Final Hope

As the situation has now shaped itself after prolonged but fruitless negotiation, there appears no possibility for the United States to escape the tremendous calamity of a general railroad strike unless the president can find a way out—an avenue through which differences may be smoothed and a pathway leading to peace by some adjustment that shall be acceptable to both employes and employers. At this writing all eyes are turned on Washington in the profound hope that, forbidding as is the prospect, there yet will be reached some basis of agreement that will avert the storm that hangs in the industrial and commercial skies. There can be no gainsaying the paralyzing effect the strike will bring upon the country if the worst shall come. We believe that is fully appreciated both by the two factions directly involved as well as by the general public which, after all, must be the greater sufferer. With a full realization of this fact sinking deeply, we believe there can still be found a way out. That the president will use every endeavor to that purpose there can be no doubt.

Through many months the differences between the railroads and the membership of the four great brotherhoods in their demand for the eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime have been steadily approaching the crisis now at hand. The fixed determination of the employes to declare a strike if that shall be the only way of carrying their point is shown in the fact that a total of 128,812 votes were polled in favor of a strike and but 4,350 votes against such action. The railroad managers, on the other hand, have been just as positive in their declarations that the granting of the demands of the men is impossible. There is a wide difference in the contentions of the railroads and those of the employes as to the burden of cost to the roads' compliance with the demands of the men would place upon the railroads. Manifestly both of these estimates cannot be correct. One or the other is erroneous. It is this burden of cost that is proving the stumbling block, and it is from an unbiased inquiry into this phase of the case that most is to be expected. With neither faction desiring the strike, and with the public well-nigh aghast at the prospect of a break, let it be profoundly hoped that the efforts of President Wilson to bring harmony out of discord may be successful. It is the final hope.

Before his appointment to the United States senate, Mr. Taggart was accounted first of all a partisan of the "hide-bound" class, who could see nothing but good in his own party and nothing but evil outside it. His official career is doubtless proving a revelation to many of his old-time political foes, for he has unhesitatingly condemned what he regarded as wrong in his own party ranks as quickly and as vehemently as he has criticized his political opponents. The most recent instance in point is that in which the Indiana senator chided the senate for its tendency to wastefulness in the revenue bill. Senator Taggart is entitled to be judged by his performance in his official career, and there are indications that his performance is making a very strong hit with Indiana voters, regardless of politics.

Mr. Hughes, in his sweep across the country, is being warmly greeted, of course. The managers of his campaign are seeing to it that there is something in the way of party clamor for the nominee, and there is the natural desire, born of curiosity, to catch a glimpse of any presidential candidate—but the general public doesn't appear to be over-exerting itself in either throwing up its hat, indulging in fervid enthusiasm or setting the plains afire in its acclaim of the new-found Moses who is devoting the major portion of his efforts to enacting the role of a common scold.

The eyes of Indiana democracy will be turned on Fort Wayne next Saturday for the occasion which is to mark the formal opening of the state campaign. The Robison park gathering promises to be notable in many ways. It will be striking not only as an assemblage of prominent Indiana democrats who will sound the keynote of the campaign, but there is every evidence that the rank and file of the people will seize upon the occasion to voice their approval of the party's achievements and to tender assurance of continued confidence and support. Make arrangements to be on hand for this big event.

Eleven persons injured in Sunday automobile accidents in and near Fort Wayne makes it apparent that it is yet much too early for the safety first crusaders to take a vacation.

THE 10-CENT LOAF OF BREAD.

(Indianapolis Star.)

The 10-cent loaf of bread, which is proposed by Indianapolis bakers, was discussed a few days ago at the convention of master bakers of the United States held at Pueblo, Colo. The 5-cent loaf under present conditions is declared to be an economic waste. The speaker estimated that the cost of baking 1,000 loaves of bread of the 5-cent size is $3.55 more than the cost of baking the same flour into 10-cent loaves.

Local bakers declare that they are making no profit on the 5-cent loaf and this being the case their argument that efficiency and the exigencies of their business call for the larger loaf has a sound basis. The bakers, of course, are not responsible for the advance in the price of flour. That may be accounted for, in part at least, by the shortage in the wheat crop and the heavy foreign demand. How much speculation may have to do with the rise in the price of flour remains to be seen. A general increase in the price of bread will perhaps arouse an interest that will bring out the facts.

The proposal of the local bakers is to make a twenty-ounce loaf that will retail for 10 cents, the 5-cent loaf now on the market weighing thirteen ounces. That is, the consumer will get six ounces less for 10 cents than he now receives. It is plain that the cost of bread is to be higher throughout the country and it is a feature of our "new prosperity."

Cure for Cholera Morbus.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby, he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. GOLF.

Golf is the finishing school for learning the fine arts of "fibbing" and "profanity." It is called an "old man's game," because you're an old man before you're able to make a decent score.

Golf has broken up more homes than war. With war there's a chance for the father or husband getting back home, but with golf there ain't no such thing.

Golf is the simplest and easiest game in the world. The simplest part is missing the ball; and the easiest part is losing the ball.

If you've never played a game of golf and would like to find out what it's like, take a pinch of wet sand and place a half dollar on it. Then take a broom handle, close your eyes and take a slam at the four-bit piece. Then proceed to look for said golf.

MANY HURT SUNDAY IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

One Machine Turns Over Twice Injuring Six—Others Clash.

Six men and a boy, 7 years old, were hurled through the air and landed in a heap in a fence corner when a big touring car from Gary, turned over twice near the Roebuck farm on the St. Joe road, Sunday. The gay party was coming to Fort Wayne from Germania park.

The boy was buried under four of the men when they piled up at the side of the road. He was the least hurt of the company. Two of the men had bad cuts in their arms and one received a long gash across his forehead. Three of the men were unconscious for a few minutes. None was seriously injured. They refused to give their names, but admitted they were from Gary. They were brought to the city in two automobiles.

The automobile was a complete wreck. It still stands by the side of the road, with two of its wheels smashed, the top broken and the body of the car damaged. One of the men of the party said he was driving the car when the accident occurred and that he had been drinking and was driving a little too fast.

Two Cars Collide.

August Cook, 65, of Sturgis, Mich., was hurt when the car driven by his son Cecil also of Sturgis, was struck by a machine piloted by William Koenig, of Woodburn, at Crescent avenue and State boulevard Sunday morning. The elderly man was thrown against the front of the car and his back injured.

Koenig was learning to run his new car and is said to have been on the wrongside of the road. He plunged his machine straight against the automobile driven by Cook, it is claimed. When the affair was reported to police they arrested Koenig. His car is held as bond for his appearance in police court.

August Cook is being cared for in the home of a relative, Albert Campbell, 1420 Columbia avenue, since he was removed from the hospital, where he was rushed after the accident.

"Circus Stunt" Pulled.

James Smith, 228 Wood avenue, and Albert Smith, 820 Superior street, were slightly injured in a thrilling "circus stunt" which consisted of colliding the motorcycle which was carrying them both with an automobile and then tumbling through the air and landing on the guard fender of a street car. Horace Mariotte, 504 West Washington street, was driving the automobile which had a part in the accident at the corner of Main and Harrison streets.

The street car was stopped after carrying the lads several feet. The young men were dazed for a time, but had received but minor bruises. They were able to walk away. Their motorcycle was badly damaged and the front of Mariotte's car was dinted.

Other Accidents.

B. R. Mars, carpenter, 1206 Clinton street, was knocked down at the corner of Calhoun and Montgomery streets. His face was cut.

Both machines were damaged when Ed Besancon, 2501 Parnell avenue, and George Hurshell, Ossian, collided at the Huntington and Hayden roads. Neither of the young men was hurt.

W. F. Meyer, 2513 Weisser Park avenue, was in a collision at Calhoun and Baker streets in which two machines crashed together without serious injury being done.

W. S. Merriman, 1828 Koch street, narrowly missed serious injury when his automobile was struck by a street car on Taylor street.

H. C. Beckner reported that he had sideswiped an automobile bearing license No. 69834 on the Leo road, eight miles from the city, at 6 p. m. Sunday evening. Fenders were damaged on both machines. No one was hurt.

The machines in which Joe Laibe 1225 Fletcher avenue, and Owen Geary, of Mishawaka, formerly of this city, were riding were damaged when the two collided at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Washington and Shick streets.

LODGE NOTES

A joint picnic of members of Summit Encampment, No. 16 and Fort Wayne Encampment, No. 152, was held Sunday afternoon at Fitzgerald's grove, near Robison park. One of the big features of the day's festivities was a chicken dinner at the noon hour. A baseball game was played but the final score was not available at the close of the game. As a matter of fact the official score keepers are still tabulating the runs that were made. George Weddel and Fay Mallard captured the prizes in the horse shoe contest, consisting of leather cigar case and match box and a safety razor. Mallard also won a pocket knife in the free-for-all running race.

The annual picnic of the Eagles lodge was attended by 787 members and without question it was the most delightful affair of the kind that has ever been held by the lodge. The Garrett lodge brought sixty-three members and thereby won the $75 prize offered for the larges out-of-town delegation. Two Ohio cities took the remainder of the prize money from the city, Van Wert getting $50 for fifty-two members, and Tiffin, $25 for fifty members. The picnic was held in Centlivre's Driving park.

The loyal order of Camels will hold its annual convention at Lake James from August 13 to 27. Members of the order are Clarence Lapp, Leonard F. Kinsley, Henry Witte, Gust Tillman, Rudy Rohlfing, Carl Geiger, Fred Simon and Elmer Lagerman.

Liver Trouble.

"I am bothered with liver trouble about twice a year," writes Joe Dingman, Webster City, Iowa. "I have pains in my side and back and an awful soreness in my stomach. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and tried them. By the time I had used half a bottle of them I was feeling fine and had no signs of pain." Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

JACK LONDON IS GOING OVER TO HAWAII TO LIVE REST OF LIFE.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, snapped in San Francisco on their return from Hawaii.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Jack London, the novelist, is going to live in Hawaii for the remainder of his life.

That's what he announced the other day when he and Mrs. London came back to "The States" from Honolulu.

"I have been down there for seven months," he said, "and it is the only place in the world to live. I've rented a house there and expect to spend the rest of my life, or a good part of it, in the islands.

"I have been writing stories based on the native life in Hawaii and in doing so have of necessity visited villages on remote islands, where the people live as they did at the coming of Captain Cook. Nowhere else in the world have I found such charming hospitality. The charm of their plaintive music, the thrumming of ukueles and the muted guitars has wrought so strongly on me that I have practically determined to live in Hawaii for the rest of my years.

"Hawaii has the finest and most equable climate in the world. It is never too hot nor too cold, and it rains usually at night, in order not to cause any inconvenience. When it rains in the daytime the sun continues shining and the combination is generally made perfect by a wonderful rainbow."

MACHINE OPERATOR GAINED 15 POUNDS

John Pranger Tells of Wonderful Benefits He Received Through Use of Tanlac.

"I suffered from various forms of stomach trouble," Mr. Pranger said on March 25. "For several hours after eating my meals I was annoyed by a heavy feeling in my stomach. Gas formed in my stomach and I was troubled with bloating. I didn't relish my food. I was unable to sleep soundly and was losing weight rapidly.

"The first bottle of Tanlac brought me benefits. I have now taken four bottles of the medicine and can eat anything I care for without fear of the bad after effects, the bloating, gas formations and the heavy feeling. I sleep fine and have gained fifteen pounds.

"Tanlac helped me where all other remedies failed and I recommend it to anybody suffering from stomach trouble. It did me a wonderful amount of good."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like.

Tanlac is now being specially introduced and explained in Fort Wayne at the four Meyer drug stores—Wayne and Calhoun streets, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor streets.—Advertisement.

Business Girl, Nurse and Widow Win Prizes in Colville Indian Reservation Drawing.

(Staff Special.)

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 9.—From the certainty of a well-established business and a sure income to the uncertainty of a homestead and a fight with the soil for a livelihood.

She is Miss Agnes C. Gromish, a young business woman. She can't decide whether or not to take the dare which Fate flung at her when it named her 59th in the drawing for the Colville Indian reservation, which Uncle Sam has thrown open in northern Washington state.

Like scores of other lucky ones, Miss Gromish had no more idea than the man in the moon that she would win, when she registered. She entered the race for land with more than 90,000 others just because it seemed the thing to do. When a little girl pulled her name from the mass of envelopes she was as much surprised as anybody.

She was an assistant to the land notaries here. When she saw how eager others were to get a chance—when she saw them coming clear from Florida to register—she decided it never would do for her to pass up such an opportunity. So two days before registration closed she entered her name.

Hardened old pioneers, used to roughing it and equipped with strong arms and backs, have a wholesome respect for the struggle which they would have to make on the land thrown open for settlement on the reservation, before fortune and a home would come to them.

And Miss Gromish, whose latest years have been spent in an office and who never has faced hard manual tasks, naturally is hesitating.

She came here five years ago from Helena, Mont., and since then has built up a healthy young business as a public stenographer. She has a suite of offices in one of the downtown business blocks and has two women working under her.

She is supporting her mother, whom she says will go with her if she decides to cut the life line here and plunge into the unknown of homesteading.

"I think it would be fun," she said.

So maybe she'll do it!

Doubts as to what she'll do are not troubling Mrs. Mary E. McLaughlin, widow, and mother of three grown children, who was 76th in the drawing.

"Sure I'm going," she said.

She has been in Spokane nine years and was the support of her children until they began to strike out for themselves. A boy of 22 is now in Wyoming, a girl of 20 is in business college here and another girl of 16 is in high school.

"The children can do what they please, but I'm going on my homestead," declared Mrs. McLaughlin, who is an intrepid, determined-looking woman. She says she sees in the Colville opening a chance for a permanent home, with contentment and plenty when old age comes.

"I don't intend to be dependent on my children," she said. "If they want to come and live with me, all right. If they don't, they won't have to worry about me. For I will have enough to keep me."

The known fascination of nursing and the unknown experiences of homesteading are battling for first place in the mind of another woman here, Miss Margaret Wallace, a graduate nurse, who is wondering if the fates had anything to do with giving her number 13 in the land drawing.

She says it's the biggest surprise of her life. She came here twelve years ago, was graduated as a nurse in 1906, and since then has been sturdily "paddling her own canoe."

George Lennon, the Spokane man who drew first choice out of 90,410 names, will have a big family to help him work his homestead. Besides his father, John Lennon, stationary engineer, he has seven brothers and sisters. They call him a world wanderer, but say that maybe now he'll settle down.

OWNER OF DAMAGED AUTO ENDS IN JAIL

The nemesis, which is said to trail all wrongdoers, must have caused the chain to break on the little single cylinder machine in which Berger Engbloom was taking a joy ride Sunday. He went to a nearby house to get a wrench. It was the home of E. W. Studer, 502 Putnam street. Studer took one look at Engbloom and then hastened to the telephone.

While Engbloom was tinkering with his little car police arrived and arrested him. Studer had recognized Engbloom as the man who sold him a stolen cow a month ago. Engbloom waived examination in police court and was bound over to the circuit court under $500 bond. He is in the county jail.

Engbloom is accused of leading a Jersey cow from a vacant lot in the rolling mills district a month ago. He sold the animal to Studer for $35. Studer sold the cow at the slaughter house. Just after the animal had been killed the real owner arrived at the slaughter pen. He brought action against Studer. The transaction cost Studer $50.

Studer and police have been looking for the young man who led the cow from the commons. Engbloom says he has been in Fort Wayne three months. He left a quiet town in New York state because he owed a board bill of $20, he told. He says he will plead guilty to the charge of stealing the cow.

Pay Fine for Gambling.

The fact that there was money and a deck of cards in front of five men when police raided a house in the rolling mill district Sunday night, caused Judge Kerr to assess a fine of $75 against the men, who he held were gambling. The men gave their names as Nick Welty, Leonard Jones, Tom Williams, William Meyers and Joe Taher.

They were defended by an attorney in police court Monday morning, who made a vai neffort to show that evidence was not sufficient for conviction.

Another Liquor Case.

Philip Hettmansperger, former owner of the saloon at 1430 Fairfield avenue, and now bartender in the place; Edward Tennis, owner of the saloon in which Hettmansperger works, and Calvin Waite, bartender for I. G. Greenstone, 133 West Columbia street, were on the police court docket Monday, charged with selling liquor to a minor. Their cases were continued until Wednesday.

Patrolman Charles Eisenhut signed the warrant for the arrest of the men after Robert Hensinger, seventeen years old, 1309 Ewing street, had told that he obtained drink in the three resorts. His father brought the original complaint because he said his son had been getting liquor some place regularly. His son would not tell him where he got the drink. When brought before the police the lad told that he was sold wine and beer at each of the three places.

Wife Deserter Sentenced.

Archie Sharp, 27, plumber, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to spend the next 100 days at labor on Allen county roads because he has failed to provide for his seventeen-year-old bride.

The woman has been staying with her parents at 414 Elizabeth street, during the past few days. They were married in January. The wife has had little support since that time, she told.

More "Pocketbook" Trouble.

Black had just told that he was not drunk Saturday night, but that he raised a row after his wife stole his pocketbook out of his hip pocket when they started buggy riding. She took $40 from him, he told.

Black had pleaded guilty to a drunk charge on Saturday morning and was fined $5 and costs. His wife paid the $15. Police were called to the home late Saturday night, where neighbors said they could not sleep because of the noise Black was making.

Patrolman Laninger ordered Black to leave the place after the wife had said her husband threatened to kill her. Later Laninger returned and found Black on the back porch of the house. He was locked up. He will remain in jail until his fine of $5 and costs is served, his wife says, because she refuses to bail him out again.

Other Police Court Cases.

William Koenig, driver of the automobile which struck the machine in which August Cook was riding, Sunday, and caused the aged man to be injured, will be tried on a charge of assault and battery Wednesday. He asked for continuance of the case to ascertain the seriousness of injuries to Cook.

Evelyn Haines, taken in a "redlight" raid by police last week with two other women and three men, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of associating. She was fined $15 and costs.

John Myers, who made an attack on his father last week and broke the aged man's collar bone, was released after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. His father refused to sign the affidavit for his being held on a charge of assault and battery. Myers knocked his father down when intoxicated.

Carl Puff was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to ten days in the county jail after being convicted on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had started a fight in a Calhoun street saloon, evidence showed, and later resisted police.

John Weise will be tried on August 15 on a charge of driving an automobile after dark without lighted lamps.

Fines of $5 and costs on intoxication charges were assessed against John Smith, Frank Fitzgerald and Thomas Arthur. John Klee, charged with being drunk, will be tried on Aug. 16. He is held in jail under $25 bond.

Carl Skingle, of Kalamazoo, will be tremens, Dr. Edgar Mendenhall testi- He is on the verge of having delirium trmmens, Dr. Edgar Meudenhall testified. Skingle was cared for at the St. Joseph hospital for several days and when released went into a saloon, Mendenhall said. Skingle will be given a chance to straighten up.

Minnie Cannon, charged with intoxication, will be tried Tuesday. She is held in jail. John Welsh was released after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. Jim Douns was fined $1 and costs when convicted of public intoxication.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A MODIFIED FICHU

A CERTAIN woman in a certain neighborhood is always admired by her friends because she always gives the appearance of dressing in the very latest fashion. Yet, if the truth were known, she wears her clothes longer than a great many of her friends. Her secret of always giving this impression is the fact that she pays strict attention to the latest thing in neckwear. By spending fifty cents or a dollar for the newest collar she is able to transform the appearance of a last year's blouse or gown. Her method is one worth following.

Among the newest collar models is the modified fichu. It is made up in various materials, net, organdie and crepe de chine. The one pictured is of net. It is quite noticeable that on collars of this material hand embroidery is employed. The work is done either in white, in color or in a combination of colors. A full ruffle of the net emphasizes the fichu effect and is joined to the shaped collar with hemstitching.

FOR EMBROIDERED FLOUNCING

IT IS not an easy matter by any means to find a smart way of making up the wide embroidered flouncings. But it is not impossible. Here you have a frock sketched today which shows you how very attractive the embroidered flouncing will look when combined with a plain material. Now is the time of year to pick up remnants, and three yards of flouncing with three yards of plain material will make a very wearable frock to finish out the summer season.

Colors for thin frocks like organdies are so smart that it seems a shame not to take advantage of the style and select a flouncing in white with embroidery of color. The plain material for combination should then be organdie of the matching color.

The flouncing is turned upward for the skirt with a shallow yoke of plain material. The scallops are arranged on the waist to give a vest effect. The pleatings may be done with a goffering iron if one has one, or for a few cents at an establishment where hemstitching, pleating, etc., are done. Either beading or hemstitching may be used to join the plain and embroidered materials. If one is energetic a beading of hairpin crochet in colored cotton would be a very valuable addition to the frock.

THE NOON HOUR

IN ORDER for the business woman to preserve health, good looks and energy, it is quite essential that she use wisdom in living her noon hour. A great deal of injury is done to the system by the snatching of unwholesome lunches and the quick eating of them.

A well-chosen lunch need not be expensive. A single dish selected with an eye to the other two meals in the day would cost less than the usual lunch topped off with pastry or ice cream. It would also prove more nourishing and will give more pleasure in the end, because it will preserve the health, and good health, you know, is the road to happiness. You can cultivate a liking for the plain foods.

Some one has advocated fasting as a means for making plain foods taste good. Of course, the fast must be observed with common sense. Hunger is the best relish.

When the lunch has been eaten one should spend as much time as possible in the fresh air and not in crowded stores and other buildings which are polluted with bad air. A ten or fifteen minute brisk walk will fill you with a desire to work like a "good fellow" when you go back to your business. Try it and see.

PLAY CLOTHES FROM HISTORY

THE modern woman is eternally seeking ways of agreeably instructing her children. She wants geography and arithmetic and history to be interesting, not boring to them. A very good plan to acquaint them with olden times is to make play clothes for them modeled on those of the people you discuss.

Every little girl is curious to know what her great-grandmother or perhaps her great-great-grandmother wore when she was young. Surprise her with a dress which you can tell her is exactly like the party gown of that long-ago lady.

The skirt, which should be long enough to reach the floor, has a pink panel down the front. Make it of chambray or any other cheap material you care to use. The flowered overskirt is full, and gathered at the waist, but does not cover the panel front. The edge is finished with a gathered ruffle.

The waist is rather plain with ruffles on the sleeves, but it has a fichu, as wide as you like, and long enough to tie in front after crossing. This fichu is made of the pink material with a ruffle edging of the same.

Billy Penn makes a fine model for the little boy who likes impressive garb. Use the pattern of his everyday suit for the rather tight breeches of pink. There should also be a waistcoat of pink goods. Over this costume is worn a black coat with long skirt, just like the pictures that children are accustomed to see of this great man. The hat has a black brim and a pink crown to make it more attractive, tho if you want the children to get the best idea, use all black.

To this group, being equally good for the fancy dress party or for play, and teaching children patriotism, is the Uncle Sam suit. The trousers are very long and very slim, reaching to the little ankles and affording its owner much joy in being like a grownup's suit. They are made of red and white striped goods, while the coat worn over it is blue with long tails. The hat is high of crown with white stars on a blue ground and a band of red.

YELLOW UNDERWEAR

PERHAPS women are going to run the gamut of the spectrum so far as choosing colors for their underwear is considered the correct thing. In days gone by all-white underwear was considered the correct thing. Later on one was given the privilege of adding colored ribbons or a few stitches of embroidery to the white background. Then women grew bolder and put upon themselves underwear which resembled the flesh in color. Altho the flesh-colored garments are still in favor, they were supplanted for a while by a craze for baby blue garments. Now fair dames are offered the most alluring gaments in shades of yellow, the most favored being pale lemon. Sets of yellow articles are elaborated in various ways by hemstitching. Embroidery and beads are among the favorite trimmings.

As for the materials, crepe de chine, Italian silk and Georgette crepe reign supreme. There are many women, however, who cannot afford silk underwear but for these there is a very satisfactory substitute. Reference is made to silk muslin. The substitute is very effective, is cool, launders well and costs many times less than the silk variety.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Machine Oil Removed

I have just got a lot of machine oil on a white linen skirt. Is there any effective way that I can follow to remove it?

Mrs. G. H.

Dress Finish

Miss D. L.

You can make a very pretty trimming on the material of your dress. Cut strips of the material if possible and with a pin pick the edges until they are frayed. This makes a very novel trimming.

Something of interest arriving every day now. It will, threfore, be worth while for you to make frequent visits to our ready-to-wear department.

DRESSES

Variety dominates the dress styles for the new season, but never before were the approved modes more generally attractive and smart looking. The Princess style or modifications thereof, the Redingote interpretation, jacket dresses with little clever waist-length jackets, suggesting early fall street suits and some "coat" dresses are marked features.

Serges, challies, taffeta silks, satin finished silks, striped and plaid silks and combination of silks and serges, offer a pleasing variety from which to choose. Some specially attractive styles for the college girl. Prices range from $12.50 to $37.50.

SUITS

All the favored fall fabrics are well represented in our splendid collection of early models. Whipcords, needle-point gabardines, poplins, serges, tweeds, homespuns, fancy men's wear serges, cheviots and broadcloths.

Navy blue will undoubtedly lead the color procession, but dark brown and green will be popular; field mouse grey is one of the new colors. Mixed tweeds and fancy men's wear serges will be much used for travel, business and sports.

Plain tailored effects predominate, but those who like the fancier styles will find much to admire among the later models. Fancy linings are a feature this season. Prices range from $16.50 to $47.50. The values at $25.00 will be found to be exceptional.

Charming New Waists

Georgette crepes, laces, lace and silk combinations for dressy wear and plaid silks in tailored styles to wear with the new fall suits or separate skirt, are here in pleasing variety, $5.00 to $10.00.

Are We to Have a Race of Baldheads When Future Generations Shall Arrive?

This Woman Advances the Unique Theory That Baldness is Hereditary—That Children of Bald Parents Will Also Come Into the Hairless Age Early in Life.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Is the human race doomed to be bald-headed?

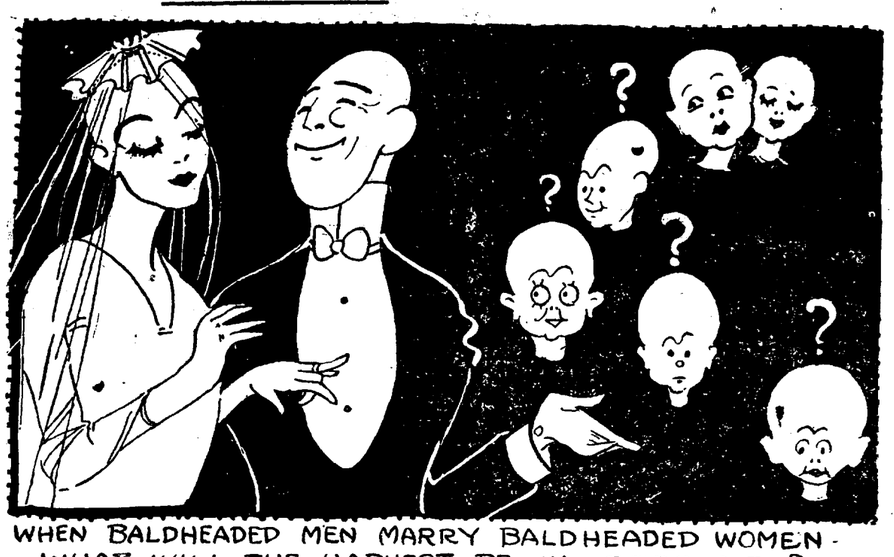
Research into causes of baldness, made by Miss Dorothy Osborn of Ohio State university, indicating "yes," is the answer to these questions.



Miss Osborn, is a bulletin issued says she has found, through research based on the study of pedigree charts, that baldness is heredity; that it is passed on from father to son, and to daughter, too, when both father and mother are bald.

While Miss Osborn does not provide a cure for baldness she says it is not caused by tight hats or disease, as is commonly believed. Baldness is more common among men than women. Miss Osborn says, but there is a great deal more baldness among women than appears "on the surface." Artful woman can conceal her baldness more easily than poor man.

All the children of parents, both of whom are baldheaded, will be bald at maturity. These children will pass the affliction or whatever it may be called, along to their children.

Miss Osborn says that if the father is bald and the mother is not, the sons only will be bald-headed.

A woman who inherits baldness from only one parent will not herself be bald, but may transmit baldness to one-half her sons. Her daughters, however, will produce a normal hirsute adornment.

That heredity is the cause of baldness is strikingly shown by Miss Osborn's discovery that a baldness-pattern is sometimes present on an infant's head at birth, and is then grown over, to reappear in after years when the hair falls out.

Miss Osborn says a completely bald head is rare, but that various patterns of baldness are frequent in man. The most common type is complete baldness on top of the head. A strong second is the "high forehead" baldness.

Now, if bald-headed men persist in marrying bald-headed women, what will the harvest be, say in the year 2500 A. D.?

THIS CAMPAIGN WILL COIN WORD PACIFIST

Few Expressions That Have Had Their Origin in Big Political Battles.

One new word which this political campaign is sure to preserve is pacifist. Editor George Harvey's magazine spells it two ways in one article—pacifist and pacificist.

"Pacifist" made its bow before the political campaign opened, but we may credit it as a part of our current political vocabulary.

"Bull Moose" was born in the 1912 campaign and "Mugwump" was the child of 1884, when many republicans deserted Blaine for Cleveland.

A "barrel," meaning a barrelful of money, came in during the Hayes-Tilden battle and was the republican way of referring to "Sammy" Tilden's free use of coin for election purposes.

"Boodle" meant a somewhat different kind of money—the sort Tammany aldermen got in the days of the Tweed ring. Cartoonist Tom Nast made that word stick.

How quickly the author of things becomes an unknown! Who first used "pacifist?" It came since the war started and we all know what it means—one who prefers peace at any price. But who coined the word?

Nobody kwnows who invented teh epithet "copperhead," as applied to Northern men who sympathized with the south during the civil war.

The origin of nearly all other political terms of that stamp is unknown. Aaron Burr first used the expression "a political machine."

Because old-time political speakers sometimes stood upon the stumps of trees the words "stump speech" and "stumping" came into use, but we don't know what writer first used them in that sense.

In the spring of 1880 a reporter out at Mansfield, Ohio, asked Colonel Moulton, who was John Sherman's brother-in-law, what the latter was doing. Sherman was in a field laying rails upon a fence. "Why," said Moulton, "he is mending his fences."

Since then "mending fences" has had a distinct political meaning.

Seventy years ago "locofocos' was a general name applied to democrats by the whigs. A party of Tammany men had met to protest against certain bank privileges, and when the gas was turned out they lighted locofoco matches. From that incident grew the political epithet.

We borrowed "jingo" from England. It originated during the war between Turkey and Russia, when British feeling was all for the Turk. A popular song of the day had this refrain:

"We don't want to fight, but by jingo if we do,

After that a jingo was a person who indulged in bluster respecting a foreign country.

In the early fifties a sentence spoken by Daniel Webster had a wide political vogue, and it might be applied now with considerable point: "I was born an American, I live an American, I shall die an American."

Ex-President Van Buren's followers in 1844 were labeled "barnburners." A farmer had set fire to his barn to kill the rats in it, which policy Van Buren's enemies said he was pursuing.

"Hunkers" were the other faction, who opposed that political disciple of Jackson.

John C. Fremont was the first republican candidate for president. That was 60 years ago this summer. The great campaign cry of his cohorts was "Free soil, free speech, free men and Fremont!"

Owing to their friendship for the slaves, political followers of W. H. Seward were dubbed "wooly-heads."

We still employ the word "carpet-bagger," but nobody knows who coined the phrase. It was first applied to northern men who went south after the war, and it became a term of reproach.

An even more recent and still more picturesque expression was "bloody shirt." It was an epithet hurled by democrats during the seventies at the republicans who kept alive in politics speeches issues of the war. "Waving the bloody shirt" was a common term in democratic newspapers of that day.

"Hyphenates" is another word with new and deep meaning. It will be yoked with "pacifist" during the campaign.

One of the most telling political phrases ever made was employed by the late Joseph Chamberlain when leader in the British parliament. During the Boer war he stamped all those who opposed his policy of expansion in South Africa as "Little Englanders."

Thomas Jefferson gave us "Few die and none reign," as applied to office holders.

When W. J. Bryan was first a candidate for president, 20 years ago, many eastern democrats refused to support his free-silver theories. They were then labeled "goldbugs."

Well Built Is Built to Endure

Grape-Nuts

Meets every requirement.

It has delicious, satisfying flavor, and is rich in the true nourishing elements of whole wheat and malted barley—including their vital mineral content which is lacking in much of the food used nowadays.

Grape-Nuts food is in the form of crisp, nut-like granules; easy to digest and ready to eat with cream or good milk—a wonderful builder of strength, endurance and comfort.

SENATOR KERN WILL SPEAK AT PRINCETON

Will Deliver Principal Address at Labor Day Celebration.

(By Willis S. Thompson.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Senator John W. Kern will deliver the Labor day address at Princeton and will speak at Cannelton on the following day. He has probably made a record throughout his public life that will appeal stronger to the working classes than that of any other man in public life. His views on the subject of labor legislation have been well known from the days when he served in the state senate. The remarkable fight he made almost single handed on his resolution to investigate the conditions in the Paint Creek mining region of West Virginia, and the startling revelations of the investigation attracted national attention. He was equally prominent in the fight which resulted in the modification of the powers of injunctions by federal courts in cases involving labor, and in the passage of that section of the Clayton act which makes it clear for all time that organizations of farmers and workingmen are not criminal under the anti-trust law.

In every fight that labor has had in the senate since his entrance into that body he has taken the lead in their behalf. That this has been noted and appreciated by the working classes was made evident recently when all the national officers of the United Mine Workers signed a telegram of congratulation on the occasion of his birthday, expressing the hope that he would be continued indefinitely in public life to serve the masses of the people. His appearance at Princeton is not due to his candidacy, but to the fact that in the truest sense he had "served" and the people know it.

Taggart a Business Man.

"Senator Taggart," says an eastern newspaper correspondent, "has taken hold of his new duties in Washington after a fashion that has made a distinct impression upon his colleagues. A business man himself, he has carefully examined all the appropriation bills from the view-point of the business man with the intention of cutting out all the unnecessary expenditures and he has already made himself rather obnoxious to the little group of the Black Horse cavalry, who have looked upon the public purse as legitimate plunder. He is always found in attendance on the senate, always on the job and in this sense he has set a good example to many of the old timers who have a national reputation for attending to business when, as a matter of fact, they seldom are found upon the floor except on field days, when the galleries are crowded."

An Interesting Dispatch.

Here is a special dispatch printed by the Indianapolis News in its issue of June 24, 1912, under date from Chicago. Note the persons who did "the real business" in that convention:

"In the republican national convention at Chicago just closed, Indiana was much in the lime light, not only because of the host of Indiana persons present as guests, assistant sergeants at arms, doorkeepers and so on, but because of the important part played by Indianaians in the real business of the convention.

"Charles W. Fairbanks was chairman of the committee on resolutions. James E. Watson, of Rushville, was floor leader for the regulars and was in evidence every minute. James A. Hemenway was the Indiana member of the committee on credentials and made one of the most effective speeches of the convention in the matter of the contested delegates. Harry S. New, the outgoing national committeeman from Indiana, was chairman of the sub-committee of the national convention that made the arrangements for the convention. Edward B. Thayer, of Greenfield, was first assistant sargeant at arms, with plenty to do. Joseph B. Keating, though not an officer of the convention or a member of any of the committees or even a delegate, was next to Mr. McKinley, the principal manager of the Taft campaign, and on all sides there were expressions of commendation for his excellent work."

For the present addresses of all these distinguished gentlemen, Indiana progressives are respectfully referred to the Indiana senatorial and state ticket and the managing board named by Candidate Hughes to conduct his campaign.

Nervous, Appetite Gone, Liver Not Acting?

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Will Make Your Liver Act Freely in Half an Hour

Medical science has proven that the bile made by the liver is Nature's only laxative. When the liver is doing its work properly the bile flows freely into the bowels, keeping them regular as a clock. When the bile tubes become clogged the bile is forced back into the system, causing sallow skin, nervousness, loss of appetite, headaches, gassy stomach, heartburn and other symptoms of biliousness.

Concentrated Tollo Water from Dawson Springs gives the surest and quickest relief. You can prove it by taking a third of a tumblerful in a glass of plain water. It will dissolve the obstructions in the bile tubes and wash out the liver and bowels just as thoroughly and clean as soap and water bathes your skin.

Just the minute your liver is clean and active your nerves become quiet and the appetite normal. You can eat what you like without pain or inconvenience afterwards. Get a 15-cent bottle from the drug store and try it before breakfast tomorrow morning. It is not like strong drugs that upset the stomach and weaken the system; it builds as it cleans. Take a little every morning until the complexion returns to its natural pink shade and the appetite is good. After that an occasional wineglassful before breakfast will keep the liver active and the bowels regular.

FORMER FORT WAYNE MAN WRITES PAGEANT

Much interest has been aroused in the historic sections about the city of Philadelphia, as the time approaches for the presentation of "Kennett," an historical pageant by L. Eastwood Siebold, a former resident of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Siebold and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Newell H. Ransom, of Lakeside.

L. Eastwood Seibold.

Great significance is attached to the entire affair, the pageant being a dramatization of Bayard Taylor's greatest novel, "The Story of Kennett"; the plot being woven around the lives of many families which in Revolutionary times lived about the village of Kennett Square some thirty miles or more from Philadelphia.

Here, January 11, 1825, Bayard Taylor was born and spent his boyhood; after years of travel, during which he was ambassador to Germany, he returned to the old place and built "Cedarcroft," the realization of his boyhood dreams, a beautiful home just a mile from the quaint village perpetuated in his book.

Upon this story, Mr. Siebold has based the pageant, having added an allegoric prologue and epilogue of beautiful conception.

The pageant will be presented by the residents of Kennett Square including many descendants of the early families mentioned in the novel as well as of Bayard Taylor's family. The production, which is to be given in memory of the poet, will be staged upon the lawn of "Cedarcroft," September 21, 22, 23, there being three afternoon performances and one evening.

Mr. Siebold, in addition to directing the production, has also designed all the stage properties as well as many of the costumes.

For so young a man Mr. Siebold has had much experience along pageants and amateur dramatics; he has written and produced a great many plays and this will be his third pageant in the last two years. He has been associated with a number of the large Shakespeare festivals given in the East, including the wonderful production of Percy MacKaye's "Caliban" in the New York University Stadium.

A dramatic club, "The Eastwood Players," which was organized by him a year ago, is now planning an extensive Shakespeare fete for the fall season.

Mr. Siebold is a member of the Drama League of America, the American Pageant association, the Plays and Players, the Stage Society of Philadelphia, and the Shakespeare Festival Guild of Boston.

In reference to Fort Wayne's recent pageant, Mr. Siebold has said: "Though I regret I had not the pleasure of seeing your splendid civic production, I have read the Book of Words, as well as the many interesting clippings from the "Sentinel" and can only say that were there nothing else in Fort Wayne worthy of recognition, such community spirit as was born to present so wonderful a piece of work, alone, would place Fort Wayne foremost among the cities of America, where the highest ideals of man are fought for and won!"

(By Honor Fanning.)

Paoli, Ind., Aug. 14.—(Staff Special.)—The hollyhocks are blooming around the Radcliffe cottage here in the fastnesses of the Indiana hills. The golden glow tosses streams of gold across the rickety rail fence against the gray unpainted walls of an aged frame cottage.

The little clearing, half the size of a city block, is blazing with color—but there are not flowers enough in even this flower-carpeted forest to brighten the gloom of the Radcliffes.

"That was Lizzie's room," whispered Lizzie Radcliffe's mother, nodding toward the window where the hollyhocks were loveliest. "She liked the hollies, but they are withering, because no one tends them now."

"The apples will be coming red soon," said Lizzie's father. "I reckon no one will bother about this tree"—stroking a gnarled apple tree — "it was Lizzie's tree; she'd gather the apples every fall and sell them to buy a new fall dress."

"And she made preserves better than mother," added Lizzie's sister—"our poor, little Lizzie!"

And so the hollyhocks are wilting, the apples spoil on the ground; there will be empty pantry shelves, and empty, aching hearts, because Lizzie isn't here.

Across the great knob of sand near the cross roads the hollyhocks nod over her new-made grave.

But we have been reading a great deal about her in the newspapers—"The air bubble murder"—"The Radcliffe tragedy"—"Girl murdered by boy sweetheart."

It seems unbelievable, when I see those glaring headlines, that these frightful phrases can refer to the little girl I'm hearing about from the farm folks who knew her so well.

Three generations of Radcliffes lived in the weather-beaten cottage twelve miles out of Paoli, where I went to see Lizzie Radcliffe's mother.

Lizzie's father, Ben Radcliffe, was born in the cottage where he lives today, with his two grown sons, a 20-year-old daughter, Mary, and "Mother."

Neither Mary nor Lizzie ever talked of going to "the city"—Louisville is but twenty-five miles away—as so many country girls do. Their clothes were poor, their pleasures few, but they never complained. Lizzie especially seemed contented to stay home and tend the hollyhocks.

But the city called her. Last October she was sent to Olney, Ill., a town of 6,000 people, 150 miles from the Radcliffe farm. Lizzie went there to live with her married sister, Alice, and help care for Alice's children.

In Olney she wore prettier clothes than she wore back on the farm. There were skating rinks and parties, and this summer there were picnics. The soldier boys were in Olney, preparing to go to the border. Lizzie and her girl chums knew them, and they had much harmless fun while the troops were in town.

But some time, no one knows when, Lizzie met Roy Hinterliter, a boy from West Salem, thirty miles south of Olney. He had a fine team of horses and a smart buggy. The girl he took riding had reason to be proud.

Friday night, July 21, he called after 9 o'clock. An hour later, at the edge of the picturesque old orchard, the ride ended. In an attempt to evade the consequence of their love, and the girl's confidence in him, Hinterliter, it is charged by the police, caused his sweetheart's death. With her dead body in his arms he drove back to town, to the sanitarium, hoping the doctors could revive her.

And the next day in The Sentinel you read the tragic story.

How did it happen—and why? Is there wisdom enough in the world to solve the mystery of the "good girls who go wrong"—the Marion Lamberts and the Lizzie Radcliffes? Was it wrong for Lizzie Radcliffe to be innocent and trusting at 16?

I talked with a good many people here about it, the grocer at the cross roads, and clubwomen in Olney. They are appalled and puzzled.

Most of them believe a girl of 16 should be kept very close to her mother; they point out that in the isolation of the backwoods Lizzie Radcliffe was kept pure and sweet, but she learned nothing of the world and when she faced the world alone she had no knowledge to protect her from evil.

And they sigh, and say how pitifully young is 16—and how pitiless is the world to youth!

More Interurbans for Fort Wayne

To the Editor of The Sentinel:—Everything pertaining to interurban railroads is of interest to the citizens of Fort Wayne. In steam railroads we are only two (2) behind Indianapolis, her 14 against our 12 lines. But in interurbans we are 7 behind, with her 12 against our only 5 lines. Indianapolis is the world's greatest example of the application of electricity to the moving of passenger cars.

I have a good understanding with Mr. J. Levering Jones, of Philadelphia who is aware of my intention to spend some of my own money in surveying two (2) interurban extensions, from the terminus of his seven miles of double track railroad at Robison park, one line north to Leo, Spencerville and Butler, the other line from the same Robison park terminal northeast through Grabill (on the Detroit line of the Wabash) to Hicksville and Bryan, Ohio. At both of these terminals (Butler and Bryan) connections will be made for Toledo and Detroit. These will be good interurbans for Fort Wayne business.

Mr. Glathart, the best locator of interurbans in the state of Ohio, recommended to me by General Manager Smith of the Toledo and Findlay railroad, a fine surveyor, is coming here to drive over these lines with me, and we expect to put some new life into the hearts of Fort Wayne merchants.

SERVE WATER WITH STRAWS.

Hartford City Finds Way to Comply with New Sanitary Law.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 14.—The new sanitary drinking cup order of the state board of health, which prohibits the use of a common drinking cup in public places, has caused several places here to serve water with straws. Individual drinking cups were found to cost about 1 cent each. To eliminate that expense straws have been substituted. The water is drawn in a cup, but the cup never touches the lips. A new straw is given each person.

BUYS TERRE HAUTE BLOCK FOR $750,000

Crawford Fairbanks Purchases Part of McKeen Estate There.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 14.—The largest real estate transaction in the history of Terre Haute has been announced in the sale of the McKeen block, owned by the W. R. McKeen estate, in the heart of the retail business district, to Crawford Fairbanks for a consideration of $750,000, with a cash payment of $650,000. The purchaser assumes a mortgage of $100,000, which, it is said, was placed on the property when William R. McKeen made his unsuccessful race for United States senator in 1897.

The sale was made by the executors of the McKeen estate, S. C. McKeen, president of the McKeen National Bank; W. R. McKeen, president of the McKeen Motor Car Company, of Omaha, and Benjamin McKeen, of Pittsburg, general manager of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg.

Frank McKeen, former president of the bank, who died recently, was an executor, and his death is said to have hastened the negotiations that had been pending for some time.

The property has a frontage on Wabash avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets, of 325 feet, and is regarded as the most desirable business rental property in the city. A five-story building on it was erected nine years ago at a cost of $125,000, and it now is occupied by A. Herz. Other buildings on the property are three stories in height.

The purchase of this property makes Mr. Fairbanks the largest owner of real estate in Terre Haute. His other property includes the Terre Haute house, the Grand opera house and the Tribune building, making his holdings within one block of the corner of Seventh street and Wabash avenue worth easily $1,500,000. All of his real estate is said to be free from incumbrance.

The death of Frank McKeen makes it practically certain that S. C. McKeen, who succeeded him as president of the McKeen National Bank, will be the only heir who will live in Terre Haute. The other heirs wish to have their interest in the estate invested in enterprises of their own, and they decided to dispose of all property as rapidly as possible.

In addition to the brothers who are executors of the estate the heirs include three sisters, Mrs. Horace C. Pugh, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Valentine L. Shuler, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Howard A. Cutler, of Andover, Mass., and Mrs. Mary McKeen, widow of Frank McKeen.

The only step remaining in the transfer of the property is the approval of the sale by the probate court, which can not be obtained until the opening of the September term of the circuit court.

WARMER WEATHER IS PROMISE FOR TUESDAY

The government theremometer reached the seventy-five degree mark again Monday afternoon and a promise was made for slightly warmer weather for Tuesday. It is also probable that Tuesday will bring showers of rain.

Fort Wayne people experienced a very cool night Sunday. The temperature remained at fifty-four from 2 to 5 o'clock Monday morning. This is the coolest that it has been all summer.

For the past few weeks there has been an evening and morning dew. The weather man states that the dews have been very heavy and have been a great benefit to all kinds of vegetation.

From Chicago he intended to come on to Fort Wayne to visit with his parents.

HE SAYS RELIEF WORK DIDN'T GET THE MONEY

New York, Aug. 14.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, H. H. Westinghouse, Daniel Guggenheim and others have been subpoenaed as witnesses in a damage inquiry which the district attorney's office announced today would begin tomorrow into the disposition of $7,000 of funds collected from philanthropic persons by Rev. According to the district attorney, much of the money was used in organization and expense detail of the commission, but none has been expended for the relief work for which it was intended.

WOULD EXTEND LIFE OF PARLIAMENT UNTIL MAY

But Asquith Does Not Move for Changes Regarding Vote Qualifications.

London, Aug. 14.—Premier Asquith introduced in the house of commons today a bill to extend the life of the present parliament for eight months, or until the end of next May.

When the premier made his announcement that he would introduce the bill he said that he intended at the same time to announce the government's proposals regarding registration. Today, however, Mr. Asquith said it was not the purpose of the government to ask parliament at this time to take up alteration of the qualifications for the franchise.

Dealing with a suggestion that the franchise should be extended to all soldiers and munitions workers, Mr. Asquith said there were grave difficulties in the way and that there was serious objections from a military viewpoint to holding a general election among the troops in the field. He added: "General enfranchisement has been brought face to face with another problem. What are we going to do with the women?"

He was bound to say, the premier went on, that representatives of the women had presented to him a perfectly unanswerable question. They were content to abide by the present franchise, but would urge their claims if the qualities for the franchise were altered.

EPIDEMIC OF PINK EYE AMONG HORSES

An epidemic of pink eye among horses has been raging throughout Allen county for the past few weeks but, according to a man of authority, the disease is now under control. There are at present only a few cases scattered in various sections of the county.

Many valuable horses were lost on account of this eye disease. Nearly all the horses in the various livery stables of the city were afflicted but not a one of them died.

A local veterinary surgeon states that owners have been very fortunate this summer, although there were many cases of heat prostration. However, most of them were cured and the fatality rate was very low.

CAPT. SCHEFFER IS EXPECTING ORDERS

Captain John Scheffer, in command of the local artillery organization, Battery D, is expecting orders for mobilization any moment from the adjutant general. He is anticipating the arrival of the orders within a very short time. A statement was made that perhaps they would arrive Monday evening or Tuesday morning, either by mail or by telephone.

The members of the new battery are all anxiously awaiting their arrival. Many are remaining near the headquarters all the time so they will be present when the news comes. The organization has now nearly attained its one hundred and fifty members. Recruits are coming in every day but many of them are being turned down, being unable to pass the physical examination.

FINAL INSPECTION OF LAWNS START

More Than 800 Homes Will Be Visited by Committee This Week.

Myriads of mild-eyed posies that have climbed up over the back porches or stand nodding along the alleyways will do their best to look sweet and lovely this week so that the little hands which have been kind to them this summer may receive a prize. The inspection committee for the city beautification contest, made up of fifty representative women, started their march over the city Monday morning to have a last look at the surroundings of homes from which children are taking part in the contest.

More than eight hundred homes will be visited, in every part of the city. There are 2,000 children in the contest, which closes this week. The several prizes for most beautiful and sanitary home surroundings will be given out on September 7, at the city flower show. Each ward will be given a prize and the grand award will be $50.

There have been three former inspections of lawns since the contest opened early in the spring. Special attention was paid to the original appearance of the surroundings. The inspection now under way will require all week.

FORMER FORT WAYNE PLAYERS GOING GOOD

Former Fort Wayne players continue to make good in their chosen profession. L. B. Loudermilk, a pitcher who is known to every baseball fan of the city and a former member of Bade Myers' Central league team, is pitching ball for the Springfield club of the Central league. Loudermilk was with South Bend until his transfer to the Ohio club. He is a pitcher of class and has pitched many games in Fort Wayne during his stay as a member of the local team.

Fred Bratchi, another of the clan here, a right fielder, is with Muskegon. Bratchi is playing fine ball and is still good for a number of years in the leagues. He formerly played with the Columbus team of the American association.

L. C. Channell, another right fielder of the old Fort Wayne team, is with Buffalo of the International league and is playing some baseball, hitting around .300 and fielding nearly a perfect score. Channell was some ballplayer when he was a member of the team here and from the way he is going now it seems that he is good for several years. Channell had a tryout with the New York Americans two years ago and for some reason he was sent back to Buffalo.

LAND RECLAIMER IS LOUISIANA BOOSTER

Visitor Talks Interestingly on What is Being Done in Southern State.

J. M. Ferris, representing the George A. Hero company, of New Orleans, southern leaders in land reclamation work, was registered at the Hotel Anthony, Monday. He was to visit local realty dealers today, including H. M. Sigrist, who has visited parts of southern Louisiana, in which the company of Mr. Ferris reclaimed land.

In southern Louisiana 9,000,000 acres of land are under water eight months in the year. Much of this water has been drained and the land made is worth $100 upwards an acre, Mr. Ferris states. Some of the best lands in southern Louisiana were once mere decayed vegetation after waters had been drained, he declared.

Various pumping systems have been installed, and levies and canals built to take care of the drainage. The crops in southern Louisiana, Mr. Ferris says, were never excelled, the principal ones being sugar cane, corn and rice.

LITTLE GROUND FOR COMPLAINT ON CROPS

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—The past month has not been all that was desired by the farmers," says the monthly report of George P. Bryant, field agent for the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. "But taking everything into consideration there really should be little complaint. It was almost ideal for the harvest; wheat, rye and oats were cut and threatened under the most favorable conditions. Hay, too, was put away in fine shape. Generally speaking, the wheat will easily grade No. 2. The oats is light, but the hay is the largest in years.

"The severe drought prevailing throughout the month has done some damage to the corn, but taking the crop as a whole it was more benefited than damaged. Showers have occurred since the first of August in the sections where most needed, and now there seems to be no immediate danger of extensive damage.

"Buckwheat is not one of the principal crops of the state, but it may be interesting to note that a considerably larger acreage is out this year with a very good stand and promising good returns.

"Practically all vegetable crops suffered from the extreme heat, but excessive damage was not reported from any particular locality. The fruit crops are not as good as last year. This is principally due to unseasonable weather in the early part of the season.

"The melon crop has made wonderful progress during the month, the hot, dry weather being just what was needed. Conditions in the melon district are exceptionally good at present.

'Tobacco has made good progress, but the showers since the first of the month were needed. Probably the largest crop in several years will be produced if there is no insect damage."

New York Has Morning Temperature of 46 Degrees.

New York, Aug. 14.—This is the coolest August in the history of the local weather bureau. Only once, in 1879, was it cooler on any August day than it was at 6 o'clock this morning when the mercury stood at 46. The temperature rose slowly during the day, reaching 69 at 11:30 a. m. Bathing beaches, summer amusement resorts and open street cars lost popularity. The cool wave will remain indefinitely, the weather bureau says.

WHISTEL WORKS OVERTIME.

The continuous blowing of a Pennsylvania locomotive whistle at 2:45 o'clock Monday morning was taken by many who heard it as a signal of fire or a wreck, and many inquiries as to the cause were made. From the Pennsylvania trainmaster's office it was learned that the whistling was due to the whistle of a locomotive becoming fastened in such manner that it could not be closed. There were no fires or wrecks Sunday night.

POWDER MAGAZINE IN A FORTRESS LETS GO

Curacao, Dutch West Indies, July 30.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Details have reached here of the disaster which occurred July 27 in the fortress of La Vigia, at the Venezuelan seaport of La Guyara, causing the death of about twenty persons.

The powder magazine in the fort on the hill above La Guayara blew up with a terrific explosion and a shower of masonry, debris and artillery shells fell in all directions. In the magazines were stored a large quantity of six-inch shells and hundreds of thousands of rifle cartridges. As this ammunition exploded there continued for three hours bursting of shells and crackling of cartridges.

The government made efforts to suppress information concerning the disaster. It is learned, however, that 16 soldiers and two officers were killed outright in the fort and that one or two civilians met death in the town from flying debris. One of the officers who was under punishment was confined in chains near one of the magazines. A number of persons were injured.

The official explanation of the disaster is that it was due to spontaneous combustion. There are many who believe that revolutionary interests were at the bottom of the disaster.

The newspapers have been forbidden to mention the matter. Half a dozen peons who were discussing it on streets were arrested. After the explosion the police compelled all citizens to leave the town and go into the suburbs.

WEATHER NOW SMASHING RECORDS ON OTHER SIDE

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Following closely the record-breaking heat wave, cool weather, which broke all previous records of the local bureau for August 14 since 1871, had Indiana in its grasp today. The lowest temperature since last midnight was 58 degrees. The previous low records for the same day in past years was 56 degrees on August 14, 1885, and again on the same date in 1893. At 6 o'clock the mercury stood at 54 degrees and at 12 o'clock it had gone up to 74. The cool weather probably will not last long.

PENROSE DEMANDING AN INVESTIGATION

Carries Republican Fight on Wilson's Appointments Farther.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Senator Penrose carried the republican attack on President Wilson's appointments a step farther today by introducing resolutions calling for investigation of appointments with waivers of civil service requirements.

Senator Weeks, republican, today continued his attack on the ship bill, assailing particularly the provisions which will admit foreign built vessels to the American coatswise trade. The senate continued work on the bill. "This bill constitutes a virtual declaration of war by the government on the ship building industry in this country," said Senator Gallinger, republican leader. "This determined attempt to force the government into the commercial shipping business is a startling and dangerous step toward socialism."

Senator Chilton today introduced a bill to appropriate $200,000 for relief of victims in the recent flood in West Virginia. It was referred to the appropriations committee. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania suggested facetiously that an amendment be added to appropriate $500,000 for Pittsburgh, which "suffered from a recent thunderstorm."

ROOF MAY BE BUILT OVER THE RESERVOIR

Mayor Hosey and members of the board of works are figuring on the construction of a roof, to cost about $17,000, over the top of the city reservoir. They have ordered City Engineer Randall to prepare estimates and tentative plans for the proposed covering of the big basin.

They have been assured, Mayor Hosey says, that the nuisance of worms and bugs in the city water can be stopped completely by building a protecting canopy over the million gallon tank. The worms sometimes found in the water come from insects which alight on the top surface of the reservoir tank, it has been explained to Mayor Hosey and members of the works board. A roof over the tank would be the most effective way of keeping out bugs of all kinds, it has been decided.

A covering for the reservoir if made of lasting material will cost about $17,000, board members say. If they carry out present plans work on the big roof will be carried on this fall. They have been told by health experts that there is no menace from the worms sometimes discovered in water drawn from the city mains, but it is the desire of city officials to rid the city of the nuisance.

Mayor Hosey and members of the works board consulted with W. H. Collins, of Detroit, traveling salesman for waterworks accessories, and whose territory is northern United States and southern Canada, Monday. He said that Fort Wayne is considered to have an excellent water supply. The method of roofing storage basins has been carried out in a few cities, he said, and proven successful.

Work on Spillway Started.

Work of building a spillway at the top of the reservoir started Monday morning. A conical shaped ditch is being cut at the top of the big tank and is to be connected up with fifteen inch pipe. When water is within four feet of the top of the reservoir it will start to overflow and be carried down the spillway.

It is the plan to carry the water away in the large pipe and empty it into the lake in the center of Reservoir park. The water supply in the lake will be constantly freshened by the overflow. Water can be pumped continually when the spillway has been completed, in about two weeks.

SOME LIVELY GAMES IN THE SHOP LEAGUE

SATURDAY'S RESULTS.

Turners, 4; Dudlo, 0.

The Bowser and Electric works rested Saturday because of the Electric works, picnic at Cedar Point, while the Western Gas and Turners grabbed another victory. The first half champions trampled on the Pennsylvanians by the score of 9 to 3. The champs were in no danger at any stage of the contest although the Pennsys grabbed a run in the last frame, making the contest look like one of those sensational last inning rallies, but the champs nipped the growth in the bud, allowing only the one score. Both teams hit well, the losers knocking the pill for eleven safety swats while the Western Gas made thirteen count. Heine, of the Western Gas, connected three times, one a two-bagger. Soliday, of the Pennys, came through with three safe ones. The game was a good scrap.

The Turners had two firing men in the box, Zoll and Grimes. Both of these men pitched true to form, keeping the game well on ice. Zoll was the feature of the game, pitching five innings with only one hit. Grimes took up the duty then and finished the game. The contest was exciting as all shutout victories are, and when the ninth ended with the score of 4 to 0 the clubmen heaved a big sigh. The Dudlos fought all the way and at times looked good for a score but only to be put out by some brilliant play of the Turners. Weisbecker held the clubmen to eleven hits and pitched good ball, although his team was shut out. The Turner infield performed in grand style, breaking into the limelight with three double plays. FORT WAYNE TAKES CONTEST FROM BUTLER

Clearyites Are on Job and Take Advantage of Visitors' Stage Fright.

The Fort Wayne city team came near being defeated Sunday when the team played the Butler Blues. Although the Clearyites won by the score of 4 to 3, they were scared many times by the hard hitting crew from Butler. Fort Wayne played baseball all during the contest and were not allowed to loaf at any interval. The new infield showed the fans that the semi-pro ball here is as good as any baseball they will find anywhere. Dornick and Weberus were the unfortunates to make errors, but they made up for them in other departments of the game. Weberus made the first run with a sprint from first across the home plate and he was moving some, too. John came through with a safe one when it counted and was forgiven for his error.

The visitors need not have brought anything else along with them but their pitcher, Olds. He was the whole team, inasmuch as his team gave him no support at all until near the end of the game. Olds is the best thing that has struck this town this season. The sidewheeler has a drop that is a wonder, with which he fanned eleven of the home tossers. The visiting hurler was going fine and made his Fort Wayne debut memorable for he held the locals to five hits and seemed to do it with ease.

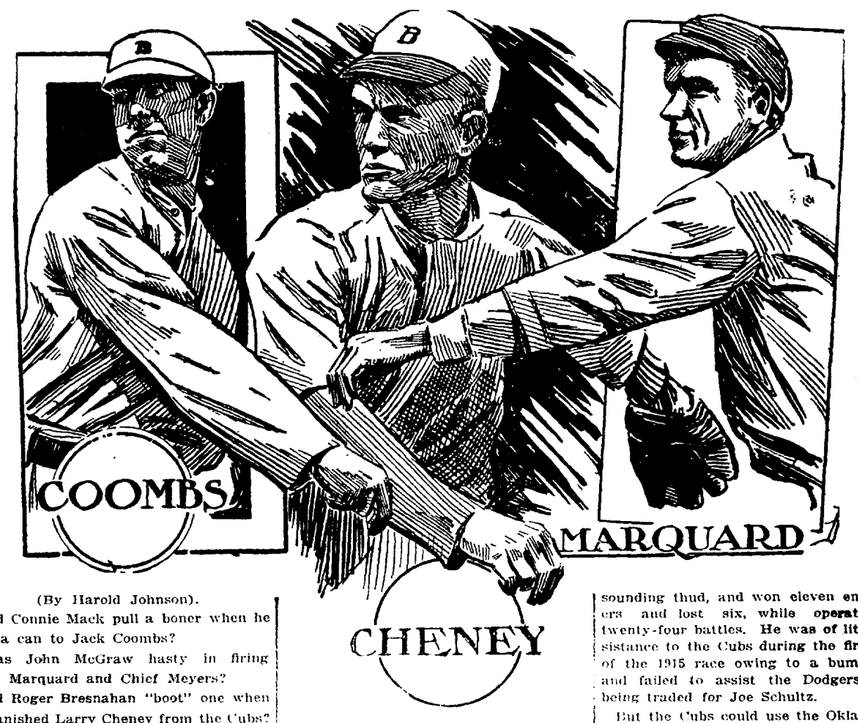
WABASH TO HAVE GYMNASIUM.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 14.—Plans are being made for a new gymnasium at Wabash college. Herbert Foltz, an Indianapolis architect, has been employed to prepare tentative plans and Dr. G. L. McIntosh, president of the college, said he expected the construction work will begin within a month or two. Efforts will be made to have the building ready by the opening of the basketball season.

DISCARDS MAY WIN PENNANT FOR DODGERS

CHENEY, COOMBS, MARQUARD AND MEYERS, DROPPED AS DEAD TIMBER, STAR AS COMEBACKS ON ROBINSON'S TEAM.



(By Harold Johnson).

Did Connie Mack pull a boner when he tied a can to Jack Coombs?

Was John McGraw hasty in firing Rube Marquard and Chief Meyers?

Did Roger Bresnahan "boot" one when he banished Larry Cheney from the Cubs?

Every time he ponders these questions Col. Wilbert Robinson laughs in his sleeve. For it is to laugh, says the Brooklyn manager, when you contemplate the performances of this quartet in his club's present pennant dash.

If Brooklyn cops the flag discards must be given credit for the veterans cast adrift by the Cubs, Athletics and Giants have made title contenders of the Dodger machine.

Each of the above quartet had worn out his welcome on the club with which he played prior to entering Robinson's family, but like scores of other diamond greats, they came back in new environments.

Coombs, a cripple, the result of overwork in the role of Mack's iron-man pitcher, has found himself again, and though not worked as often as other members of the Brooklyn staff, has been a prime factor in the club's march of triumph. In seventeen games the Kennebunk marvel has turned in ten winners as against four defeats. That's fair to middlin' pitching for a man supposed to have one foot in his grave.

Cheney, for years the mainstay of the Cub machine, has come back with a resounding thud, and won eleven encounters and lost six, while operating in twenty-four battles. He was of little assistance to the Cubs during the first half of the 1915 race owing to a bum knee, and failed to assist the Dodgers after being traded for Joe Schultz.

But the Cubs could use the Oklahoman to good advantage this summer.

Marquard and Meyers, once the prize battery of the New York Giants, have profited by the change from Coogan's Bluff to Flatbush, and while the noble aboriginie hasn't slammed the ball with the same fierceness and regularity that marked his efforts for McGraw, he has been a prominent factor in the catching department and has hustled like a yearling since the bell rang last April.

Marquard ranks eleventh among the pitching stars of the National, and in eighteen battles has won seven and lost two. He's a tower of strength, however, in the role of a rescuer.

NAGS GALLOP AT COLUMBUS.

Columbus, O., Aug. 14.—The fifth meeting of the 1916 Grand circuit racing will open here Monday under the auspices of the Columbus Driving Park company. Pacers and trotters of the circuit are here for the opening numbers. Nineteen events composed the program of the week's speed competition. All the events are filled with well rounded fields, only a few of the colt class heats having a small number of starters. Some of the fields of aged performers are expected to be so large that division will be necessary.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

JIMMY VIOX, PITTSBURG PIRATES:

"Fred Clarke once had a funny run-in with an umpire. During an exchange of words the umpire came back with: 'Well, you are some ball player, you are, old boy.'

"'And you are some umpire, you are, old boy,' Clarke shot back. 'To tell the truth, you are a model umpire; no joshing.'

"'Think so?' answered the ump, seriously. 'Yes, indeed,' said Clarke. 'Just take a peek in your dictionary tonight and see if I'm not right.'

"'Say, you got me wrong, old boy,' said the umpire the next day. 'You don't know what a model is, do you?'

SHERWOOD MAGEE, OF THE BOSTON BRAVES:

"No team can hit on the Boston National league grounds. The fence is so far from the plate and the slopes so great from the infield to the fence that the batter can just about see the top of the fence in center field.

"If the fence was about twenty feet higher it would be a great field for batsmen, but as it is now there is nothing but the sky for a background. There isn't even a building in back of the wall in sight of the batter. How is a batter going to hit a brand new white ball looking into a skyline of the same color?"

"It is almost impossible to guage any kind of a ball as there is no background of any description."

BOB SHAWKEY, NEW YORK YANKEES:

"Did it ever occur to you that the pitchers who are asked to warm up continually are in better shape than the regulars who rush out and work a couple of innings to be prepared in case of emergency?

"I follow a system that has been very beneficial. Near the end of every game I go down to the bullpen and warm up for two or three innings whether I am going to pitch or not. Consequently I am ready and the moment the game is over I beat it to the shower and get all the benefits of a short workout.

BEST SWIMMERS IN A. A. U. CHICAGO MEET

Chicago, Aug. 14—With the best swimmers from all over the country already on hand, three national A. A. U. championship events were started Saturday at the South Shore Country club, of which Frank Sullivan, swimming instructor at Princeton university, is in charge.

The events to be decided will be the high diving for men and women and the 440-yard swim for women. In addition, the best swimmers in the local high and preparatory schools will compete in the 100-yard open interscholastic swim for the championship of Chicago.

This will be the first time in the history of A. A. U. athletics that championships for women have been held in Chicago. In the quarter-mile swim Miss Claire Galligan, of the National Women's Life Saving League of New York, rules a strong favorite, while Miss Jacqueline Thompson, the little mermaid from Evanston, is expected to give the easterner an interesting race. Miss Violet Wilson, of the Sinai Life Saving club, and Miss Thelma Etta Darby, of Indianapolis, are others entered.

Miss Evelyn Burnett, of St. Louis, rules the favorite for the honors in the national A. A. U. high diving event for women. The diver from the Mound City will receive keen competition from Miss Amber Meath, of the Sinai Life Saving club, and Mrs. Pearl M. Stokes, both of whom are divers of local prominence.

According to A. A. rules the contestants will be compelled to make five compulsory dives and the same number which are voluntary. Points will be scored according to the way the contestants approach the takeoff, their form in the air, and the manner in which they strike the water.

"DON'T BOYCOTT BAKER SAYS HEAD OF LEAGUE

(Staff Special).

New York, Aug. 14.—"My advice to housewives is: DON'T BOYCOTT BAKERS' BREAD—YET!"

So declared Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league with a membership of 7,000,000 housewives in all parts of the country, when she announced today her policy toward the action of the master bakers' association in an attempt to do away with the 5-cent loaf of bread entirely and substitute the 10-cent loaf.

MRS. JULIAN HEATH

"The Housewives' league will not consider a boycott before an investigation I have just ordered is completed," Mrs. Heath said.

"If bakers were boycotted the substitute for their services would be simple. The housewife could bake her own bread. But it is possible the action of the bakers is along the line of progress and economy. I believe in a standard 10-cent price for bread rather than a 5-cent price. There is greater economy in it for all concerned.

"The small 5-cent loaf costs as much to wrap, handle and deliver as the 10-cent loaf and with the price of labor, flour, oil and other materials rising, the bakers may fairly plead that perhaps a penny should be added to the cost of the small loaf while the purchaser of the larger quantity should receive it at little smaller price in proportion to the amount received.

"This is an inevitable economic condition. The consumer finds that all commodities are cheaper if purchased in large quantities. But while in the case of ice, milk and butter, housewives of very small means cannot possibly buy and keep the larger quantities, nearly every housewive can afford to buy the 10-cent loaf.

"By a 10-cent loaf I do not mean a loaf of standard size. We have always advocated a standard price and have always recognized that the baker should be allowed to vary the size of the loaf he sells at that price. This is fair because the baker's raw materials constantly fluctuate in price.

"But a sure way to prevent exploitation under this system would be to compel the baker to LABEL EACH LOAF SOLD AT THE STANDARD 10-CENT PRICE WITH ITS EXACT WEIGHT!

"From the housewives' point of view, why should we not have the 10-cent loaf Bakers' bread is more healthful the second day than the first and every family will consume practically all of a 10-cent loaf within two days.

"Even if a little remains it is never wasted. Dry bread is best for toast. It can be used also for French toast—a breakfast in itself. Stale bread can always be kept and used up in breaded meat and fish, in dressings with roasts and steaks, on top of shirred eggs and for all sorts of desserts from simple bread pudding to Brown Betty.

"There should never be the slightest waste in bread. There is only one danger and that is that bakers might juggle the thing and use the 10-cent standard as a means to conceal an unfair profit.

"But the Housewives' league is investigating this. If price juggling and reduction of the nutritive value of bread is proved, a boycott on bakers' bread might have the same quick effect our famous boycott of eggs did in bringing the price back to rock bottom!"

WOMEN IN FIGHT.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Rachel Heddinger, of Etna Green, came to Warsaw on Saturday to file an affidavit against Ellen Reed, of Etna Green, for assault and battery. Mrs. Heddinger's left eye and cheek gave ample evidence that the fight in which the two women engaged was far from a tame affair. According to Mrs. Heddinger's story, she was walking on an Etna Green sidewalk at about 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening and met Mrs. Reed. She says she stepped to one side of the sidewalk to allow Mrs. Reed to pass. She says Mrs. Reed attacked her, knocking her down and beating her up badly. She charges that Mrs. Reed continued to beat her until a neighbor arrived and ordered her to stop. Mrs. Heddinger says she was forced to go to a doctor and to have her wounds dressed and was afraid to return to her home, coming to Warsaw early Saturday to file an affidavit for Mrs. Reed's arrest.

FREE FROM BLIGHT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Indiana has been found to be entirely free from white pine blister, a blight affecting pine trees and currant bushes. The federal government a few months ago assigned several men to investigate and assist the state entomologist in fighting the blister, but when they arrived here none was to be found. The men were ordered to other states.

The last time the blister appeared in Indiana was six years ago when a nursery was found to be infected. Everything which could have come in contact with the blight was burned immediately. Shipments of pines into the state have been watched closely since and in that way the blister has not been allowed to enter.

The only specimen of it in the state as far as known is that in sealed jars in the office of the entomologist in the state house. The fact that the state is free from the disease caused the federal men to say that Indiana is doing more in the way of prevention with the $15,000 available each year for the entomoligist's department than many states are able to do with several hundred thousand of dollars for cures after a blight has started.

REPRODUCE LOG CABIN.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Plans are being considered at the suggestion of Dr. F. B. Wynn, of the state centennial committee, to reproduce as near as possible like the original the first log cabin built on the site of Indianapolis. The cabin stood on a little triangle of ground now bounded by the river, Washington street and National avenue. It long has been torn down, and recently a flood prevention levee has been built near where it stood. The commission which selected Indianapolis as the state capital met in the cabin. The plans are being supervised by the Indianapolis park board.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 14.—The annual state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the ladies' auxiliary to the order will be held here Aug. 29, 3 0and 31. Plans for the convention practically have been completed. Elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors are being made.

MERCHANTS' CONGRESS.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Announcement has been made of a three-day merchants' congress for better business, to be held in Indianapolis in September, the exact date to be selected later. The plans are under the auspices of the Indianapolis Advertisers' club. The congress will be a short course in merchandising for Indiana cities. The affair is to be state wide. Twenty commercial secretaries from different cities are expected to bring from five to thirty commercial business men with them to attend the congress. Advertising, better buying and better selling, training of clerks, importance of rapid turnover of stock, and meeting mail order competition will be among the subjects to be considered.

RUMORS OF BURIED GOLD.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Rumors and and visions of buried gold in the old Straight Homestead on East Washington street, once the National Road, have caused hundreds to visit the vacant house and ransack it from cellar to garret. Workmen recently have been engaged in tearing the house down, and the buried wealth seekers became such a nuisance they had to be excluded. They began to make visits at night. The last of the Straight family died a few years ago and the homestead, at one time one of the mansions of the city, has been vacant.

MUCH CEDAR RUST.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Cedar rust, a fungus disease, is stirring up considerable consternation among apple growers in the southern part of the state, according to information received by Frank N. Wallace, State entomologist. The growers are reported to be considering asking the next legislature to regulate the distance of red cedar trees from apple orchards. While orchards of many acres are said to be affected by the blight, the state officials have taken action to fight the disease.

WATCHING MILK AND CREAM.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Hot weather and short pasturage have caused the state officials to begin watching for milk and cream below the standard fixed by law. Several such samples have been examined. It is said that the examination of some samples has led to the suspicion that milk is being skimmed to get the cream for the butter fat, and the milk then sold for whole milk. Prosecutions are threatened in flagrant cases. Milk and cream prices have been raised by dairymen in many parts of the state.

The power development of the government irrigation projects amounts to 35,000 horse power.

After Eating Snakes All Day, Makes Demand for Square Meal.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 14.—After he had eaten snakes all day for the amusement of Sunday fair ground visitors, "Yahoee, a Brazilian wild man," whose real name is Samuel Smith, colored, of Louisville, Ky., demanded that his two employers buy him a square meal. They refused and one of them is in a local hospital. Smith assaulted them. He escaped with a box of snakes. Elwood, being without a colored population, has been unable to provide a substitute for the "wild man."

WILL EXCHANGE ENGINES IN YARDS

Nickel Plate is Installing Cross-Overs West of L. E. & W. Tracks.

The Moellering Construction company put its large steam dredge and a big force of men and teams at work today in making the excavation for the Osage street subway at the Nickel Plate yards, south of the tracks, which will practically close the excavation part of the work of that improvement. The company also commenced building the subway wall on the north side of the yards, excavation there having been completed for some days. Another improvement at the west Nickel Plate yards which commenced this morning is the construction of cross-over tracks from the passenger main track to the yards proper, which are to be placed west of the Lake Erie and Western tracks. When these crossover tracks are in position, passenger trains will stop there to exchange engines. The exchange is now made near the depot. Years ago, when the road was young and had only one passenger train, the exchange of engines was affected at the west yards.

TO BE APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED

Labor Day Committees at Work on Program for Event.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will appropriately observe Labor Day this year and already the program has been "mapped out," though many of the details remain to be looked after. The consensus of opinion is that it should partake of the character of an old fashioned picnic, some races and athletic events and to carry out this idea, the Amateur Driving club has been invited and has agreed to put on a number of interesting horse races and events, but has not completed the list and is not in position at present to announce the number and character of the different events. The federation committee has arranged an athletic program of nine numbers, as follows:

Fifty yard dash, girls 12 to 16 years. Silk waist.

Pie eating contest, boys 12 years and under. Roller skates.

The committee also contemplates an all-day picnic, at which whole families will take the necessaries for dinner and supper and prepare for a good, sociable time. The picnic will be held at Centlivre park.

Knothe, assistant secretary, booked an order from parties in Columbus and Marion, Ohio, for two large dredges and a sectional steel boat twenty-four feet wide, eighty-eight feet long and six and a half feet deep, the total weight being over 400,000 pounds. This machinery is intended for use in the swamps in Missouri and Mississippi and is especially adapted for work there because of the great strength of the dredges and their ability to handle timbers, which are frequently encountered in dredging work in those states.

THE Whitesburg, Ky., company of state militia has been mustered out. The members considered the work for which this company was organized had been completed, they failed to meet regularly to drill. The state authorities considered their work well and permanently done. The company, when it was mustered out recently, was composed of sons and relatives of men who were the original members.

That is the way a news item might be written. Ordinarily, the local newspaper of a town that boasts of a company of militia, would add to this item the names of the men. The metropolitan newspapers of a state in which a company of militia is disbanded would use a bare mention of the fact if the item did not get lost.

But the Whitesburg company did work that is nationally famous.

The fact that it has been mustered out means volumes to those who reside in Eastern Kentucky.

To those who once resided in Eastern Kentucky, many of whom will never dare return, it recalls deeds that are never discussed except far away from the scenes. To many of the exiles, the news means that possibly they can return, perhaps to fight again.

TO many, the fact that the company recently was composed mostly of sons and relatives of the original members would be significant. That in itself shows the spirit of the Kentucky mountaineer—"Sons and Relatives." It is the feud spirit that will last at least through the present generation.

The Whitesburg Company of the Kentucky National Guard was organized in 1892, a long time ago in Kentucky mountain history, to exterminate a band of Ku Klux Klan which was terrorizing Letcher and adjoining counties, and whose influence was growing constantly. The Whitesburg company immediately began waging a conflict similar to the United States punitive expedition into Mexico. That is why only sons and relatives belonged to the company in 1916.

The deed that caused the formation of the company was the assassination of twelve persons —men, women and children—as they rode in a wagon along a lonely mountain trail near Whitesburg.

This aroused all Eastern Kentucky and the company of militia was immediately formed.

In the same county, but not connected with "Killing Rock," as the boulder has been known since the massacre, is a cemetery containing thirty graves. Twenty-nine of those buried were murdered, it is stated by people who live in the county.

Ku Klux Bred by Feuds

BEGINNING now on the feuds of the Kentucky mountains, and especially the Ku Klux Klan, it can be said in the outset that every county in that vast region can recite of dastardly crimes and assassinations of the Bloody K. K. K., as it is often termed. Breathitt County saw her exciting days during the Cockrell-Hargis feud. She has also been affected with more or less Ku Klux Klan depredations.

Pike County on the east saw her Hatfield-McCoy feud waged with deathly fervor for the ten long years of its reign. The Hatfield-McCoy feud has been halted indefinitely, but there are yet sympathizers in both factions that delight in relating of the doings of each other with a burning hatred that may one day terminate in something desperate to the peace and quietude of Pike County. Pike has also been the "hot bed" of action for many Ku Klux Klan depredations.

Perry County, on the south, witnessed her dark days of terror during the fifteen long years of the French-Eversole feud—the war that entirely exterminated both factions of the feud—and, as has been said, "Dead men tell no tales."

Fifty persons were killed, while every effort to suppress the lawlessness rampant during the terrible onslaught was without avail. The last victim was Judge Josiah Combs, past 70, assassinated as he sat at his supper table in his home in the town of Hazard, enjoying his supper meal.

Some years later there was an occasional outbreak of the Ku Klux Klan in Perry County, and a number of innocent, helpless women were mistreated. Then the lawbreakers "dispersed" into Bloody Breathitt County. Harlan County, on the southeast, has had a feud—the Howard-Eversole vendetta that waged for five years or more. At least forty persons were killed. Knott County on the north was the scene of the Jones-Wright feud war of ten years' duration.

More Than Thirty Slain

DETECTIVE JOHN W. WRIGHT of Letcher County, who has done more to bring the Ku Klux Klan war to a close than any other man in the state, commanded the forces on the Wright side in this memorable conflict.

Several skirmishes were fought over the Knott border in Letcher County during the war—the war which put more than thirty people sleeping on the hillsides.

From the organization of the Ku Klux Klan in Letcher County in the year 1880 up to 1892—a reign of twelve years—many murders and robberies were committed.

During these years a spirit of contention was being waged between Dr. M. B. Taylor, once a noted mountain physician, and Cal and Hanan Flemings, brothers, on one side, and the family of Ira Mullins, seven strong, on the other. It was on a beautiful summer morning, June 13, 1892, that the enemy, Dr. Taylor, and the Flemings, lay in wait in a secluded spot near the public roadway on Cumberland Mountains, leading across into Virginia. For days they lay in wait.

The Mullins were driving in a wagon. At length the quietude of the mountains were wrought in confusion, its stillness reverberated by hundreds of rifle shots from the outlaws, and the lives of six of the family of seven were forfeited. Here is the scene that met the eyes of the hundreds who were called to the lonely mountain trail.

Ira Mullins, the head of the household, lay gasping for his last breath across the breast of his devoted wife, who was dead. Two balls had pierced her heart. Near by lay the prostrate form of Eva Mullins, the 17-year-old daughter. One ball had pierced her forehead. On the opposite side lay two sons and a daughter-in-law dead. John Harrison Mullins, 9 years old, the only surviving member, jumped from the shackly old wagon just as the firing was begun and fled for his life.

Shot after shot was fired at him as he disappeared into the underbrush. Two balls pierced the crown of his hat and a third cut his suspender in twain.

An Enemy to End of Time

TODAY, with tears trickling down his cheeks, John Harrison Mullins recites the experiences of that day, while now and forever, even after death, he swears, Mullins is an avowed enemy of the Ku Klux Klan. He has sworn by a higher power that he will fight them to a finish for all time, and, like most mountaineers, Mullins has been true to his words, his convictions. Time nor change can effect nothing in this case.

Three months later it became known that Dr. Taylor and the Flemings were Ku Klux Klan members, were avowed enemies of the Mullins family, and had not been seen since the day before the day of battle. Several notable circumstances were shown that these men were guilty of the murder of the Mullins family, and must be proven so, otherwise a dark blot would be cast upon the officials of the two commonwealths, Kentucky and Virginia.

Wise County and the State of Virginia offered rewards of $500 for each outlaw, while the State of Kentucky and Letcher County put on another $500 for each. Detectives and county sheriffs began systematic searches.

For months the search was kept up. At length the outlaws were found near Canden-on-the-Gauley River, Greenbrier County, West Virginia, heavily fortified.

The officers knew that to charge on them meant death, as they had a wagon load of munitions stored in their retreat. At length a charge was made, which resulted in a glorious victory for the officers. Dr. Taylor, the decided leader, was captured; Cal Flemings was captured and Henan Flemings was wounded, and he gave up in the thickest of the battle.

They were brought to Wise Courthouse, Virginia, and placed in the County Jail amid the most intense excitement that was ever known there. In January following, they were tried in the Wise County Court.

Dr. Taylor received a death sentence, while the two Flemings brothers were each given life sentences in the Virginia Penitentiary. In October, the same year, Dr. Taylor was hanged for his participation in the crime of the Mullins family, thus the chapter in one of the most exciting murders in the history of the Ku Klux Klan depredations was closed. The hanging of Taylor and the life sentences of the Flemings inspired new life and hatred in the veins of the remaining Ku Klux Klan members, but for a time there was quiet in the camps.

Nearly Every Home Robbed

TWO years later, however, the Ku Klux Klan faction showed a membership of perhaps 200 in Letcher County alone, while each of the adjoining counties contained more or less Ku Klux Klan members. From 1895 to the spring of 1900, more than almost the whole of the mountains' peaceful homes were pillaged, farmers were robbed, innocent and helpless women were made the victims of the most inhuman treatment from the hands of the outlaw band. During this period there were many murders committed by the Klan.

In 1901, it seemed as if the Ku Klux Klan faction had broken out anew, and during the first six months of the year fully fifty helpless women were made the victims of their brutal mistreatment, while half as many men were flogged until Eastern Kentucky became a disgrace.

Perhaps twenty persons were killed in Letcher County alone. Operations in this county were along Boone's Fork and Rockhouse creeks and adjacent territory.

It was on Boone's Fork that on a cold night in the month of January, 1901, that Mrs. Jemima Hall, a respectable widow, aged 60, and her 14-year-old son, Sherwood Reynolds, were murdered by the Ku Klux Klan. First, the outlaws robbed the poor woman, then dragged her in her night robe out into the snow and whipped her until she died. Her young son offered resistance and they shot him dead on the ground. They dispersed into the mountain fastnesses, leaving the bodies alone in the snow.

At length it was suspected that John Reynolds was a leader in the depredations, and this was detailed to Gov. Beckham. He likewise placed a reward of $1000 each upon the heads of two Reynolds and a Potter, while $500 was placed upon the remaining thirteen. A few days later, and at the exact moment that Senator William Goebel fell in the Capitol square in Frankfort, William S. Wright, a prominent and wealthy logging man, likewise fell from the bands of assassins as he was riding along the public road near his home, en route to work on Boone's Fork Creek, in the heart of the Ku Klux Klan region.

Entire State Indignant

HUNDREDS of other depredations were committed throughout the county, but the assassination of Wright caused a wave of indignation to sweep over the entire state. One a frosty night in November of the previous year, George Sexton, a blind mail carrier, was called from his home on the Camp Branch Creek at midnight and most horribly whipped. A brother, however, rushed to the scene, procured medical aid and saved his life.

In the same month the band whipped a dozen or more of helpless women in the vicinity and made the nights hideous by the constant fire of their rifle. A few nights later the home of Mr. Rowlet Hale, postmaster at Rockhouse, was fired into, and the family were given a close escape. A steam grist mill and a number of pretty homes were burned in the neighborhood of Rockhouse Creek.

Leaving that section, the Ku Klux Klan members moved to Boone's Fork in the upper part of the county, where they were to renew hostilities. On the second night after their arrival at Boone's Fork they entered the home of John P. Craft, a respectable river farmer, and whipped Mrs. Della Craft and Sarah Cleek, a servant at the Craft home. Hickory clubs were used until the victims were half dead.

A mob of enraged citizens was organized, and went in pursuit of the outlaws. The citizens' band overtook the outlaws at Boone Hill at the mouth of Boone's Fork, a noted camping site, and exactly at the midnight hour, in the moonlight, a fierce, desperate, hand-to-hand battle was fought.

Lead was pumped at both factions for half an hour. In the terrible conflict three horses were killed. One of them proved to be a fine steed, the property of Blaine Combs, but he was believed not to have been a member of the band. It will be remembered that Combs was killed on the streets of Manchester, Clay County, a year ago.

Another murder in the Boone Hill conflict was that of Louis Lucas, whose death was kept a secret for several months. From trails of blood that led into the mountain fastnesses it was evident that others of the outlaws were shot and wounded. However, the extent of the work accomplished in this battle will never be known. Previous to this conflict it was not known that any of the Lucas' were involved.

In April, 1901, the law-abiding element in every corner of the state declared that lawlessness by the Ku Klux Klan in the Letcher County mountains must stop.

Gov. Beckham placed an ample reward upon the heads of all the members of the outlaw band. A detective, John W. Wright, a fearless officer, who has landed more criminals to justice than any other man in the South, was first to volunteer his services.

At length an officers' posse was organized, comprising fifteen men. With Wright in the lead, and with a bountiful supply of munitions, they went into the Boone's Fork Mountains, bent on running the outlaw band to earth at a risk of their lives. After days of ceaseless search the band was found in a fortification in a cave on the leading mountain spur between Millstone Creek and Boone Fork.

Boy, 17, Is Killed

HOWEVER, when the officers' posse confronted the outlaws the latter opened fire. For half an hour a desperate battle waged. A reputed leader of the Ku Klux Klan was a crack marksman, having won many prizes while in camp at Chickamauga Park, Ga., during the Spanish-American war.

When the smoke cleared away young Willie Wright, 17-year-old son of the late William S. Wright, assassinated by the Reynolds faction, lay dead upon the ground, a steel ball having pierced his abdomen. To avenge his father's death, young Wright had joined the officers' posse. Isaac Milliard of Pike County, the second victim, lay dead. He was of the officers' posse. John Henry Elkins, a deputy sheriff of Letcher County, was desperately wounded. The fourth victim was dangerously wounded.

Ku Kluxer John Reynolds was mortally wounded, and was carried to the settlements by the officers' posse, who guarded him for weeks, between life and death, when he at length recovered.

Willie Wright died before he realized that a ball from his rifle had given John Reynolds, his picked man, a desperate wound, but it did. Reynolds, at length recovered, was tried and given a life sentence in the Kentucky Penitentiary. He is now serving his sentence. Following this battle, indignation was aroused in every section of the commonwealth, and a company of state militia, comprising the best men in the county, was organized and equipped for immediate service. For over six months excitement ran high.

At length, and at a time when all of the Ku Klux Klan members seemed determined to die with their boots on, they gave up to the officers, at least five of them.

George Cook, relative or Bill Cook; John and Martin Bently, Dal Johnson and son, Newsome, after they were assured of absolute protection from mob rule.

After a close chase and a heated engagement, Mart and John Wright, Jr., relative to John W. Wright, the detective, gave up to the officers' posse. Thus, with John Reynolds, being confined in a hospital, eight of the desperate Ku Klux Klan were apprehended to await a just and impartial trial. Later Lige and Sol Flemings were apprehended at a country dance on Boones Fork. A desperate battle was narrowly averted.

A Reynolds, who was reputed to be the leader of the Ku Klux Klan at this time, had disappeared as completely as if the earth had swallowed him up. Even his aged mother, his young wife and children knew nothing of his whereabouts. They even mourned him as dead.

The Ku Klux Klan members were removed to Pineville, Bell County, as justice could not have been given them in the home county, owing to the intense excitement that was prevalent. They were all tried separately, and each received life sentences in the Kentucky Penitentiary.

Girls Fight with Rifles

IN many of the battles with the Ku Klux Klan, girls, scarcely out of their teens, have been known to take part in the skirmishes. In one of the fiercest battles at Boones Fork Miss Neva Johnson, barely 17, proved herself a heroine. In the thickest of the battle she rushed into the conflict, rifle in hand, and opened fire. She was the last to retreat, and it is superfluous to say her efforts were effective.

During the reign of the Ku Klux Klan in Knott County the outlaws attacked the home of H. C. Moore, a prosperous farmer, in his absence from home. His 16-year-old daughter rushed outside, killed one of the outlaws with a club, and, wresting his rifle from him, drove the outlaws away.

During the same month Virginia Bill Fraley, past 80, living on Upper Troublesome Creek, in Knott County, was robbed and later murdered by the Ku Klux Klan. His wife, two years his junior, interfered and she was whipped.

This outrage caused much excitement among the law-abiding element of Knott County.

"As long as the present generation survives there will be more or less Ku Klux Klan blood existing in the whole of Eastern Kentucky," spoke a prominent official of Letcher County to the writer recently. That official knew more of the conditions of Eastern Kentucky and her people than any other man in it. There are occasional outbreaks in Pike, Perry, Harlan and Knott.

• • •

Woman Brutally Whipped

IN the June following Mrs. Mary Vanover was unmercifully whipped at her home on Lower Elkhorn Creek. Two residences were burned by the Klan on Elkhorn Creek in the same month, and not an arrest was made.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 14.—On the surface there were no indications at the outset of today's trading that Wall street is unduly apprehensive over the more serious aspect of the railway labor situation. Leading transportation issues like Reading and Union Pacific were only fractionally lower with no material changes in others of the same group. Shipping stocks added to their recessions of last week, Marine preferred yielding over a point, with heaviness in the common. Coppers were steady but American Zinc lost two points. United States Steel shaded moderately with extensive offerings of Anglo-French 5s at a slight concession.

Reading became the central feature of the forenoon on its advance of 2½ points to 104¾. Buying of the stock, according to gossip of the board room, was of the most substantial character and stimulated other active issues. This was particularly true of metals, equipments and the Mexican group. Bond dealings, aside from International issues, were nominal. U. S. 5s advanced five points.

Allentown, Pa., has dedicated a new $500,000 high school.

POLICE CHIEF TAKEN AFTER DRUGSTORE RAID

Marion, Ind., Aug. 14.—Steps will be taken today to attack the injunction issued from the court of Judge VanAtta against Chief of Police Ben O. Phillips and his force restraining them from molesting a stock of whisky stored in the W. A. Dugan drug store, North Branston street, part of which was removed to the county jail Saturday night despite the injunction, and which action led to the arrest of the police chief upon a charge of contempt of court. Tried after midnight last night, Chief Phillips agreed to abide by the injunction so long as it stood, and if found sufficient, to return the liquor which he had confiscated and stored in the basement of the county jail.

There were no criminal charges against Dugan, nor was he arrested upon any charge. The police raiding acted under a search warrant the origin of which is still unknown to Dugan's legal representatives. The latter claim that the liquor was found intact as shipped, and the quantity is not in anywise limited by law. Dugan is a wholesaler and the fact seems that the goods attempted to be confiscated were intended for removal within a short time to various saloons which he supplies.

The test of the validity of the injunction remains to demonstrate the powers of the police in the premises. It was issued upon the theory that the police were trespassers upon private property and were confiscating and attempting to destroy private property without warrant of law.

Chief of Police Phillips had advised and ordered his men to proceed without regard to the injunction when his arrest and arraignment followed. Prosecutor Wilbur Williams admitted his personal blame for the police chief's plight. It was the willing agreement when formal judgment was withheld that Chief Phillips would not attempt to ignore the superior court's authority. No steps were taken against the three patrolmen engaged in the actual removal of the liquor, who were between the two fires of disobeying a superior officer and of being cast into jail for contempt of court.

WILL CARRY FIGHT HIGHER.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Having failed in a neffort to get the federal horticultural board to declare a quarantine to prevent the shipment of chestnut trees from Pennsylvania F. N. Wallace, state entomologist, expects to take up the matter with United States Senators Kern and Taggart in hopes of getting federal action.

Chestnut blight, according to Mr. Wallace, has been traced to Pennsylvania, and trees shipped to this state have been affected. He has corresponded with the shipper of the trees, but got no satisfaction. The state board of agriculture of Pennsylvania acknowledged the presence of the blight in trees in that state, Mr. Wallace says, and he then asked the federal government to take action. The reply was that he should quarantine Indiana against Pennsylvania trees. Mr. Wallace says he will do that as a last resort, and the quarantine will be enforced very strictly. The blight has only a slight start in this state, he says, and he proposes that it shall be stamped out now.

BABY BONDS CREATE INDEPENDENT FEELING

A local young man testifies that "since I began saving a small portion of my earnings and investing them in Baby Bonds I have had a nice increase in salary, which I attribute solely to the feeling of independence and confidence that was created within me by the knowledge that I had a nice little 'nest egg' in the shape of my Baby Bonds." Baby Bonds come in 10.00 denominations, bear six per cent. interest and are secured by first mortgages on local real estate. There are also similar bonds of $500.00 denominations, bearing the same rate of interest and secured in the same manner. For details regarding either, see the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.

"I have met both sides and have gone over the case with the utmost frankness. I shall not be able to judge until tomorrow whether we have a feasable basis of settlement."

Washington, Aug. 14.—The committee of railway managers remained an hour in conference with the president this afternoon, and as they left Elisha Lee, their spokesman, refused to make any statement.

The managers left the white house to hold a meeting to take up suggestions laid before them by the president and will see him at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The president arranged to see Judge Chambers later today.

It was indicated the employes had made a suggestion which the managers wanted to discuss among themselves. The suggestion was believed to be that the president appoint neutral arbitrators to serve with representatives of each side.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Prospects for averting a nation-wide railway strike, or at least for the formulation of some tentative program, will be the ground work for further negotiations, brightened up today after President Wilson had conferred with thirty-five chiefs of the great brotherhoods.

After the conference the brotherhood men declared the president's grasp of the situation and the position of the men might result in an understanding being reached, and others in touch with the conference said the representatives of the men showed a disposition to co-operate to avoid a strike.

After hearing the leaders of the men two hours the president sent for the managers for a conference at 3 o'clock this afternoon. How far whatever progress made at the conference with the managers can go toward averting a break cannot be determined until after the president confers with the managers' committee.

Wilson Grasps Situation.

The president, according to those who attended the conference, showed a familiarity with the situation that surprised the men.

"The president was most sympathetic" said one of the brotherhood leaders, "and his surprising knowledge of the situation and of our position may result in an understanding being reached."

The president, it was said, submitted no counter proposition to the men, but he held out hope for an adjustment by legislation if necessary. The impression prevailed among the brotherhood leaders that as a last resort the president might ask congress for an eight-hour day legislation.

Explained to President.

The leaders explained to the president their stand against arbitration by saying that they were carrying out the wishes of the 600 delegates who sat with them at their recent meeting at the federal mediators.

The delegates, the president was told, in voting on whether they should accept or reject the mediators' proposal to arbitrate, voted unanimously for rejection. The brotherhoods presented detailed reports of the vote cast in favor of a general strike.

Calls It Hopeful.

One leader of the four brotherhoods, after leaving the white house, characterized the conference with the president as "most encouraging," and declared "the outlook for the prevention of a general strike was hopeful."

Mr. Carretson was asked whether the negotiations were off. He replied, "Absolutely not." While no grounds for the feeling were given, administration officials expressed confidence that the president's intervention would result in averting a strike.

Discussion This Morning.

The discussion this morning it was learned, centered largely about the possibility of reaching an agreement on some form of arbitration and particular attention was paid to the subjects to be arbitrated.

It was considered possible that a tentative agreement would provide for arbitration of the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and for time and a half overtime with the elimination of the counter proposals of the employers.

The railroads have wanted to arbitrate their counter proposals and that the men resist. They were first inclined to arbitrate their own demands but later indicated their disinclination to arbitrate anything.

Shortly after 2:30 o'clock the managers committee at the conclusion of half an hour's conference, went to the white house to meet the president. There were nineteen managers in th party and all were silent over the developments of the conference of the men and President Wilson earlier in the day.

The brotherhood men went into the conference firm in their determination not to accept an arbitration under the Newlands act, which they contend has always furnished arbitrators before whom the men did not have an unprejudiced opportunity. There was some indications that the president, recognizing that view, might propose a special arbitration before a board of twelve members on which the four great brotherhoods could be represented.

BREAK THREE DOZEN EGGS IN COLLISION

A dozen eggs made bright yellow blotches on the darkened surface of Berry street and two dozen more eggs were cracked and broken inside the automobile Monday morning when Robert Myers, driver of an auto delivery wagon ran his machine in a head-on collision against a big car piloted by Mrs. H. Pollak, 217 West Berry street.

The accident occurred in front of the Majestic theater as both cars were trying to pass a large moving van. Myers claims that he was on the right side of the street and cannot be blamed for the mishap. Mrs. Pollak says that Myers was looking up at the driver of the moving van and not where he was going. The front of the machine driven by the woman was damaged. The windshield on the little car was smashed and several baskets of groceries in the bed of the car jumbled together.

Two carriers—Ralph H. Hilterbrant and Ray S. Fisher—are temporarily in their capacities until they can take the civil service examination. If they are among the four highest in the grading following civil service tests for carriers they will be given the preference over other applicants for the positions. Ten letter collection boxes will be put in at Lagrange, and patrons, Mr. Piatt is informed, have already begun the installation of private mail receptacles.

Three Now Have It.

Three towns—Garrett, Dunkirk and Lagrange—will have free delivery after Wednesday. Garrett, Mr. Piatt says, stands good chance of getting free delivery for first-class offices, as the receipts at the Garrett office will probably soon pass the $10,000-a-year mark. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad has a division point at Garrett, and supplies of the company's stamps are purchased there. The B. & O. will boost postal receipts at Garrett $200 a month.

Free delivery service for villages was established at Dunkirk June 1 by Mr. Piatt. The Fort Wayne district for postal inspection is ahead of the South Bend district, according to late reports. The South Bend district has but one town affording free village delivery.

BUSY DAY SCHEDULED ON MR. HUGHES' TRIP

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 14.—Charles E. Hughes today expects to spend one of the busiest days of his campaigning trip. He was up early to lead an automobile parade, arranged so those who would be unable to attend the two later meetings could see him. His forenoon program included a motor trip to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, twenty-five miles away, through a country of scenic interest. There he is to address an open-air meeting, remaining for luncheon.

Two speeches are on his day's program here. The first at 3:30 p. m. is to be a meeting for women voters only, the first of its kind arranged for the nominee. The second, at 7:30 p. m., is to be a general meeting. Mr. Hughes will leave immediately thereafter at 8:45 p. m. for Tacoma.

MEDICAL BUREAU WILL GIVE INSTRUCTIONS

J. H. Comfort, Indianapolis, head of the navy publicity bureau, answering inquiry of Miss Virginia Cary, 328 West Berry street, concerning steps necessary to the formation of a volunteer Red Cross society in Fort Wayne, states that the bureau of medicine and surgery, of Washington, has charge of establishment of such societies.

Miss Cary made inquiry of J. C. King, chief petty officer in charge of the Fort Wayne navy recruiting station, regarding parties responsible for directing a school in nurses' training, fitting the nurses for duty under the American Red Cross. Her inquiry was referred to Lieutenant Comfort.

SOME INCREASES 100 PER CENT.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Railroad men and shippers from many parts of the country appeared before the interstate commerce commission today to argue over the reasonableness of proposed increased freight rates from the Atlantic seaboard to the inter-mountain section, and from Pacific coast points east. Some of the increases are as high as 100 per cent, and unless suspended by the commission, will go into effect September 1.

PUSHING ON TO LEMBERG

HEAVY PRESSURE ON BOTH FLANKS

Germans Retake Positions Lost to British on Sunday.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The Russian drive in Galicia is pushing the Austro-German armies backward towards Lemberg at a rapid rate. Both flanks of General Count von Bothmer's army at Lemberg are under heavy pressure and its center forced from the line of the Strij is accounted by military observers in entente capitals to have not too secure a position in its rear along the upper Zlota Lipa, to which it is presumed to be retreating.

Petrograd today announced new gains for the Russians on the northern wing of this front on the upper Sereth, while to the south Gen. Letchitzky is continuing his thrust up the Dniester in the vicinity of Mariampol, seven miles from Maicz. The Russian armies in the center also are pursuing the Austrians in the middle Stripa and Koropice regions.

Continuing their advance from Gorizia, on the Isonzo front, the Italians have made further progress on the Carso plateau to the southeast. Rome reports the piercing of a strongly defended Austrian line east of hill 212 and the capture of about 800 additional men. The Austrians are sharply attacking along other sectors of the front, but were repulsed in all attempts the Italian war office announces.

Following the usual course the Germans have sharply counter attacked along the line west of Pozieres, which London last night reported the British to have carried to a depth of 300 or 400 yards on a front of nearly a mile. The attack was partly successful, the Germans gaining a foothold in a portion of the lost trenches.

Following up their gains on the north bank of the Somme the French are pushing their advance to a point where evacuation of Clery, commanding the direct approach to Peronne from the northwest, may be compelled. Fighting is being continued in the Maurepas sector northwest of Clery, where brisk cannonading is reported today. To the left of the Fay-Deniecourt road a French attack resulted in carrying some trenches.

Petrograd, Aug. 14.—Along the Galician front the Russian sweep continues unchecked, the official announcement today states. Further gains have been made on the upper Sereth. In the region of the middle Stripa and the Koropice the Austrians are being pursued by the Russians, who reached the northern bank of the Dniester before Mariampol.

AUSTRIAN AIRMEN ACTIVE.

Berlin, Aug. 14.—"An Austro-Hungarian naval aeroplane squadron on the night of August 9 carried out a very successful bombardment on a hostile battery at the mouth of the Isonzo and the hostile naval aeroplane station at Grado," says an Austrian admiralty statement today. "Several exact hits were obtained.

Suffragists Plan for Emergency Convention

New York, Aug. 14.—Preparations are being made for a great assemblage of suffragists at Atlantic City, N. J., from Sept. 6 to 10, when leading suffragists from all over the United States will attend the emergency convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association to discuss its policy.

One of the most important phases of the convention will be a three-cornered debate of the question whether the association will investigate the granting of suffrage to women by amendment to the federal constitution by the different states or by both methods. Arguments representing three points of view will be presented by Miss Laura Clay, of Kentucky; Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, of New York, and Mrs. Raymond Brown, of New Yor.

The presidential candidates of the democratic and republican paries have been invited to present their views on suffrage to the convention and other distinguished men and women will deliver addresses. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the association, will preside. Among the speakers announced today are Newton D. Baker, secretary of war; Mrs. Julia Lathrop, chief of the children's department of the United States bureau of labor; Dr. Katherine B. Davis, chief paroje commissioner, New York; Mrs. Raymond Robins, Herbert Parsons and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, of New York.

Kinney, Minn., Aug. 14.—Two prominent members of the Industrial Workers of the World are under arrest today and the police are searching for two others for the attempted kidnapping last night of Mrs. Edward Eno, wife of a deputy sheriff; Mrs. Lucy Clark, of Virginia, Minn., and her four-year-old son.

Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Eno, who are sisters, were leaving a street car when four men attempted to overpower them. Mrs. Clark was struck on the head with a club and a serious wound inflicted. They broke away from the men and ran screaming down the road. The kidnappers threw the baby into a waiting automobile and fled.

The police were on the trail in a few minutes and found the baby walking along the road. Two men discovered hiding in bushes nearby were arrested. They are L. Burolich and Andy Ventich, both members of the I. W. W. Physicians attending Mrs. Clark declare her wound serious.

Republican Chairman Puts 25 States in List Certain for Him.

Washington, Aug. 14.—In his first statement on the political situation throughout the country, William R. Willcox, manager of Mr. Hughes' campaign, last night claimed 300 electoral votes for his candidate. In addition, Mr. Willcox said the total probably would mount to 325, while only 266 are needed to elect.

Connecticut, 7.	North Dakota, 5.
Idaho, 4	Ohio, 24.
Illinois, 29.	Oregon, 5.
Iowa, 13.	Pennsylvania, 38.
Kansas, 10.	Rhode Island, 5.
Maine, 6.	South Dakota, 5.
Massachusetts, 18.	Utah, 4.
Michigan, 15.	Vermont, 4.
Minnesota, 12.	Washington, 7.
Montana, 4.	West Virginia, 9.
New Hampshire, 4.	Total, 300.

States which are regarded as doubtful at this time by the republican leaders, but in which they will do a great deal of work with the expectation of carrying a number of them, are:

Arizona, 3.	Nebraska, 8.
Colorado, 6.	New Mexico, 3.
Kentucky, 13.	Oklahoma, 10.
Maryland, 8.	Indiana, 15.
Missouri, 18.	Wisconsin, 13.
	Wyoming, 3.

"These eleven states," said Mr. Willcox, "have a total of 100 votes and while none of them has been placed as reasonably certain, several of them might well have been so placed. At any rate, I feel that a guess on twenty-five votes out of the 100 is, to say the least, conservative, and unless I prove to be a very poor guesser Hughes and Fairbanks will poll upwards of 325 out of the total of 531 electoral votes in November next."

KING NOW RECANTS HIS CONFESSION OF GUILT

New York Man Repudiates Double Crime He Had Admitted.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—District Attorney Knickerbocker announced today that Erwin King had repudiated the confession he made at Little Valley, August 10, that he was guilty of the murder of Charles Phelps, and his housekeeper, Mary Wolcott, at West Shelby, March 22, 1912. Charles Stielow, now in Sing Sing prison under sentence of death for the murders, but was reprieved recently. Stielow's friends believed King's confession would save the life of the condemned man.

The district attorney said that King made his statement to a committee of citizens of Orleans county, while no prosecuting officials nor police were present. It is said that King gave the reasons that actuated him when he made his confession, but the district attorney did not make public that portion of the statement. Mr. Knickerbocker said his present interest is solely to insure the orderly progress of justice and not to engage in controversy with those seeking to save Stielow from execution.

TURN FOR THE BETTER IN INFANTILE PLAGUE

New York, Aug. 14.—The epidemic of infantile paralysis took a turn for the better today. The number of new cases reported to the health department went under the hundred mark for the first time in several weeks. During the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m. the plague killed 31 children and 95 new cases were reported, 43 of them in Manhattan and 31 in Brooklyn. This compares favorably with yesterday's figures when there 141 new cases and 22 fatalities. The falling off in cases was attributed to the cooler weather.

Physicians employed by the health department to investigate reported cases of infantile paralysis hereafter will be equipped with serum made from the blood of persons who have recovered from the disease so that in every true case an injection may be made at once before the patient is removed to a hospital. This action has been decided upon by the health department because the best results of the serum have been obtained in cases where the disease was in the premonitary stages, when the symptoms mainly are high fever and restlessness and before paralysis has developed.

TROUBLE IN INDIA HAS SIMMERED DOWN

International Affairs of British Colony Called Satisfactory.

London, Aug. 14.—International conditions in India save in portions of Bengal, where the Dacoties periodically break out are highly satisfactory, says a Reuter's dispatch from Simla. The people of Bengal showed their desire to help in the war by organizing a stationary field hospital for services in Mesopotamia. This hospital, with the exception of officers commanding, was staffed entirely by Bengal medical graduates and the personnel was entirely Bengali. After doing excellent work, this hospital has now been withdrawn, but scope for the national and patriotic aspiration of the Nogali have been afforded by the raising of a double company of them. It will be trained on the frontier and when fit for service will be sent to the front for active operation. The result of this experiment will be watched with interest. Besides the Bengalis, three double companies of Indian Christians recruiting the Punjab have recently been raised and are doing well.

No less than six officers and soldiers have earned the Victoria Cross and twenty-seven have gained the military cross.

All classes of creed throughout the entire country held intercession services on Aug. 4, praying in the churches, mosques and temples for success for the British arms.

ADAIR WILL MAKE A STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

Portland, Ind., Aug. 14.—Congressman John A. M. Adair, democratic candidate for governor, is making every minute count. He is booked for a strenuous speaking campaign following the opening of the democratic campaign in Indiana, Saturday, August 19, in Fort Wayne. Portland and Jay county democrats are planning to attend the Fort Wayne meeting and a large number will be on hand to hear the opening gun fired by Portland's favorite son.

Before the date of the Fort Wayne meeting arrives Congressman Adair is booked for three other addresses next week. These are at the Jay and Randolph county Old Settlers' meeting at Ridgeville, Wednesday, August 16th; Johns' Day, Eaton, Thursday, August 17th; political day at the chautauqua at Attica, Friday, August 18th.

James P. Goodrich, Mr. Adair's opponent on the republican ticket, was originally scheduled to speak at the Old Settlers' meeting, plans being to have the two gubernatorial candidates speak from the same platform, but Goodrich has announced his inability to attend the gathering because of a previous engagement.

NO BIG PROFITS IN SIGHT

Washington, Aug. 14—The department of agriculture today warned prospective growers of drug plants seeking to take advantage of high prices for drugs that possibilities of big profits are slender. Inexperienced growers are told that it is doubtful if they can grow the plants successfully and that if they succeed, satisfactory markets are hard to find.

Raising of drug plants, the department declares, is a distinct specialty and calls for exact knowledge and skill.

WALTER KREISELMEYER DROWNS AT ROME CITY

Canoe Upsets and Young Man Loses Life 150 Feet from Shore.

Walter Kreiselmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Kreiselmeyer, 1302 Swinney avenue, was drowned in Sylvan lake, Rome City, Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, when a canoe in which he was riding upset 150 feet from shore. The young man, who was 21 years of age, was riding alone, having taken the canoe out just a minute before to try his skill in paddling.

The accident occurred near the rapids where the water is nearly twenty-five feet deep. The unfortunate young man had just returned from a fishing trip and upon arriving near the cottage stated that he was going to try and paddle the canoe. He had only gone a short distance when he shouted to Henry Brunner, a companion, that the canoe was unmanageable. He was informed to remain quiet until Brunner reached him with a boat. However, before Brunner got away from shore a large wave upset the small craft and Kreiselmeyer was hurled into the water. The body was recovered an hour later.

The deceased was employed at the Dudlo Manufacturing company, where he held a position of honor and trust. Saturday noon previous to his departure for the summer resort he was told that he was to be advanced in position Monday. He had a bright future and the sudden death comes as a very sad blow to his relatives and many friends.

The young man was born in Van Wert, county, Ohio, but he had resided in Fort Wayne for the past eight years. He was a member of Emmaus Lutheran church and of the Young Men's society of the same congregation.

Besides the grief-stricken parents he is survived by a brother, Richard, of Adams township, and a sister, Miss Hulda, at home.

Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and at 2:30 o'clock at the Emmaus Lutheran church.

Only a few days ago Kreiselmeyer had paid his first premium on a $2,500 accident policy, which he had taken out with Clinton R. Willson. Kreiselmeyer's estate will receive the face value of the policy.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Dates and places were announced here for the first thirteen hearings to be held by the farm loan board for compiling information on which it will divide the country into twelve farm loan districts, and determine the location of a federal loan bank in each.

The first hearing will be at Augusta, Me., a week from tomorrow and will be followed by a trip across the continent to Spokane, where the first leg of the board's tour will be completed Sept. 4.

Y., Aug. 24; Lansing, Mich., Aug. 25; Madison, Wis., Aug. 26; Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 28; Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 30; St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 31; Fargo, N. D., Sept. 1; Helena, Mont., Sept. 2, and Spokane, Wash., Sept. 4.

From Spokane the board will go to Oregon and California and return across the central part of the continent. Later a trip will be taken through the south.

The hearings will be public, and farmers and farmers' organizations are invited to appear before the board and submit information which they think will assist the board in its deliberations.

In selecting the cities for the headquarters of the districts the board will be guided, in some measure, by each city's relation to the surrounding farming territory in need of farm loans.

WOULD HAVE SCHOOL TO TRAIN FATHERS, ALSO

Chicago Men Admit There is Need of Instruction Among Sterner Sex.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—A woman trained for the arduous duties of motherhood is only 50 per cent. of the potential family, according to opinions expressed yesterday by Chicago men who are the fathers of large families. These approved Miss Mary McDowell's assertion that it is right and proper to train women for motherhood, but that it is equally essential to train men for fatherhood.

The discussion was the outcome of news dispatches from Detroit telling of Mrs. Lizzie Merrill Palmer's bequest of $1,000,000 to found a school of motherhood.

Chief supporter of Miss McDowell was Joseph J. Murphy, fire attorney, who is the father of nine children—five boys and four girls.

"The duties of fatherhood, while distinctive, are equally as important as those of motherhood," he said. "The mother, to be sure, is the very keystone of the ideal home, but without a husband and father who realizes his responsibilities and who has been trained to fulfill them the entire structure will soon crumble away.

"It devolves upon the father to afford that protection and support, without which the mother is helpless, no matter what her innate qualifications and training may be. The bane of many homes is the irresponsible father. It is not enough that he merely provide funds. The average young father fails to realize that 50 per cent. of the obligation of parenthood is his and he must fulfill it with the woman who bears his children.

"Perhaps some day one will found a school to teach boys these duties. Or better still, they should be incorporated in the curriculum of every public and private school in which the young are educated."

Injunctions to prevent the continuation of the alleged practices also are asked. The suits are the outgrowth of agitations covering several years.

The president's plan was to appeal to managers and men on the highest patriotic grounds to find a way to compose their differences without a strike.

The managers went to one hotel and the brotherhood leaders went to another to await the call from the white house, while the federal mediators set about arranging a conference. It was decided that the president should see the contestants, not together, but one side at a time, to get a clearer idea of their respective positions.

Spurn Newlands Act.

The first development of the day was a delegation by A. B. Garretson, speaking for the brotherhoods, that the men were through with the proposition of arbitrating under the Newlands act. Previous arbitrations under that law, he reiterated, had demonstrated that the neutral arbitrators held the balance of power. He declared that any special arbitration into which the men might agree to enter would have to make provision for an extension of those arbitrators to give the men what they considered a fair chance.

Early today an hour for the conferences at the white house had not been set, but the men were expecting to return to New York for further conferences with the managers tomorrow and had re-engaged the hall where they have been meeting for tomorrow morning.

Mr. Garretson said today the brotherhoods had no knowledge of Secretary Tumulty's flying trip to New York nor of the message he carried from the president.

Objection by Brotherhoods.

"The chief objection to the existing form of arbitration on the part of the brotherhoods," said Garretson today, "centers on the difficulties that has been experienced in selecting neutral arbitrators, who could do justice to the cause of the men. In the past there have been neutral arbitrators of high standing and intelligence, such as John H. Finley, of New York, and Seth Low, former mayor, but no matter how honest their intentions, they could not bring to bear on the questions at issue the disinterestedness necessary. Finley's future relies entirely on the direction of corporate influence, while Low, although honest, was surely influenced by the fact that he is a large owner of stocks and bonds.

"The appointment of neutral arbitrators in the past under the provisions of the Newlands act have damned arbitration as a practical proposition in the minds of the men."

Arranges for Conferences.

W. L. Chambers, of the federal mediators, conferred with President Wilson early this morning and arranged for the conferences. There was a suggestion that the president might urge an arbitration by a board of twelve members so that each of the railroad brotherhoods could be represented. The president, it was indicated very clearly, would appeal to both employers and men on the highest patriotic grounds to meet and settle their differences without resort to a strike. President Wilson cancelled a long list of engagements in order to give all his time to the situation.

Brotherhoods Called First.

President Wilson called the representatives of the brotherhoods to the white house at 10 o'clock and arranged to see the committee of managers immediately afterwards.

Representatives of unorganized railroad employes outside of the four big brotherhoods involved in the strike negotiations, called at the white house early this morning and left word for the president that they stood behind him in his efforts to avert a nation-wide railroad strike. P. K. Walden, representing the unorganized workmen on roads running out of Chicago, presented a petition signed by 16,000 men opposing a strike.

Garretson to President.

The president's conference with the men was opened with a statement by A. B. Garretson, of the conductors, as spokesman. He outlined the demands for an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime. He insisted that the demands were fair. President Wilson then addressed the men, pointing out what disaster would follow a general strike and insisting that an agreement must be reached. The president then asked to know the specific things on which the employes were prepared to insist. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking for the men and he and the president discussed the situation thoroughly.

Mr. Wilson promised to take the demands up with the managers in an effort to find a common ground on which the two sides could meet. He said he was anxious to settle the difficulty as quickly as possible and was prepared to remain in continuous conference all day if necessary. The conference was held in the green room of the white house. Large crowds of tourists gathered on the lawn in front of the white house to hear news of the proceedings.

Wilson as Arbitrater?

While the president and representatives of the men were conferring, Mr. Chambers got in touch with the railroad managers and told them to be ready to come to the white house as soon as the conference was over. The managers waited at a nearby hotel. There were some suggestions purely informal, emanating from neither one side nor the other but from sources in touch with both, that the men were regarding the possibility of arbitration with the president himself as chief arbitrator.

Declines to Make Statement.

After being with the president two hours the representatives of the men left the white house and Mr. Garretson said they expected to see the president again later in the day, after he had conferred with the managers. Mr. Garretson refused to say whether the outlook was hopeful.

"As long as the matter is in President Wilson's hands we will have no statement to make," said Mr. Garretson. The president immediately sent for the railroad managers to lay before them the position of the workmen.

It was arranged that the managers should see the president at 3 o'clock this afternoon and that meanwhile the president would keep one or two other important engagements, including one with Mr. Chambers, of the federal board.

At the white house it was said no indication could be given of the progress of the negotiations until after the president saw the managers.

ALL SET FOR BIG STRIKE.

Struggle, if It Comes, Will Be Directed from New York.

New York, Aug. 14.—If President Wilson fails to persuade the railroad men and their employers to settle their differences and a general strike is called it will be directed from headquarters in this city. This announcement was made today as the leaders of the four big railway brotherhoods and the railroad managers reached Washington for a conference with the head of the nation.

At brotherhood headquarters it was said that all preparations had been made for putting into effect a strike that would stop every train, passenger and freight, on the 225 railroad systems of the nation. The critical state of affairs was indicated by the anxiety displayed in every big industry which would be crippled by the failure of transportation.

What Leaders Say.

"Unless the president can find a road out, it means a strike," said A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Trainmen, and official spokesman of the employes as he boarded the train for Washington. Elisha Lee, chairman of the conference board of managers, with the eighteen members of his committee who went to Washington on the same train that carried the thirty representatives of the brotherhood, placed responsibility upon the men for the failure of attempts at mediation. Mr. Garretson said that the unbending attitude of the railroad managers was to blame for the break.

The conference committee of the railroads and the leaders of the four brotherhoods went to Washington in answer to summons from the white house brought here last night by Joseph Tumulty, the president's secretary. President Wilson in his letter pointed out that a general strike at this time might have a disastrous effect upon the country, and said: "I feel that I have the right, therefore, to request and I do hereby request as the head of the government that before any final decision is arrived at I may have a personal conference with you here."

Power of President.

Authorities here related that while the national labor laws gave the president no right to interfere officially the broad police powers vested in him gave him authority to put soldiers on the trains and even to declare martial law if he believed the peril of the situation called for such drastic measures. Attention was called to the last national railroad strike in 1894, when President Cleveland used the regular army to guard locomotives and cars. The tension in business circles here today showed a realization of the acute danger of a national calamity. The aggregate of financial losses, running into hundreds of millions, later idleness and food privation, were some of the possibilities which a strike presented.

It was to be remembered, business men said, that there is scarcely a factory of any importance which does not depend on a railroad for its products. A strike, for instance, would mean that the steel mills of Pittsburgh would be cut off from their ore supplies in Michigan and Wisconsin, the automobile industries of Michigan from supplies of steel from Pittsburgh, the cotton mills of New England from their cotton from the south, the garment makers of New York from their cloth from New England and every industry everywhere will be cut off from coal to feed their furnaces and dynamos. Of more immediate seriousness would be the closing of the food supply. The large communities which receive the bulk of their food from long distances would be forced to rely on what products could be brought in by wagon, automobile, trolley or vessel.

The suspension of the country's exports, the congestion of imports at coast cities, the stranding of hundreds of thousands of travelers and summer resort visitors far from their homes—these are other possibilities which the strike situation presents, to say nothing of its effect on the railroads themselves and their employes.

The total capitalization of the railroads in the country amounts to more than $20,000,000,000 and their gross revenue has been estimated at more than $4,000,000,000 on the basis of recent reports.

The latest estimates available show that the railways operate 251,984 miles of tracks and transport annually 1,032,679,680 passengers. The passenger cars have been computed at 51,700 and other cars to 2,393.

SAYS INDIANA GUARD IS 3,500 MEN SHORT

Some Companies Need More Than 100 to Come Up to War Strength.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Indiana's brigade of soldiers on the Mexican border requires about 3,500 men to recruit it to war strength, according to Maj. Glenn VanAuken, brigade adjutant, whose statement of shortages in each unit of the Indiana organization reached Indianapolis Saturday from Llano Grande, Tex. The statement was addressed to Maj. Jesse T. Johnson, who served two weeks as recruit camp commander at Fort Benjamin Harrison under an order which was suspended last week.

Adjt. Gen. F. L. Bridges said that the figures contained in Maj. VanAuken's summary show that the Indiana soldiers are at no more than peace strength. The needs of the brigade are given in the following table:

Companies.	First Infantry	Second Infantry	Third Infantry
A	91	97	102
C	76	79	78
D	95	101	90
E	63	99	85
F	69	105	82
G	87	82	104
H	92	88	99
K	88	82	89
L	72	74	87
M	99	95	82
Machine gun	30	15	..
Totals	1,038	1,097	1,121

In the artillery battalion forty-eight men are needed for Battery A, twenty-three for Battery B and thirty-one for Battery C. Ambulance company No. 1 needs seventy-nine men and Ambulance company No. 2, twenty-three men. The Field Hospital company No. 1 needs twenty-five men and the signal corps company seven men.

Some Coming Back.

Orders have been issued for the return of eight recruiting parties, comprising about forty men, from Llano Grande to Indianapolis, but it is not known when they will leave camp.

Adjt. Gen. Bridges charged that the methods of the war department in handling the Indiana national guards are seriously handicapping the organization and endangering its solidarity in the future.

"Forty per cent. of the men in the guard can claim discharge because of dependent families and it is said now that another 10 per cent. will be relieved from duty because they are college students," said the adjutant general. "The college boys enlisted without any desire for exemption, and there is no reason that I can see why they should be sent home.

"Our efforts at recruiting have been stopped, and that accounts for the fact that the guard is not up to war strength. Men left at their home stations in the early days of mobilizaion were ordered into camp. Subsequently an order was issued for a special recruiting detail in Indiana, and just about the time it was organized and ready for work it was mustered out.

Costs About $2,500.

"To send recruiting parties from Texas to Indiana will cost $2,500 or more, and the parties must be organized and instructed in the voluminous details of recruiting after they reach here. There are more than 100 blank forms with which every recruiting officer must be familiar before he begins work."

Maj. Johnson, who was mustered out of service as a recruiting officer Aug. 9, said Saturday that he did not know the reason.

"I am ready for service if they want me again," he said. "We had just completed the preliminary organization of an efficient recruiting corps when the war department ordered us out of service. Eighteen men were ready for work. Each of them was compelled to report in Indianapolis to be mustered out, and the war department refused to pay their transportation home. The state had to bear that expense."

YUCATAN PROFITS FROM REVOLUTION

BY GILSON GARDNER.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Some beneficial effects of the Mexican revolution are related by Herbert Janvers Browne, of this city. Mr. Browne is one of the few Americans who has studied the Mexican problem from a point of view other than that of the American exploiter. He is a personal friend of Carranza, and knows all the principal revolutionary leaders and has visited every province in Mexico—some of them many times.

Mr. Browne's picture of Mexican conditions is very different from that which filters through military or big business sources. I asked him to tell me particularly about the province of Yucatan, which figured in hearings before the senate committee on agriculture.

"To those who are willing to look beyond the border disturbances for true realities of the Mexican revolution," said Mr. Browne, the state of Yucatan presents an object lesson of surpassing interest and significance. There the full program of political, economic, agrarian, industrial, social and educational reforms is in actual progress—not fully attained, but making such headway as to show their beneficial effects and to justify the prophecies of the friends of the revolution. No state in the United States has so ambitious a program of reform, or can show a more devoted and public-spirited body of citizens enlisted in its behalf.

Hennequin Principal Crop.

"Yucatan, the low limestone peninsula to the extreme southeast of Mexico, has one principal crop, hennequin or sisal fibre, from which cordage and binder twine are made," continued Mr. Browne. Since 1902 the "trust"—the International Harvester company and the Plymouth Cordage company—have dominated the entire state. By 1907 the principal independent banks and producers of Yucatan were in bankruptcy, the railroads had passed into the hands of foreign interests and the sisal industry was at the mercy of these two powerful corporations. The corrupt governor, Alagario Molino, was the largest sisal planter in Yucatan; his son-in-law, Aveline Montes, was agent for the International Harvester company, and Arthur Pierce was agent for the Plymouth Cordage company. These three men absolutely dominated the sisal industry of Yucatan. Molino was a partner and beneficiary of Ramon Corral, vice president of Mexico, chief of the 'cientificos,' who instigated the warfare against the Yaqui Indians of Sonora, and after numerous atrocities shipped thousands of them to the hot plains of Yucatan to work on the sisal plantations of Governor Molino. There, their families disrupted, they were kept in compounds, starved with insufficient food, beaten for the slightest infraction of discipline, and shot for insubordination.

"Then came the revolution. With the advent of Governor Salvador Alvarado in 1915, Governor Molino and his previous son-in-law, Montes, fled for their lives. Their huge plantations are now operated for governmental benefit. Alvarado established a government commission to control the handling and marketing of the entire sisal crop. Its finances were arranged through a group of New Orleans bankers who underwrote a credit of $10,000,000, and the commission was thus enabled to tell the International Harvester company and the Plymouth Cordage company that they could no longer dictate the price of sisal in Yucatan and the price of twine in the United States.

Effect is Marvelous.

"The effect in Yucatan has been marvelous. The sisal planters can now walk erect without fear of forced bankruptcy. Over $20,000,000 gold was the Yucatan value of the year's crop, and this vast sum was spent largely in the United States, for food, clothing, machinery and building material shipped to Yucatan. Wages advanced from 10 cents a day to upwards of 50 cents a day. The peons were freed from the contract labor law and the law of debt. They are free to [illegible] and come as they please and to work [illegible] they please.

"But Governor Alvarado has done more important work. He has restored to every village an area of common land, so that every family can have a garden plot sufficient to raise its fruit and vegetables. He has made plans for the collective cultivation of sisal on public lands. He has established over 1,200 public schools, besides trade, agriculture and normal schools, and has brought teachers from the United States to organize and conduct them.

Volunteer Association Helps.

"Governor Alvarado is aided by a volunteer association of the most advanced and highly educated men and women of Yucatan, called the 'Ateneo Peninsular de Yucatan.' The members serve without pay, and have undertaken the sanitation of the towns and cities, the solution of problems of sewage and water supply, the building of model houses and schools, the further development of a model educational system and the problems of land distribution and scientific taxation. They are even going into problems of town planning on the most modern lines of symmetry and beauty.

"The change is visible to any present traveler in Yucatan. All classes, rich and poor, high and low, have caught the enthusiasm of Governor Alvarado and his splendid corps of assistants and are working in hearty accord to carry on true reforms so happily begun."

Pottsville and St. Clair, Pa., are now connected by a new trolley line three miles long, costing $1 an inch to construct.

"WAR BRIDE" PROFITS BOOST U. S. REVENUES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—War bride profits taxed by the government swelled the internal revenue taxes last year to more than a half million dollars, according to a statement issued here last night by the commissioner of internal revenue.

The precise amount of internal revenue collected was $513,723,287, which is $97,942,263 greater than was paid in the previous fiscal year.

The increase in income tax collections alone was $44,733,493, and experts of the government figure this increase was entirely due to the war created prosperity and the enormuos profits made on deals in munitions contracts and "war bride" stocks.

The war revenue act produced $84,278,302, while the total from the income and corporation tax was $124,916,315.

Midwest Returns a Fifth.

Of the grand total, the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin contributed $124,062,719—more than one-fifth. Their contribution to the income and corporation tax was $18,000,860, to the war revenue act $17,115,905, and to the ordinary internal taxes $88,945,954.

The war revenue tax and the corporation and individual income taxes paid by the central west follow:

Peoria, Ill., which for many years has paid more internal revenue taxes to the treasury than any other city in the country, gives way this year to New York City on account of the enormous income and corporation taxes paid in New York. Chicago, on account of the revenues accruing from the war revenue and corporation and income taxes, presses Peoria closely for second place.

New York, Peoria, Chicago.

From incomes under $20,000 the treasury netted from the entire country $23,995,777. The larger incomes paid the balance of $67,943,594.

One-fifth of the super-tax collected was paid on net incomes of more than $500,000. The individual income receipts, according to classification, were as follows:

Exceeding $20,000 and not more than $50,000	$ 6,091,775
$50,000 to $75,000	4,071,361
$75,000 to $100,000	3,623,472
$100,000 to $250,000	10,936,326
$250,000 to $500,000	6,393,358
Above $500,000	12,647,862

Internal Revenue by States.

In the total amount of internal revenue paid into the treasury New York is first with $104,910,459, Illinois second with $65,287,404, and Kentucky third with $37,242,180.

In individual income tax collections New York was far in the lead with more than $30,000,000. Pennsylvania paid in $6,313,191; Illinois, $5,166,689; Massachusetts, $4,193,828; New Jersey, $2,928,300; Ohio, $2,416,701.

In corporation income taxes New York paid $14,947,802; Pennsylvania, $6,789,242; Illinois, $5,579,151; Ohio, $3,627,213.

The commissioner's report shows an almost uniform increase in the production of taxable articles. The taxes on distilled spirits increased from $144,000,000 in 1915 to $158,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

More Cigarettes Smoked.

Tobacco taxes increased by $8,000,000 more than half of which was due to the increased consumption of cigarets. The taxes on fermented liquors increased $9,000,000.

The same increases are reflected in the special taxes under the act of Oct. 22, 1914. The bankers' tax increased from $2,828,737 to $4,226,342; the tax on theaters from $789,997 to $1,014,911.

It appears from the report that the greater part of the individual income tax is paid upon fortunes yielding an income of more than $100,000 a year and a very substantial portion of it upon incomes exceeding more than half a million dollars.

For automobile tourists there has been invented a complete bed that weighs only fourteen pounds and, with the exception of the blankets, can be folded and carried in the tool box of a car.

WIDE AREA AWAITED COMING OF FLOODS

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 14.—Daylight found the inhabitants of the Keowee and Seneca valleys, in South Carolina, still awake anxiously awaiting the crest of the flood waters loosened last night by the breaking of the great dam at Lake Toxaway, N. C. Warnings of the flood's approach, sent broadcast through Pickens, Walhalla, Oconee and Anderson counties, enabled dwellers in the lowlands to prepare to move if necessary.

The collapse of the dam released lake which covered 550 acres to an average depth of thirty feet, but so far known no lives were lost. At Lake Toxaway village, a noted summer resort, only minor damage was reported. A spring seeping through the foundation of the stone and earth structure is believed to have caused the collapse. The water's course through North Carolina ran through an almost uninhabited section of Transylvania county. Early today no reports of damage had been received, but there was little doubt that crops suffered severely.

NO BIG DAMAGE THUS FAR.

Anderson, S. C., Aug. 14.—Water released when the Toxaway dam broke last night reached Portman dam on the Seneca river, ten miles west of here, at 9:30 this morning. An hour earlier the flood struck the Blue Ridge railway crossing and continued to rise for some time. So far no great damage has been done and none is expected in this section.

3. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?
4. Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?
5. Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.
6. ¶ Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.
7. ¶ Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:
8. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.
9. Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?
10. Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?
11. If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?
12. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.
13. ¶ Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat:
14. Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.
15. ¶ Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.
16. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?
17. Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

The Final Hope

As the situation has now shaped itself after prolonged but fruitless negotiation, there appears no possibility for the United States to escape the tremendous calamity of a general railroad strike unless the president can find a way out—an avenue through which differences may be smoothed and a pathway leading to peace by some adjustment that shall be acceptable to both employes and employers. At this writing all eyes are turned on Washington in the profound hope that, forbidding as is the prospect, there yet will be reached some basis of agreement that will avert the storm that hangs in the industrial and commercial skies. There can be no gainsaying the paralyzing effect the strike will bring upon the country if the worst shall come. We believe that is fully appreciated both by the two factions directly involved as well as by the general public which, after all, must be the greater sufferer. With a full realization of this fact sinking deeply, we believe there can still be found a way out. That the president will use every endeavor to that purpose there can be no doubt.

Through many months the differences between the railroads and the membership of the four great brotherhoods in their demand for the eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime have been steadily approaching the crisis now at hand. The fixed determination of the employes to declare a strike if that shall be the only way of carrying their point is shown in the fact that a total of 128,812 votes were polled in favor of a strike and but 4,350 votes against such action. The railroad managers, on the other hand, have been just as positive in their declarations that the granting of the demands of the men is impossible. There is a wide difference in the contentions of the railroads and those of the employes as to the burden of cost to the roads' compliance with the demands of the men would place upon the railroads. Manifestly both of these estimates cannot be correct. One or the other is erroneous. It is this burden of cost that is proving the stumbling block, and it is from an unbiased inquiry into this phase of the case that most is to be expected. With neither faction desiring the strike, and with the public well-nigh aghast at the prospect of a break, let it be profoundly hoped that the efforts of President Wilson to bring harmony out of discord may be successful. It is the final hope.

Before his appointment to the United States senate, Mr. Taggart was accounted first of all a partisan of the "hide-bound" class, who could see nothing but good in his own party and nothing but evil outside it. His official career is doubtless proving a revelation to many of his old-time political foes; for he has unhesitatingly condemned what he regarded as wrong in his own party ranks as quickly and as vehemently as he has criticized his political opponents. The most recent instance in point is that in which the Indiana senator chided the senate for its tendency to wastefulness in the revenue bill. Senator Taggart is entitled to be judged by his performance in his official career, and there are indications that his performance is making a very strong hit with Indiana voters, regardless of politics.

Mr. Hughes, in his sweep across the country, is being warmly greeted, of course. The managers of his campaign are seeing to it that there is something in the way of party clamor for the nominee, and there is the natural desire, born of curiosity, to catch a glimpse of any presidential candidate—but the general public doesn't appear to be over-exerting itself in either throwing up its hat, indulging in fervid enthusiasm or setting the plains afire in its acclaim of the new-found Moses who is devoting the major portion of his efforts to enacting the role of a common scold.

The eyes of Indiana democracy will be turned on Fort Wayne next Saturday for the occasion which is to mark the formal opening of the state campaign. The Robison park gathering promises to be notable in many ways. It will be striking not only as an assemblage of prominent Indiana democrats who will sound the keynote of the campaign, but there is every evidence that the rank and file of the people will seize upon the occasion to voice their approval of the party's achievements and to tender assurance of continued confidence and support. Make arrangements to be on hand for this big event.

Eleven persons injured in Sunday automobile accidents in and near Fort Wayne makes it apparent that it is yet much too early for the safety first crusaders to take a vacation.

THE 10-CENT LOAF OF BREAD.

(Indianapolis Star.)

The 10-cent loaf of bread, which is proposed by Indianapolis bakers, was discussed a few days ago at the convention of master bakers of the United States held at Pueblo, Colo. The 5-cent loaf under present conditions is declared to be an economic waste. The speaker estimated that the cost of baking 1,000 loaves of bread of the 5-cent size is $3.55 more than the cost of baking the same flour into 10-cent loaves.

Local bakers declare that they are making no profit on the 5-cent loaf and this being the case their argument that efficiency and the exigencies of their business call for the larger loaf has a sound basis. The bakers, of course, are not responsible for the advance in the price of flour. That may be accounted for, in part at least, by the shortage in the wheat crop and the heavy foreign demand. How much speculation may have to do with the rise in the price of flour remains to be seen. A general increase in the price of bread will perhaps arouse an interest that will bring out the facts.

The proposal of the local bakers is to make a twenty-ounce loaf that will retail for 10 cents, the 5-cent loaf now on the market weighing thirteen ounces. That is, the consumer will get six ounces less for 10 cents than he now receives. It is plain that the cost of bread is to be higher throughout the country and it is a feature of our "new prosperity."

Cure for Cholera Morbus.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby, he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." GOLF.

Golf is the finishing school for learning the fine arts of "fibbing" and "profanity." It is called an "old man's game," because you're an old man before you're able to make a decent score.

Golf has broken up more homes than war. With war there's a chance for the father or husband getting back home, but with golf there ain't no such thing.

Golf is the simplest and easiest game in the world. The simplest part is missing the ball; and the easiest part is losing the ball.

If you've never played a game of golf and would like to find out what it's like, take a pinch of wet sand and place a half dollar on it. Then take a broom handle, close your eyes and take a slam at the four-bit piece. Then proceed to look for said gelt.

MANY HURT SUNDAY IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

One Machine Turns Over Twice Injuring Six—Others Clash.

Six men and a boy, 7 years old, were hurled through the air and landed in a heap in a fence corner when a big touring car from Gary, turned over twice near the Roebuck farm on the St. Joe road, Sunday. The gay party was coming to Fort Wayne from Germania park.

The boy was buried under four of the men when they piled up at the side of the road. He was the least hurt of the company. Two of the men had bad cuts in their arms and one received a long gash across his forehead. Three of the men were unconscious for a few minutes. None was seriously injured. They refused to give their names, but admitted they were from Gary. They were brought to the city in two automobiles.

The automobile was a complete wreck. It still stands by the side of the road, with two of its wheels smashed, the top broken and the body of the car damaged. One of the men of the party said he was driving the car when the accident occurred and that he had been drinking and was driving a little too fast.

Two Cars Collide.

August Cook, 65, of Sturgis, Mich., was hurt when the car driven by his son Cecil also of Sturgis, was struck by a machine piloted by William Koenig, of Woodburn, at Crescent avenue and State boulevard Sunday morning. The elderly man was thrown against the front of the car and his back injured.

Koenig was learning to run his new car and is said to have been on the wrongside of the road. He plunged his machine straight against the automobile driven by Cook, it is claimed. When the affair was reported to police they arrested Koenig. His car is held as bond for his appearance in police court.

August Cook is being cared for in the home of a relative, Albert Campbell, 1430 Columbia avenue, since he was removed from the hospital, where he was rushed after the accident.

"Circus Stunt" Pulled.

James Smith, 228 Wood avenue, and Albert Smith, 820 Superior street, were slightly injured in a thrilling "circus stunt" which consisted of colliding the motorcycle which was carrying them both with an automobile and then tumbling through the air and landing on the guard fender of a street car. Horace Mariotte, 504 West Washington street, was driving the automobile which had a part in the accident at the corner of Main and Harrison streets.

The street car was stopped after carrying the lads several feet. The young men were dazed for a time, but had received but minor bruises. They were able to walk away. Their motorcycle was badly damaged and the front of Mariotte's car was dinted.

Other Accidents.

B. R. Mars, carpenter, 1206 Clinton street, was knocked down at the corner of Calhoun and Montgomery streets. His face was cut.

Both machines were damaged when Ed Besancon, 2501 Parnell avenue, and George Hurshell, Ossian, collided at the Huntington and Hayden roads. Neither of the young men was hurt.

W. F. Meyer, 2513 Weisser Park avenue, was in a collision at Calhoun and Baker streets, in which two machines crashed together without serious injury being done.

W. S. Merriman, 1928 Koch street, narrowly missed serious injury when his automobile was struck by a street car on Taylor street.

H. C. Beckner reported that he had sideswiped an automobile bearing license No. 69834 on the Leo road, eight miles from the city, at 6 p. m. Sunday evening. Fenders were damaged on both machines. No one was hurt.

The machines in which Joe Laibe 1225 Fletcher avenue, and Owen Geary, of Mishawaka, formerly of this city, were riding were damaged when the two collided at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Washington and Shick streets.

LODGE NOTES

A joint picnic of members of Summit Encampment, No. 16 and Fort Wayne Encampment, No. 152, was held Sunday afternoon at Fitzgerald's grove, near Robison park. One of the big features of the day's festivities was a chicken dinner at the noon hour. A baseball game was played but the final score was not available at the close of the game. As a matter of fact the official score keepers are still tabulating the runs that were made. George Weddel and Fay Mallard captured the prizes in the horse shoe contest, consisting of leather cigar case and match box and a safety razor. Mallard also won a pocket knife in the free-for-all running race.

The annual picnic of the Eagles lodge was attended by 787 members and without question it was the most delightful affair of the kind that has ever been held by the lodge. The Garrett lodge brought sixty-three members and thereby won the $75 prize offered for the larges out-of-town delegation. Two Ohio cities took the remainder of the prize money from the city, Van Wert getting $50 for fifty-two members, and Tiffin, $25 for fifty members. The picnic was held in Centlivre's Driving park.

The loyal order of Camels will hold its annual convention at Lake James from August 13 to 27. Members of the order are Clarence Lapp, Leonard F. Kinsley, Henry Witte, Gust Tillman, Rudy Rohling, Carl Geiger, Fred Simon and Elmer Lagerman.

Liver Trouble.

"I am bothered with liver trouble about twice a year," writes Joe Dingman, Webster City, Iowa. "I have pains in my side and back and an awful soreness in my stomach. JACK LONDON IS GOING OVER TO HAWAII TO LIVE REST OF LIFE.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, snapped in San Francisco on their return from Hawaii.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Jack London, the novelist, is going to live in Hawaii for the remainder of his life.

That's what he announced the other day when he and Mrs. London came back to "The States" from Honolulu.

"I have been down there for seven months," he said, "and it is the only place in the world to live. I've rented a house there and expect to spend the rest of my life, or a good part of it, in the islands.

"I have been writing stories based on the native life in Hawaii and in doing so have of necessity visited villages on remote islands, where the people live as they did at the coming of Captain Cook. Nowhere else in the world have I found such charming hospitality. The charm of their plaintive music, the thrumming of ukueles and the muted guitars has wrought so strongly on me that I have practically determined to live in Hawaii for the rest of my years.

"Hawaii has the finest and most equable climate in the world. It is never too hot nor too cold, and it rains usually at night, in order not to cause any inconvenience. When it rains in the daytime the sun continues shining and the combination is generally made perfect by a wonderful rainbow."

MACHINE OPERATOR GAINED 15 POUNDS

John Pranger Tells of Wonderful Benefits He Received Through Use of Tanlac.

"I suffered from various forms of stomach trouble," Mr. Pranger said on March 25. "For several hours after eating my meals I was annoyed by a heavy feeling in my stomach. Gas formed in my stomach and I was troubled with bloating. I did't relish my food. I was unable to sleep soundly and was losing weight rapidly.

"The first bottle of Tanlac brought me benefits. I have now taken four bottles of the medicine and can eat anything I care for without fear of the bad after effects, the bloating, gas formations and the heavy feeling. I sleep fine and have gained fifteen pounds.

"Tanlac helped me where all other remedies failed and I recommend it to anybody suffering from stomach trouble It did me a wonderful amount of good."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like.

Tanlac is now being specially introduced and explained in Fort Wayne at the four Meyer drug stores—Wayne and Calhoun streets, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor streets.—Advertisement.

Business Girl, Nurse and Widow Win Prizes in Colville Indian Reservation Drawing.

(Staff Special.)

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 9.—From the certainty of a well-established business and a sure income to the uncertainty of a homestead and a fight with the soil for a livelihood.

She is Miss Agnes C. Gromish, a young business woman. She can't decide whether or not to take the dare which Fate flung at her when it named her 59th in the drawing for the Colville Indian reservation, which Uncle Sam has thrown open in northern Washington state.

Like scores of other lucky ones, Miss Gromish had no more idea than the man in the moon that she would win, when she registered. She entered the race for land with more than 90,000 others just because it seemed the thing to do. When a little girl pulled her name from the mass of envelopes she was as much surprised as anybody.

She was an assistant to the land notaries here. When she saw how eager others were to get a chance—when she saw them coming clear from Florida to register—she decided it never would do for her to pass up such an opportunity. So two days before registration closed she entered her name.

Hardened old pioneers, used to roughing it and equipped with strong arms and backs, have a wholesome respect for the struggle which they would have to make on the land thrown open for settlement on the reservation, before fortune and a home would come to them.

And Miss Gromish, whose latest years have been spent in an office and who never has faced hard manual tasks, naturally is hesitating.

She came here five years ago from Helena, Mont., and since then has built up a healthy young business as a public stenographer. She has a suite of offices in one of the downtown business blocks and has two women working under her.

She is supporting her mother, whom she says will go with her if she decides to cut the life line here and plunge into the unknown of homesteading.

"I think it would be fun," she said.

So maybe she'll do it!

Doubts as to what she'll do are not troubling Mrs. Mary E. McLaughlin, widow, and mother of three grown children, who was 76th in the drawing.

"Sure I'm going," she said.

She has been in Spokane nine years and was the support of her children until they began to strike out for themselves. A boy of 22 is now in Wyoming, a girl of 20 is in business college here and another girl of 16 is in high school.

"The children can do what they please, but I'm going on my homestead," declared Mrs. McLaughlin, who is an intrepid, determined-looking woman. She says she sees in the Colville opening a chance for a permanent home, with contentment and plenty when old age comes.

"I don't intend to be dependent on my children," she said. "If they want to come and live with me, all right. If they don't, they won't have to worry about me. For I will have enough to keep me."

The known fascination of nursing and the unknown experiences of homesteading are battling for first place in the mind of another woman here, Miss Margaret Wallace, a graduate nurse, who is wondering if the fates had anything to do with giving her number 13 in the land drawing.

She says it's the biggest surprise of her life. She came here twelve years ago, was graduated as a nurse in 1906, and since then has been sturdily "paddling her own canoe."

George Lennon, the Spokane man who drew first choice out of 90,410 names, will have a big family to help him work his homestead. Besides his father, John Lennon, stationary engineer, he has seven brothers and sisters. They call him a world wanderer, but say that maybe now he'll settle down.

OWNER OF DAMAGED AUTO ENDS IN JAIL

The nemesis, which is said to trail all wrongdoers, must have caused the chain to break on the little single cylinder machine in which Berger Engbloom was taking a joy ride Sunday. He went to a nearby house to get a wrench. It was the home of E. W. Studer, 502 Putnam street. Studer took one look at Engbloom and then hastened to the telephone.

While Engbloom was tinkering with his little car police arrived and arrested him. Studer had recognized Engbloom as the man who sold him a stolen cow a month ago. Engbloom waived examination in police court and was bound over to the circuit court under $500 bond. He is in the county jail.

Engbloom is accused of leading a Jersey cow from a vacant lot in the rolling mills district a month ago. He sold the animal to Studer for $35. Studer sold the cow at the slaughter house. Just after the animal had been killed the real owner arrived at the slaughter pen. He brought action against Studer. The transaction cost Studer $50.

Studer and police have been looking for the young man who led the cow from the commons. Engbloom says he has been in Fort Wayne three months. He left a quiet town in New York state because he owed a board bill of $20, he told. He says he will plead guilty to the charge of stealing the cow.

Pay Fine for Gambling.

The fact that there was money and a deck of cards in front of five men when police raided a house in the rolling mill district Sunday night, caused Judge Kerr to assess a fine of $75 against the men, who he held were gambling. The men gave their names as Nick Welty, Leonard Jones, Tom Williams, William Meyers and Joe Taher.

They were defended by an attorney in police court Monday morning, who made a vai neffort to show that evidence was not sufficient for conviction.

Another Liquor Case.

Philip Hettmansperger, former owner of the saloon at 1430 Fairfield avenue, and now bartender in the place: Edward Tennis, owner of the saloon in which Hettmansperger works, and Calvin Waite, bartender for I. G. Greenstone, 133 West Columbia street, were on the police court docket Monday, charged with selling liquor to a minor. Their cases were continued until Wednesday.

Patrolman Charles Eisenhut signed the warrant for the arrest of the men after Robert Hensinger, seventeen years old, 1309 Ewing street, had told that he obtained drink in the three resorts. His father brought the original complaint because he said his son had been getting liquor some place regularly. His son would not tell him where he got the drink. When brought before the police the lad told that he was sold wine and beer at each of the three places.

Wife Deserter Sentenced.

Archie Sharp, 27, plumber, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to spend the next 100 days at labor on Allen county roads because he has failed to provide for his seventeen-year-old bride.

The woman has been staying with her parents at 414 Elizabeth street, during the past few days. They were married in January. The wife has had little support since that time, she told.

More "Pocketbook" Trouble.

Black had just told that he was not drunk Saturday night, but that he raised a row after his wife stole his pocketbook out of his hip pocket when they started buggy riding. She took $40 from him, he told.

Black had pleaded guilty to a drunk charge on Saturday morning and was fined $5 and costs. His wife paid the $15. Police were called to the home late Saturday night, where neighbors said they could not sleep because of the noise Black was making.

Patrolman Laninger ordered Black to leave the place after the wife had said her husband threatened to kill her. Later Laninger returned and found Black on the back porch of the house. He was locked up. He will remain in jail until his fine of $5 and costs is served, his wife says, because she refuses to bail him out again.

Other Police Court Cases.

William Koenig, driver of the automobile which struck the machine in which August Cook was riding, Sunday, and caused the aged man to be injured, will be tried on a charge of assault and battery Wednesday. He asked for continuance of the case to ascertain the seriousness of injuries to Cook.

Evelyn Haines, taken in a "redlight" raid by police last week with two other women and three men, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of associating. She was fined $15 and costs.

John Myers, who made an attack on his father last week and broke the aged man's collar bone, was released after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. His father refused to sign the affidavit for his being held on a charge of assault and battery. Myers knocked his father down when intoxicated.

Carl Puff was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to ten days in the county jail after being convicted on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had started a fight in a Calhoun street saloon, evidence showed, and later resisted police.

John Weise will be tried on August 15 on a charge of driving an automobile after dark without lighted lamps.

Fines of $5 and costs on intoxication charges were assessed against John Smith, Frank Fitzgerald and Thomas Arthur. John Klee, charged with being drunk, will be tried on Aug. 16. He is held in jail under $25 bond.

Carl Skingle, of Kalamazoo, will be tremens, Dr. Edgar Mendenhall testi- He is on the verge of having delirium trmmens, Dr. Edgar Mendenhall testified. Skingle was cared for at the St. Joseph hospital for several days and when released went into a saloon, Mendenhall said. Skingle will be given a chance to straighten up.

Minnie Cannon, charged with intoxication, will be tried Tuesday. She is held in jail. John Welsh was released after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. Jim Douns was fined $1 and costs when convicted of public intoxication.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The convention of the veterans of foreign wars opened here today with delegations present from all sections of the country. It is expected the attendance will total more than 10,000 before the final session, Thursday, though many more would have come to Chicago had it not been for the situation which keeps the troops at the Mexican border, according to the officers.

The organization comprises soldiers, sailors and marines who have served in any war between the United States and a foreign nation.

A MODIFIED FICHU

A CERTAIN woman in a certain neighborhood is always admired by her friends because she always gives the appearance of dressing in the very latest fashion. Yet, if the truth were known, she wears her clothes longer than a great many of her friends. Her secret of always giving this impression is the fact that she pays strict attention to the latest thing in neckwear. By spending fifty cents or a dollar for the newest collar she is able to transform the appearance of a last year's blouse or gown. Her method is one worth following.

Among the newest collar models is the modified fichu. It is made up in various materials, net, organdie and crepe de chine. The one pictured is of net. It is quite noticeable that on collars of this material hand embroidery is employed. The work is done either in white, in color or in a combination of colors. A full ruffle of the net emphasizes the fichu effect and is joined to the shaped collar with hemstitching.

FOR EMBROIDERED FLOUNCING

IT IS not an easy matter by any means to find a smart way of making up the wide embroidered flouncings. But it is not impossible. Here you have a frock sketched today which shows you how very attractive the embroidered flouncing will look when combined with a plain material. Now is the time of year to pick up remnants, and three yards of flouncing with three yards of plain material will make a very wearable frock to finish out the summer season.

Colors for thin frocks like organdies are so smart that it seems a shame not to take advantage of the style and select a flouncing in white with embroidery of color. The plain material for combination should then be organdie of the matching color.

The flouncing is turned upward for the skirt with a shallow yoke of plain material. The scallops are arranged on the waist to give a vest effect. The pleatings may be done with a goffering iron if one has one, or for a few cents at an establishment where hemstitching, pleating, etc., are done. Either heading or hemstitching may be used to join the plain and embroidered materials. If one is energetic a heading of hairpin crochet in colored cotton would be a very valuable addition to the frock.

THE NOON HOUR

IN ORDER for the business woman to preserve health, good looks and energy, it is quite essential that she use wisdom in living her noon hour. A great deal of injury is done to the system by the snatching of unwholesome lunches and the quick eating of them.

A well-chosen lunch need not be expensive. A single dish selected with an eye to the other two meals in the day would cost less than the usual lunch topped off with pastry or ice cream. It would also prove more nourishing, and will give more pleasure in the end, because it will preserve the health, and good health, you know, is the road to happiness. You can cultivate a liking for the plain foods. Some one has advocated fasting, as a means for making plain foods taste good. Of course, the fast must be observed with common sense. Hunger is the best relish.

When the lunch has been eaten one should spend as much time as possible in the fresh air and not in crowded stores and other buildings which are polluted with bad air. A ten or fifteen minute brisk walk will fill you with a desire to work like a "good fellow" when you go back to your business. Try it and see.

PLAY CLOTHES FROM HISTORY

THE modern woman is eternally seeking ways of agreeably instructing her children. She wants geography and arithmetic and history to be interesting, not boring to them. A very good plan to acquaint them with olden times is to make play clothes for them modeled on those of the people you discuss.

Every little girl is curious to know what her great-grandmother or perhaps her great-great-grandmother were when she was young. Surprise her with a dress which you can tell her is exactly like the party gown of that long-ago lady.

The skirt, which should be long enough to reach the floor, has a pink panel down the front. Make it of chambray or any other cheap material you care to use. The flowered overskirt is full, and gathered at the waist, but does not cover the panel front. The edge is finished with a gathered ruffle.

The waist is rather plain with ruffles on the sleeves, but it has a fichu, as wide as you like, and long enough to tie in front after crossing. This fichu is made of the pink material with a ruffle edging of the same.

Billy Penn makes a fine model for the little boy who likes impressive garb. Use the pattern of his everyday suit for the rather tight breeches of pink. There should also be a waistcoat of pink goods. Over this costume is worn a black coat with long skirt, just like the pictures that children are accustomed to see, of this great man. The hat has a black brim and a pink crown to make it more attractive, tho if you want the children to get the best idea, use all black.

To this group, being equally good for the fancy dress party or for play, and teaching children patriotism, is the Uncle Sam suit. The trousers are very long and very slim, reaching to the little ankles and affording its owner much joy in being like a grownup's suit. They are made of red and white striped goods, while the coat worn over it is blue with long tails. The hat is high of crown with white stars on a blue ground and a band of red.

YELLOW UNDERWEAR

PERHAPS women are going to run the gamut of the spectrum so far as choosing colors for their underwear is considered the correct thing. In days gone by all-white underwear was considered the correct thing. Later on one was given the privilege of adding colored ribbons or a few stitches of embroidery to the white background. Then women grew bolder and put upon themselves underwear which resembled the flesh in color. Altho the flesh-colored garments are still in favor, they were supplanted for a while by a craze for baby blue garments. Now fair dames are offered the most alluring garments in shades of yellow, the most favored being pale lemon. Sets of yellow articles are elaborated in various ways by hemstitching. Embroidery and beads are among the favorite trimmings.

As for the materials, crepe de chine, Italian silk and Georgette crepe reign supreme. There are many women, however, who cannot afford silk underwear but for these there is a very satisfactory substitute. Reference is made to silk muslin. The substitute is very effective, is cool, launders well and costs many times less than the silk variety.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Machine Oil Removed

I have just got a lot of machine oil on a white linen skirt. Is there any effective way that I can follow to remove it?

Mrs. G. H.

Dress Finish

Miss D. L.

You can make a very pretty trimming on the material of your dress. Cut strips of the material if possible and with a pin pick the edges until they are frayed. This makes a very novel trimming.

Are We to Have a Race of Baldheads When Future Generations Shall Arrive?

This Woman Advances the Unique Theory That Baldness is Hereditary—That Children of Bald Parents Will Also Come Into the Hairless Age Early in Life.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Is the human race doomed to be bald-headed?

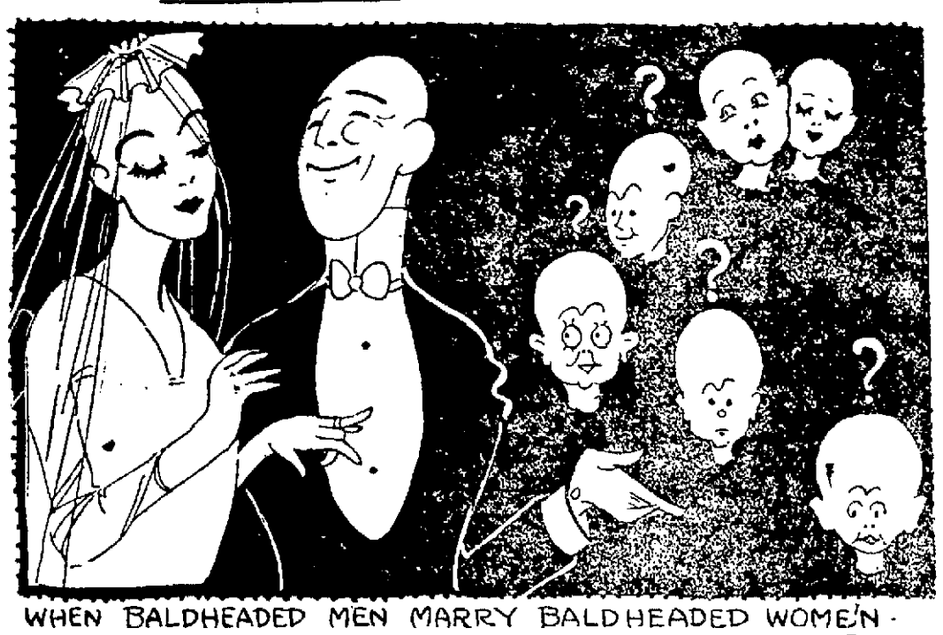
Research into causes of baldness, made by Miss Dorothy Osborn of Ohio State university, indicating "yes," is the answer to these questions.



Miss Osborn, is a bulletin issued says she has found, through research based on the study of pedigree charts, that baldness is heredity; that it is passed on from father to son, and to daughter, too, when both father and mother are bald.

While Miss Osborn does not provide a cure for baldness she says it is not caused by tight hats or disease, as is commonly believed. Baldness is more common among men than women. Miss Osborn says, but there is a great deal more baldness among women than appears "on the surface." Artful woman can conceal her baldness more easily than poor man.

All the children of parents, both of whom are baldheaded, will be bald at maturity. These children will pass the affliction or whatever it may be called, along to their children.

Miss Osborn says that if the father is bald and the mother is not, the sons only will be bald-headed.

A woman who inherits baldness from only one parent will not herself be bald, but may transmit baldness to one-half her sons. Her daughters, however, will produce a normal hirsute adornment.

That heredity is the cause of baldness is strikingly shown by Miss Osborn's discovery that a baldness-pattern is sometimes present on an infant's head at birth, and is then grown over, to reappear in after years when the hair falls out.

Miss Osborn says a completely bald head is rare, but that various patterns of baldness are frequent in man. The most common type is complete baldness on top of the head. A strong second is the "high forehead" baldness.

Now, if bald-headed men persist in marrying bald-headed women, what will the harvest be, say in the year 2500 A. D.?

Are You Risking Your Life or Health?

Best Antiseptic for Cuts and Sores Known to Science.

A Sick Room Necessity—Prevents Disease Spreading.

Do you use peroxide for cuts, sores, wounds or mouth wash when government reports show that it and similar products have absolutely no germ-killing power?

Do you use carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury or any other poisonous antiseptic or disinfectant, although records show hundreds of deaths each year from accidental misuse of such preparations and in addition why tolerate the awful odor of coal tar products.

Do you know that one of the greatest antiseptics, germicides, disinfectants and deodorants is now made by electricity from sodium chloride? It is Zonite and is absolutely non-poisonous, non-irritant, perfectly harmless, leaves no odor and yet is one of the most powerful germ destroyers and deodorants known to science.

Although Zonite has 100 widely different uses, its action is exactly the same in each case, that is, the releasing of chlorine when it comes in contact with organic matter. Any doctor or chemist is familiar with the remarkable results obtainable. Zonite is endorsed by eminent medical authority and various health boards.

THIS CAMPAIGN WILL COIN WORD PACIFIST

Few Expressions That Have Had Their Origin in Big Political Battles.

One new word which this political campaign is sure to preserve is pacifist. Editor George Harvey's magazine spells it two ways in one article—pacifist and pacificist.

"Pacifist" made its bow before the political campaign opened, but we may credit it as a part of our current political vocabulary.

"Bull Moose" was born in the 1912 campaign and "Mugwump" was the child of 1884, when many republicans deserted Blaine for Cleveland.

A "barrel," meaning a barrelful of money, came in during the Hayes-Tilden battle and was the republican way of referring to "Sammy" Tilden's free use of coin for election purposes.

"Boodle" meant a somewhat different kind of money—the sort Tammany aldermen got in the days of the Tweed ring. Cartoonist Tom Nast made that word stick.

How quickly the author of things becomes an unknown! Who first used "pacifist?" It came since the war started and we all know what it means—one who prefers peace at any price. But who coined the word?

Nobody kwnows who invented teh epithet "copperhead," as applied to Northern men who sympathized with the south during the civil war.

The origin of nearly all other political terms of that stamp is unknown. Aaron Burr first used the expression "a political machine."

Because old-time political speakers sometimes stood upon the stumps of trees the words "stump speech" and "stumping" came into use, but we don't know what writer first used them in that sense.

In the spring of 1880 a reporter out at Mansfield, Ohio, asked Colonel Moulton, who was John Sherman's brother-in-law, what the latter was doing. Sherman was in a field laying rails upon a fence. "Why," said Moulton, "he is mending his fences."

Since then "mending fences" has had a distinct political meaning.

Seventy years ago "locofocos" was a general name applied to democrats by the whigs. A party of Tammany men had met to protest against certain bank privileges, and when the gas was turned out they lighted locofoco matches. From that incident grew the political epithet.

We borrowed "jingo" from England. It originated during the war between Turkey and Russia, when British feeling was all for the Turk. A popular song of the day had this refrain:

"We don't want to fight, but by jingo if we do,
We've got the ships, we've got the men,
we've got the money, too."

After that a jingo was a person who indulged in bluster respecting a foreign country.

In the early fifties a sentence spoken by Daniel Webster had a wide political vogue, and it might be applied now with considerable point: "I was born an American, I live an American, I shall die an American."

Ex-President Van Buren's followers in 1844 were labeled "barnburners." A farmer had set fire to his barn to kill the rats in it, which policy Van Buren's enemies said he was pursuing.

"Hunkers" were the other faction, who opposed that political disciple of Jackson.

John C. Fremont was the first republican candidate for president. That was 60 years ago this summer. The great campaign cry of his cohorts was "Free soil, free speech, free men and Fremont!"

We still employ the word "carpet-bagger," but nobody knows who coined the phrase. It was first applied to northern men who went south after the war, and it became a term of reproach.

An even more recent and still more picturesque expression was "bloody shirt." It was an epithet hurled by democrats during the seventies at the republicans who kept alive in politics speeches issues of the war. "Waving the bloody shirt" was a common term in democratic newspapers of that day.

One of the most telling political phrases ever made was employed by the late Joseph Chamberlain when leader in the British parliament. During the Boer war he stamped all those who opposed his policy of expansion in South Africa as "Little Englanders."

When W. J. Bryan was first a candidate for president, 20 years ago, many eastern democrats refused to support his free-silver theories. They were then labeled "goldbugs."

SENATOR KERN WILL SPEAK AT PRINCETON

(By Willis S. Thompson.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Senator John W. Kern will deliver the Labor day address at Princeton and will speak at Cannelton on the following day. He has probably made a record throughout his public life that will appeal stronger to the working classes than that of any other man in public life. His views on the subject of labor legislation have been well known from the days when he served in the state senate. The remarkable fight he made almost single handed on his resolution to investigate the conditions in the Paint Creek mining region of West Virginia, and the startling revelations of the investigation attracted national attention. He was equally prominent in the fight which resulted in the modification of the powers of injunctions by federal courts in cases involving labor, and in the passage of that section of the Clayton act which makes it clear for all time that organizations of farmers and workingmen are not criminal under the anti-trust law.

In every fight that labor has had in the senate since his entrance into that body he has taken the lead in their behalf. That this has been noted and appreciated by the working classes was made evident recently when all the national officers of the United Mine Workers signed a telegram of congratulation on the occasion of his birthday, expressing the hope that he would be continued indefinitely in public life to serve the masses of the people. His appearance at Princeton is not due to his candidacy, but to the fact that in the truest sense he had "served" and the people know it.

Taggart a Business Man.

"Senator Taggart," says an eastern newspaper correspondent, "has taken hold of his new duties in Washington after a fashion that has made a distinct impression upon his colleagues. A business man himself, he has carefully examined all the appropriation bills from the view-point of the business man with the intention of cutting out all the unnecessary expenditures and he has already made himself rather obnoxious to the little group of the Black Horse cavalry, who have looked upon the public purse as legitimate plunder. He is always found in attendance on the senate, always on the job and in this sense he has set a good example to many of the old timers who have a national reputation for attending to business when, as a matter of fact, they seldom are found upon the floor except on field days, when the galleries are crowded."

An Interesting Dispatch.

Here is a special dispatch printed by the Indianapolis News in its issue of June 24, 1912, under date from Chicago. Note the persons who did "the real business" in that convention:

"In the republican national convention at Chicago just closed, Indiana was much in the limelight, not only because of the host of Indiana persons present as guests, assistant sargeants at arms, doorkeepers and so on, but because of the important part played by Indianians in the real business of the convention.

"Charles W. Fairbanks was chairman of the committee on resolutions. James E. Watson, of Rushville, was floor leader for the regulars and was in evidence every minute. James A. Heinenway was the Indiana member of the committee on credentials and made one of the most effective speeches of the convention in the matter of the contested delegates. Harry S. New, the outgoing national committeeman from Indiana, was chairman of the sub-committee of the national convention that made the arrangements for the convention. Edward B. Thayer, of Greenfield, was first assistant sargeant at arms, with plenty to do. Joseph B. Kealing, though not an officer of the convention or a member of any of the committees or even a delegate, was next to Mr. McKinley, the principal manager of the Taft campaign, and on all sides there were expressions of commendation for his excellent work."

For the present addresses of all these distinguished gentlemen, Indiana progressives are respectfully referred to the Indiana senatorial and state ticket and the managing board named by Candidate Hughes to conduct his campaign.

Nervous, Appetite Gone, Liver Not Acting?

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Will Make Your Liver Act Freely in Half an Hour

Medical science has proven that the bile made by the liver is Nature's only laxative. When the liver is doing its work properly the bile flows freely into the bowels, keeping them regular as a clock. When the bile tubes become clogged the bile is forced back into the system, causing sallow skin, nervousness, loss of appetite, headaches, gassy stomach, heartburn and other symptoms of biliousness.

Concentrated Tollo Water from Dawson Springs gives the surest and quickest relief. You can prove it by taking a third of a tumblerful in a glass of plain water. It will dissolve the obstructions in the bile tubes and wash out the liver and bowels just as thoroughly and clean as soap and water bathes your skin.

Just the minute your liver is clean and active your nerves become quiet and the appetite normal. You can eat what you like without pain or inconvenience afterwards. Get a 15-cent bottle from the drug store and try it before breakfast tomorrow morning. It is not like strong drugs that upset the stomach and weaken the system; it builds as it cleans. Take a little every morning until the complexion returns to its natural pink shade and the appetite is good. After that an occasional wineglassful before breakfast will keep the liver active and the bowels regular. —Advertisement.

FORMER FORT WAYNE MAN WRITES PAGEANT

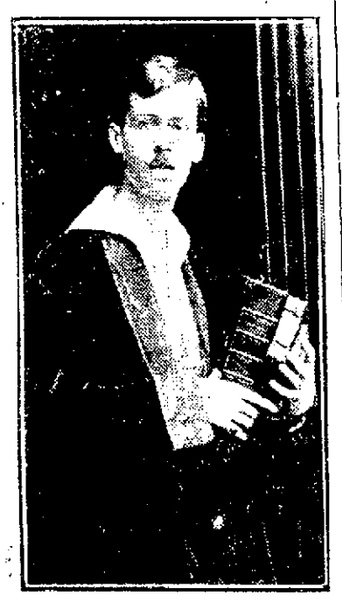
Much interest has been aroused in the historic sections about the city of Philadelphia, as the time approaches for the presentation of "Kennett," an historical pageant by L. Eastwood



L. Eastwood Seibold.

Siebold, a former resident of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Siebold and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Newell H. Ransom, of Lakeside.

Great significance is attached to the entire affair, the pageant being a dramatization of Bayard Taylor's greatest novel, "The Story of Kennett"; the plot being woven around the lives of many families which in Revolutionary times lived about the village of Kennett Square some thirty miles or more from Philadelphia.

Here, January 11, 1825, Bayard Taylor was born and spent his boyhood; after years of travel, during which he was ambassador to Germany, he returned to the old place and built "Cedarcroft," the realization of his boyhood dreams, a beautiful home just a mile from the quaint village perpetuated in his book.

Upon this story, Mr. Siebold has based the pageant, having added an allegoric prologue and epilogue of beautiful conception.

The pageant will be presented by the residents of Kennett Square including many descendants of the early families mentioned in the novel as well as of Bayard Taylor's family. The production, which is to be given in memory of the poet, will be staged upon the lawn of "Cedarcroft," September 21, 22, 23, there being three afternoon performances and one evening.

Mr. Siebold, in addition to directing the production, has also designed all the stage properties as well as many of the costumes.

For so young a man Mr. Siebold has had much experience along pageants and amateur dramatics; he has written and produced a great many plays and this will be his third pageant in the last two years. He has been associated with a number of the large Shakespeare festivals given in the East, including the wonderful production of Percy MacKaye's "Caliban" in the New York University Stadium.

A dramatic club, "The Eastwood Players," which was organized by him a year ago, is now planning an extensive Shakespeare fete for the fall season.

Mr. Siebold is a member of the Drama League of America, the American Pageant association, the Plays and Players, the Stage Society of Philadelphia, and the Shakespeare Festival Guild of Boston.

In reference to Fort Wayne's recent pageant, Mr. Siebold has said: "Though I regret I had not the pleasure of seeing your splendid civic production, I have read the Book of Words, as well as the many interesting clippings from the "Sentinel" and can only say that were there nothing else in Fort Wayne worthy of recognition, such community spirit as was born to present so wonderful a piece of work, alone, would place Fort Wayne foremost among the cities of America, where the highest ideals of man are fought for and won!"

Paoli, Ind., Aug. 14.—(Staff Special.)—The hollyhocks are blooming around the Radcliffe cottage here in the fastnesses of the Indiana hills. The golden glow tosses streams of gold across the rickety rail fence against the gray unpainted walls of an aged frame cottage.

The little clearing, half the size of a city block, is blazing with color—but there are not flowers enough in even this flower-carpeted forest to brighten the gloom of the Radcliffes.

"That was Lizzie's room," whispered Lizzie Radcliffe's mother, nodding toward the window where the hollyhocks were loveliest. "She liked the hollies, but they are withering, because no one tends them now."

"The apples will be coming red soon," said Lizzie's father. "I reckon no one will bother about this tree"—stroking a gnarled apple tree — "it was Lizzie's tree: she'd gather the apples every fall and sell them to buy a new fall dress."

And so the hollyhocks are wilting, the apples spoil on the ground; there will be empty pantry shelves, and empty, aching hearts, because Lizzie isn't here.

Across the great knob of sand near the cross roads the hollyhocks nod over her new-made grave.

But we have been reading a great deal about her in the newspapers—"The air bubble murder"—"The Radcliffe tragedy"—"Girl murdered by boy sweetheart."

It seems unbelievable, when I see those glaring headlines, that these frightful phrases can refer to the little girl I'm hearing about from the farm folks who knew her so well.

Three generations of Radcliffes lived in the weather-beaten cottage twelve miles out of Paoli, where I went to see Lizzie Radcliffe's mother.

Lizzie's father, Ben Radcliffe, was born in the cottage where he lives today, with his two grown sons, a 20-year-old daughter, Mary, and "Mother."

Neither Mary nor Lizzie ever talked of going to "the city"—Louisville is but twenty-five miles away—as so many country girls do. Their clothes were poor, their pleasures few, but they never complained. Lizzie especially seemed contented to stay home and tend the hollyhocks.

But the city called her. Last October she was sent to Olney, Ill., a town of 6,000 people, 150 miles from the Radcliffe farm. Lizzie went there to live with her married sister, Alice, and help care for Alice's children.

In Olney she wore prettier clothes than she wore back on the farm. There were skating rinks and parties, and this summer there were picnics. The soldier boys were in Olney, preparing to go to the border. Lizzie and her girl chums knew them, and they had much harmless fun while the troops were in town.

But some time, no one knows when, Lizzie met Roy Hinterliter, a boy from West Salem, thirty miles south of Olney. He had a fine team of horses and a smart buggy. The girl he took riding had reason to be proud.

Friday night, July 21, he called after 9 o'clock. An hour later, at the edge of the picturesque old orchard, the ride ended. In an attempt to evade the consequence of their love, and the girl's confidence in him, Hinterliter, it is charged by the police, caused his sweetheart's death. With her dead body in his arms he drove back to town, to the sanitarium, hoping the doctors could revive her.

And the next day in The Sentinel you read the tragic story.

How did it happen—and why? Is there wisdom enough in the world to solve the mystery of the "good girls who go wrong"—the Marion Lamberts and the Lizzie Radcliffes? Was it wrong for Lizzie Radcliffe to be innocent and trusting at 16?

I talked with a good many people here about it, the grocer at the cross roads, and clubwomen in Olney. They are appalled and puzzled.

Most of them believe a girl of 16 should be kept very close to her mother; they point out that in the isolation of the backwoods Lizzie Radcliffe was kept pure and sweet, but she learned nothing of the world and when she faced the world alone she had no knowledge to protect her from evil.

And they sigh, and say how pitifully young is 16—and how pitiless is the world to youth!

More Interurbans for Fort Wayne

To the Editor of The Sentinel:—Everything pertaining to interurban railroads is of interest to the citizens of Fort Wayne. In steam railroads we are only two (2) behind Indianapolis, her 14 against our 12 lines. But in interurbans we are 7 behind, with her 12 against our only 5 lines. Indianapolis is the world's greatest example of the application of electricity to the moving of passenger cars.

I have a good understanding with Mr. J. Levering Jones, of Philadelphia who is aware of my intention to spend some of my own money in surveying two (2) interurban extensions, from the terminus of his seven miles of double track railroad at Robison park, one line north to Leo, Spencerville and Butler, the other line from the same Robison park terminal northeast through Grabill (on the Detroit line of the Wabash) to Hicksville and Bryan, Ohio. At both of these terminals (Butler and Bryan) connections will be made for Toledo and Detroit. These will be good interurbans for Fort Wayne business.

Mr. Glathart, the best locator of interurbans in the state of Ohio, recommended to me by General Manager Smith of the Toledo and Findlay railroad, a fine surveyor, is coming here to drive over these lines with me, and we expect to put some new life into the hearts of Fort Wayne merchants.

HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 14.—The new sanitary drinking cup order of the state board of health, which prohibits the use of a common drinking cup in public places, has caused several places here to serve water with straws. Individual drinking cups were found to cost about 1 cent each. To eliminate that expense straws have been substituted. The water is drawn in a cup, but the cup never touches the lips. A new straw is given each person.

William Lee, a young man formerly residing in Decatur, has been returned to that city to answer to a paternity charge filed against him in the court of Squire E. Burt Lenhart at that place by Miss Nellie Deen. Lee resided in Decatur until a short time ago when he came to this city. He has been working at the Berghoff brewery. Lee is about twenty-two years old and the girl is eighteen.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 14.—The largest real estate transaction in the history of Terre Haute has been announced in the sale of the McKeen block, owned by the W. R. McKeen estate, in the heart of the retail business district, to Crawford Fairbanks for a consideration of $750,000, with a cash payment of $650,000. The purchaser assumes a mortgage of $100,000, which, it is said, was placed on the property when William R. McKeen made his unsuccessful race for United States senator in 1897.

The sale was made by the executors of the McKeen estate, S. C. McKeen, president of the McKeen National Bank; W. R. McKeen, president of the McKeen Motor Car Company, of Omaha, and Benjamin McKeen, of Pittsburg, general manager of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg.

Frank McKeen, former president of the bank, who died recently, was an executor, and his death is said to have hastened the negotiations that had been pending for some time.

The property has a frontage on Wabash avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets, of 325 feet, and is regarded as the most desirable business rental property in the city. A five-story building on it was erected nine years ago at a cost of $125,000, and it now is occupied by A. Herz. Other buildings on the property are three stories in height.

The purchase of this property makes Mr. Fairbanks the largest owner of real estate in Terre Haute. His other property includes the Terre Haute house, the Grand opera house and the Tribune building, making his holdings within one block of the corner of Seventh street and Wabash avenue worth easily $1,500,000. All of his real estate is said to be free from incumbrance.

The death of Frank McKeen makes it practically certain that S. C. McKeen, who succeeded him as president of the McKeen National Bank, will be the only heir who will live in Terre Haute. The other heirs wish to have their interest in the estate invested in enterprises of their own, and they decided to dispose of all property as rapidly as possible.

In addition to the brothers who are executors of the estate the heirs include three sisters, Mrs. Horace C. Pugh, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Valentine L. Shuler, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Howard A. Cutler, of Andover, Mass., and Mrs. Mary McKeen, widow of Frank McKeen.

The only step remaining in the transfer of the property is the approval of the sale by the probate court, which can not be obtained until the opening of the September term of the circuit court.

WARMER WEATHER IS PROMISE FOR TUESDAY

The government theremometer reached the seventy-five degree mark again Monday afternoon and a promise was made for slightly warmer weather for Tuesday. It is also probable that Tuesday will bring showers of rain.

Fort Wayne people experienced a very cool night Sunday. The temperature remained at fifty-four from 2 to 5 o'clock Monday morning. This is the coolest that it has been all summer.

For the past few weeks there has been an evening and morning dew. The weather man states that the dews have been very heavy and have been a great benefit to all kinds of vegetation.

WOULD HAVE OPERATED UPON BIRDBOY SMITH

Art Smith, Fort Wayne birdboy, who fell while making a flight in Japan some weeks ago breaking a leg, would have been operated upon by Dr. John B. Murphy, Chicago's foremost surgeon, had he lived. According to a dispatch from San Francisco, Smith was making preparations to come to Chicago to have his leg broken over that it might be reset properly, when he received word of Dr. Murphy's death at Mackinac Island. From Chicago he intended to come on to Fort Wayne to visit with his parents.

HE SAYS RELIEF WORK DIDN'T GET THE MONEY

New York, Aug. 14.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, H. H. Westinghouse, Daniel Guggenheim and others have been subpoenaed as witnesses in a damage inquiry which the district attorney's office announced today would begin tomorrow into the disposition of $7,000 of funds collected from philanthropic persons by Rev. Dr. Charles T. Barlis, as director of the allies' hospital relief commission.

According to the district attorney, much of the money was used in organization and expense detail of the commission, but none has been expended for the relief work for which it was intended.

WOULD EXTEND LIFE OF PARLIAMENT UNTIL MAY

But Asquith Does Not Move for Changes Regarding Vote Qualifications.

London, Aug. 14. Premier Asquith introduced in the house of commons today a bill to extend the life of the present parliament for eight months, or until the end of next May.

When the premier made his announcement that he would introduce the bill he said that he intended at the same time to announce the government's proposals regarding registration. Today, however, Mr. Asquith said it was not the purpose of the government to ask parliament at this time to take up alteration of the qualifications for the franchise.

Dealing with a suggestion that the franchise should be extended to all soldiers and munitions workers, Mr. Asquith said there were grave difficulties in the way and that there was serious objections from a military viewpoint to holding a general election among the troops in the field. He added: "General enfranchisement has been brought face to face with another problem. What are we going to do with the women?"

He was bound to say, the premier went on, that representatives of the women had presented to him a perfectly unanswerable question. They were content to abide by the present franchise, but would urge their claims if the qualifies for the franchise were altered.

EPIDEMIC OF PINK EYE AMONG HORSES

An epidemic of pink eye among horses has been raging throughout Allen county for the past few weeks but, according to a man of authority, the disease is now under control. There are at present only a few cases scattered in various sections of the county.

Many valuable horses were lost on account of this eye disease. Nearly all the horses in the various livery stables of the city were afflicted but not a one of them died.

A local veterinary surgeon states that owners have been very fortunate this summer, although there were many cases of heat prostration. However, most of them were cured and the fatality rate was very low.

CAPT. SCHEFFER IS EXPECTING ORDERS

Captain John Scheffer, in command of the local artillery organization, Battery D, is expecting orders for mobilization any moment from the adjutant general. He is anticipating the arrival of the orders within a very short time. A statement was made that perhaps they would arrive Monday evening or Tuesday morning, either by mail or by telephone.

The members of the new battery are all anxiously awaiting their arrival. Many are remaining near the headquarters all the time so they will be present when the news comes. The organization has now nearly attained its one hundred and fifty members. Recruits are coming in every day but many of them are being turned down, being unable to pass the physical examination.

FINAL INSPECTION OF LAWNS START

More Than 800 Homes Will Be Visited by Committee This Week.

Myriads of mild-eyed posies that have climbed up over the back porches or stand nodding along the alleyways will do their best to look sweet and lovely this week so that the little hands which have been kind to them this summer may receive a prize. The inspection committee for the city beautification contest, made up of fifty representative women, started their march over the city Monday morning to have a last look at the surroundings of homes from which children are taking part in the contest.

More than eight hundred homes will be visited, in every part of the city. There are 2,000 children in the contest, which closes this week. The several prizes for most beautiful and sanitary home surroundings will be given out on September 7, at the city flower show. Each ward will be given a prize and the grand award will be $50.

There have been three former inspections of lawns since the contest opened early in the spring. Special attention was paid to the original appearance of the surroundings. The inspection now under way will require all week.

FORMER FORT WAYNE PLAYERS GOING GOOD

Former Fort Wayne players continue to make good in their chosen profession. L. B. Loudermilk, a pitcher who is known to every baseball fan of the city and a former member of Bade Myers' Central league team, is pitching ball for the Springfield club of the Central league. Loudermilk was with South Bend until his transfer to the Ohio club. He is a pitcher of class and has pitched many games in Fort Wayne during his stay as a member of the local team.

Fred Bratchi, another of the clan here, a right fielder, is with Muskegon. Bratchi is playing fine ball and is still good for a number of years in the leagues. He formerly played with the Columbus team of the American association.

L. C. Channell, another right fielder of the old Fort Wayne team, is with Buffalo of the International league and is playing some baseball, hitting around .300 and fielding nearly a perfect score. Channell was some ballplayer when he was a member of the team here and from the way he is going now it seems that he is good for several years. Channell had a tryout with the New York Americans two years ago and for some reason he was sent back to Buffalo.

LAND RECLAIMER IS LOUISIANA BOOSTER

Visitor Talks Interestingly on What is Being Done in Southern State.

J. M. Ferris, representing the George A. Hero company, of New Orleans, southern leaders in land reclamation work, was registered at the Hotel Anthony, Monday. He was to visit local realty dealers today, including H. M. Sigrist, who has visited parts of southern Louisiana, in which the company of Mr. Ferris reclaimed land.

In southern Louisiana 9,000,000 acres of land are under water eight months in the year. Much of this water has been drained and the land made is worth $100 upwards an acre, Mr. Ferris states. Some of the best lands in southern Louisiana were once mere decayed vegetation after waters had been drained, he declared.

Various pumping systems have been installed, and levies and canals built to take care of the drainage. The crops in southern Louisiana, Mr. Ferris says, were never excelled, the principal ones being sugar cane, corn and rice.

LITTLE GROUND FOR COMPLAINT ON CROPS

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—The past month has not been all that was desired by the farmers," says the monthly report of George P. Bryant, field agent for the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. "But taking everything into consideration there really should be little complaint. It was almost ideal for the harvest; wheat, rye and oats were cut and threatened under the most favorable conditions. Hay, too, was put away in fine shape. Generally speaking, the wheat will easily grade No. 2. The oats is light, but the hay is the largest in years.

"The severe drought prevailing throughout the month has done some damage to the corn, but taking the crop as a whole it was more benefited than damaged. Showers have occurred since the first of August in the sections where most needed, and now there seems to be no immediate danger of extensive damage.

"Buckwheat is not one of the principal crops of the state, but it may be interesting to note that a considerably larger acreage is out this year with a very good stand and promising good returns.

"Practically all vegetable crops suffered from the extreme heat, but excessive damage was not reported from any particular locality. The fruit crops are not as good as last year. This is principally due to unseasonable weather in the early part of the season.

"The melon crop has made wonderful progress during the month, the hot, dry weather being just what was needed. Conditions in the melon district are exceptionally good at present.

"Tobacco has made good progress, but the showers since the first of the month were needed. Probably the largest crop in several years will be produced if there is no insect damage."

New York Has Morning Temperature of 46 Degrees.

New York, Aug. 14.—This is the coolest August in the history of the local weather bureau. Only once, in 1879, was it cooler on any August day than it was at 6 o'clock this morning when the mercury stood at 46. The temperature rose slowly during the day, reaching 69 at 11:30 a. m. Bathing beaches, summer amusement resorts and open street cars lost popularity. The cool wave will remain indefinitely, the weather bureau says.

There were no fires or wrecks Sunday night.

POWDER MAGAZINE IN A FORTRESS LETS GO

Curacao, Dutch West Indies, July 30.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Details have reached here of the disaster which occurred July 27 in the fortress of La Vigia, at the Venezuelan seaport of La Guyara, causing the death of about twenty persons.

The powder magazine in the fort on the hill above La Guayara blew up with a terrific explosion and a shower of masonry, debris and artillery shells fell in all directions. In the magazines were stored a large quantity of six-inch shells and hundreds of thousands of rifle cartridges. As this ammunition exploded there continued for three hours bursting of shells and crackling of cartridges.

The government made efforts to suppress information concerning the disaster. It is learned, however, that 16 soldiers and two officers were killed outright in the fort and that one or two civilians met death in the town from flying debris. One of the officers who was under punishment was confined in chains near one of the magazines. A number of persons were injured.

The official explanation of the disaster is that it was due to spontaneous combustion. There are many who believe that revolutionary interests were at the bottom of the disaster.

The newspapers have been forbidden to mention the matter. Half a dozen peons who were discussing it on streets were arrested. After the explosion the police compelled all citizens to leave the town and go into the suburbs.

The cool weather probably will not last long.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Senator Penrose carried the republican attack on President Wilson's appointments a step farther today by introducing resolutions calling for investigation of appointments with waivers of civil service requirements.

Senator Weeks, republican, today continued his attack on the ship bill, assailing particularly the provisions which will admit foreign built vessels to the American coatswise trade. The senate continued work on the bill. "This bill constitutes a virtual declaration of war by the government on the ship building industry in this country," said Senator Gallinger, republican leader. "This determined attempt to force the government into the commercial shipping business is a startling and dangerous step toward socialism."

Senator Chilton today introduced a bill to appropriate $200,000 for relief of victims in the recent flood in West Virginia. It was referred to the appropriations committee. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania suggested facetiously that an amendment be added to appropriate $500,000 for Pittsburgh, which "suffered from a recent thunderstorm."

ROOF MAY BE BUILT OVER THE RESERVOIR

Mayor Hosey and members of the board of works are figuring on the construction of a roof, to cost about $17,000, over the top of the city reservoir. They have ordered City Engineer Randall to prepare estimates and tentative plans for the proposed covering of the big basin.

They have been assured, Mayor Hosey says, that the nuisance of worms and bugs in the city water can be stopped completely by building a protecting canopy over the million gallon tank. The worms sometimes found in the water come from insects which alight on the top surface of the reservoir tank, it has been explained to Mayor Hosey and members of the works board. A roof over the tank would be the most effective way of keeping out bugs of all kinds, it has been decided.

A covering for the reservoir if made of lasting material will cost about $17,000, board members say. If they carry out present plans work on the big roof will be carried on this fall. They have been told by health experts that there is no menace from the worms sometimes discovered in water drawn from the city mains, but it is the desire of city officials to rid the city of the nuisance.

Mayor Hosey and members of the works board consulted with W. H. Collins, of Detroit, traveling salesman for waterworks accessories, and whose territory is northern United States and southern Canada, Monday. He said that Fort Wayne is considered to have an excellent water supply. The method of roofing storage basins has been carried out in a few cities, he said, and proven successful.

Work on Spillway Started.

Work of building a spillway at the top of the reservoir started Monday morning. A conical shaped ditch is being cut at the top of the big tank and is to be connected up with fifteen inch pipe. When water is within four feet of the top of the reservoir it will start to overflow and be carried down the spillway.

It is the plan to carry the water away in the large pipe and empty it into the lake in the center of Reservoir park. The water supply in the lake will be constantly freshened by the overflow. Water can be pumped continually when the spillway has been completed, in about two weeks.

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

Teams:	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Western Gas	3	0	1.000
Turners	2	0	1.000
Pennsylvania	1	1	.500

SATURDAY'S RESULTS.

Western Gas, 9; Pennsylvania, 8.
Turners, 4; Dudlo, 0.

The Bowser and Electric works rested Saturday because of the Electric works, picnic at Cedar Point, while the Western Gas and Turners grabbed another victory. The first half champions trampled on the Pennsylvanians by the score of 9 to 8. The champs were in no danger at any stage of the contest although the Pennsys grabbed a run in the last frame, making the contest look like one of those sensational last inning rallies, but the champs nipped the growth in the bud, allowing only the one score. Both teams hit well, the losers knocking the pill for eleven safety swats while the Western Gas made thirteen count. Heine, of the Western Gas, connected three times, one a two-bagger. Soliday, of the Pennys, came through with three safe ones. The game was a good scrap.

The Turners had two firing men in the box, Zoll and Grimes. Both of these men pitched true to form, keeping the game well on ice. Zoll was the feature of the game, pitching five innings with only one hit. Grimes took up the duty then and finished the game. The contest was exciting as all shutout victories are, and when the ninth ended with the score at 4 to 0 the clubmen heaved a big sigh. The Dudlos fought all the way and at times looked good for a score but only to be put out by some brilliant play of the Turners. Weisbecker held the clubmen to eleven hits and pitched good ball, although his team was shut out. The Turner infield performed in grand style, breaking into the limelight with three double plays. The scores:

FORT WAYNE TAKES CONTEST FROM BUTLER

Clearyites Are on Job and Take Advantage of Visitors' Stage Fright.

The Fort Wayne city team came near being defeated Sunday when the team played the Butler Blues. Although the Clearyites won by the score of 4 to 3, they were scared many times by the hard hitting crew from Butler. Fort Wayne played baseball all during the contest and were not allowed to loaf at any interval. The new infield showed the fans that the semi-pro ball here is as good as any baseball they will find anywhere. Dornick and Weberus were the unfortunates to make errors, but they made up for them in other departments of the game. Weberus made the first run with a sprint from first across the home plate and he was moving some, too. John came through with a safe one when it counted and was forgiven for his error.

The visitors need not have brought anything else along with them but their pitcher, Olds. He was the whole team, inasmuch as his team gave him no support at all until near the end of the game. Olds is the best thing that has struck this town this season. The sidewheeler has a drop that is a wonder, with which he fanned eleven of the home tossers. The visiting hurler was going fine and made his Fort Wayne debut memorable for he held the locals to five hits and seemed to do it with ease.

JOHNNY BEGINS TRAINING.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 14.—Johnny Kilbane has already begun work for his fifteen round bout at Cedar Point Labor day, when he will defend his title of world's featherweight champion against George Chaney. His first training stunts include road work as the principal feature, but boxing will take its place Monday.

WABASH TO HAVE GYMNASIUM.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 14.—Plans are being made for a new gymnasium at Wabash college. Herbert Foltz, an Indianapolis architect, has been employed to prepare tentative plans and Dr. G. L. McIntosh, president of the college, said he expected the construction work will begin within a month or two. Efforts will be made to have the building ready by the opening of the basketball season.

DISCARDS MAY WIN PENNANT FOR DODGERS

(By Harold Johnson).

Did Connie Mack pull a boner when he tied a can to Jack Coombs?

Was John McGraw hasty in firing Rube Marquard and Chief Meyers?

Did Roger Bresnahan "boot" one when he banished Larry Cheney from the Cubs?

Every time he ponders these questions Col. Wilbert Robinson laughs in his sleeve. For it is to laugh, says the Brooklyn manager, when you contemplate the performances of this quartet in his club's present pennant dash.

If Brooklyn cops the flag discards must be given credit for the veterans cast adrift by the Cubs, Athletics and Giants have made title contenders of the Dodger machine.

Each of the above quartet had worn out his welcome on the club with which he played prior to entering Robinson's family, but like scores of other diamond greats, they came back in new environments.

Coombs, a cripple, the result of overwork in the role of Mack's iron-man pitcher, has found himself again, and though not worked as often as other members of the Brooklyn staff, has been a prime factor in the club's march of triumph. In seventeen games the Kennebunk marvel has turned in ten winners as against four defeats. That's fair to middlin' pitching for a man supposed to have one foot in his grave.

Cheney, for years the mainstay of the Cub machine, has come back with a resounding thud, and won eleven encounters and lost six, while operating in twenty-four battles. He was of little assistance to the Cubs during the first half of the 1915 race owing to a bum knee, and failed to assist the Dodgers after being traded for Joe Schultz.

But the Cubs could use the Oklahoman to good advantage this summer.

Marquard and Meyers, once the prize battery of the New York Giants, have profited by the change from Coogan's Bluff to Flatbush, and while the noble aboriginie hasn't slammed the ball with the same fierceness and regularity that marked his efforts for McGraw, he has been a prominent factor in the catching department and has hustled like a yearling since the bell rang last April.

Marquard ranks eleventh among the pitching stars of the National, and in eighteen battles has won seven and lost two. He's a tower of strength, however, in the role of a rescuer.

NAGS GALLOP AT COLUMBUS.

Columbus, O., Aug. 14.—The fifth meeting of the 1916 Grand circuit racing will open here Monday under the auspices of the Columbus Driving Park company. Pacers and trotters of the circuit are here for the opening numbers. Nineteen events composed the program of the week's speed competition. All the events are filled with well rounded fields, only a few of the colt class heats having a small number of starters. Some of the fields of aged performers are expected to be so large that division will be necessary.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

"Fred Clarke once had a funny run-in with an umpire. During an exchange of words the umpire came back with: 'Well, you are some ball player, you are, old boy.'

"'And you are some umpire, you are, old boy,' Clarke shot back. 'To tell the truth, you are a model umpire; no joshing.'

"'Think so?' answered the ump, seriously. 'Yes, indeed,' said Clarke. 'Just take a peek in your dictionary tonight and see if I'm not right.'

"'Say, you got me wrong, old boy,' said the umpire the next day. 'You don't know what a model is, do you?'

SHERWOOD MAGEE, OF THE BOSTON BRAVES:

"No team can hit on the Boston National league grounds. The fence is so far from the plate and the slopse so great from the infield to the fence that the batter can just about see the top of the fence in center field.

"If the fence was about twenty feet higher it would be a great field for batsmen, but as it is now there is nothing but the sky for a background. There isn't even a building in back of the wall in sight of the batter. How is a batter going to hit a brand new white ball looking into a skyline of the same color?"

"It is almost impossible to guage any kind of a ball as there is no background of any description."

BOB SHAWKEY, NEW YORK YANKEES:

"Did it ever occur to you that the pitchers who are asked to warm up continually are in better shape than the regulars who rush out and work a couple of innings to be prepared in case of emergency?

"I follow a system that has been very beneficial. Near the end of every game I go down to the bullpen and warm up for two or three innings whether I am going to pitch or not. Consequently I am ready and the moment the game is over I beat it to the shower and get all the benefits of a short workout.

BEST SWIMMERS IN A. A. U. CHICAGO MEET

Chicago, Aug. 14—With the best swimmers from all over the country already on hand, three national A. A. U. championship events were started Saturday at the South Shore Country club, of which Frank Sullivan, swimming instructor at Princeton university, is in charge.

The events to be decided will be the high diving for men and women and the 440-yard swim for women. In addition, the best swimmers in the local high and preparatory schools will compete in the 100-yard open interscholastic swim for the championship of Chicago.

This will be the first time in the history of A. A. U. athletics that championships for women have been held in Chicago. In the quarter-mile swim Miss Claire Galligan, of the National Women's Life Saving League of New York, rules a strong favorite, while Miss Jacqueline Thompson, the little mermaid from Evanston, is expected to give the easterner an interesting race. Miss Violet Wilson, of the Sinai Life Saving club, and Miss Thelma Etta Darby, of Indianapolis, are others entered.

Miss Evelyn Burnett, of St. Louis, rules the favorite for the honors in the national A. A. U. high diving event for women. The diver from the Mound City will receive keen competition from Miss Amber Meath, of the Sinai Life Saving club, and Mrs. Pearl M. Stokes, both of whom are divers of local prominence.

According to A. A. rules the contestants will be compelled to make five compulsory dives and the same number which are voluntary. Points will be scored according to the way the contestants approach the takeoff, their form in the air, and the manner in which they strike the water.

FAME AND FORTUNE IN HER EYES.

MISS LOIS WILSON and a view of her eyes, which won her fame and fortune. A year ago Lois was a school girl in Birmingham, Alabama. She won a beauty contest and a round trip to the California exposition.

While in the west she met the head of a large film corporation. He declared that she had the most beautiful eyes of any girl in America and engaged her, minus any experience whatever, to play in star roles. She is now appearing in photoplays with J. Warren Kerrigan and has won a pleasing sueness in her work.

"DON'T BOYCOTT BAKER SAYS HEAD OF LEAGUE

(Staff Special).

New York, Aug. 14.—"My advice to housewives is: DON'T BOYCOTT BAKERS' BREAD—YET!"

So declared Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league with a membership of 7,000,000 housewives in all parts of the country, when she announced today her policy toward the action of the master bakers' association in an attempt to do away with the 5-cent loaf of bread entirely and substitute the 10-cent loaf.

MRS. JULIAN HEATH

"The Housewives' league will not consider a boycott before an investigation I have just ordered is completed," Mrs. Heath said.

"If bakers were boycotted the substitute for their services would be simple. The housewife could bake her own bread. But it is possible the action of the bakers is along the line of progress and economy. I believe in a standard 10-cent price for bread rather than a 5-cent price. There is greater economy in it for all concerned.

"The small 5-cent loaf costs as much to wrap, handle and deliver as the 10-cent loaf and with the price of labor, flour, oil and other materials rising, the bakers may fairly plead that perhaps a penny should be added to the cost of the small loaf while the purchaser of the larger quantity should receive it at trifle smaller price in proportion to the amount received.

"This is an inevitable economic condition. The consumer finds that all commodities are cheaper if purchased in large quantities. But while in the case of ice, milk and butter, housewives of very small means cannot possibly buy and keep the larger quantities, nearly every housewive can afford to buy the 10-cent loaf.

"By a 10-cent loaf I do not mean a loaf of standard size. We have always advocated a standard price and have always recognized that the baker should be allowed to vary the size of the loaf he sells at that price. This is fair because the baker's raw materials constantly fluctuate in price.

"But a sure way to prevent exploitation under this system would be to compel the baker to LABEL EACH LOAF SOLD AT THE STANDARD 10-CENT PRICE WITH ITS EXACT WEIGHT!

"From the housewives' point of view, why should we not have the 10-cent loaf Bakers' bread is more healthful the second day than the first and every family will consume practically all of a 10-cent loaf within two days.

"Even if a little remains it is never wasted. Dry bread is best for toast. It can be used also for French toast—a breakfast in itself. Stale bread can always be kept and used up in breaded meat and fish, in dressings with roasts and steaks, on top of shirred eggs and for all sorts of desserts from simple bread pudding to Brown Betty.

"There should never be the slightest waste in bread. There is only one danger and that is that bakers might juggle the thing and use the 10-cent standard as a means to conceal an unfair profit.

"But the Housewives' league is investigating this. If price juggling and reduction of the nutritive value of bread is proved, a boycott on bakers' bread might have the same quick effect our famous boycott of eggs did in bringing the price back to rock bottom!"

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

WOMEN IN FIGHT.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Rachel Heddinger, of Etna Green, came to Warsaw on Saturday to file an affidavit against Ellen Reed, of Etna Green, for assault and battery. Mrs. Heddinger's left eye and cheek gave ample evidence that the fight in which the two women engaged was far from a tame affair. According to Mrs. Heddinger's story, she was walking on an Etna Green sidewalk at about 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening and met Mrs. Reed. She says she stepped to one side of the sidewalk to allow Mrs. Reed to pass. She says Mrs. Reed attacked her, knocking her down and beating her up badly. She charges that Mrs. Reed continued to beat her until a neighbor arrived and ordered her to stop. Mrs. Heddinger says she was forced to go to a doctor and to have her wounds dressed and was afraid to return to her home, coming to Warsaw early Saturday to file an affidavit for Mrs. Reed's arrest.

INDIANA WILL GET $200,000 ANNUALLY

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—John L. Lapp, director of the Indiana bureau of legislative information and a member of the committee appointed by President Wilson to study vocational education, says that Indiana will obtain about $200,000 annually from the federal government for vocational study purposes if the Hoke Smith vocational education bill is enacted into a law. The measure now is pending in the house after passing the senate. The funds available to Indiana Mr. Lapp said would be $40,000 a year at the start, and increase gradually to about $200,000 annually.

FREE FROM BLIGHT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Indiana has been found to be entirely free from white pine blister, a blight affecting pine trees and currant bushes. The federal government a few months ago assigned several men to investigate and assist the state entomologist in fighting the blister, but when they arrived here none was to be found. The men were ordered to other states.

The last time the blister appeared in Indiana was six years ago when a nursery was found to be infected. Everything which could have come in contact with the blight was burned immediately. Shipments of pines into the state have been watched closely since and in that way the blister has not been allowed to enter.

The only specimen of it in the state as far as known is that in sealed jars in the office of the entomologist in the state house. The fact that the state is free from the disease caused the federal men to say that Indiana is doing more in the way of prevention with the $15,000 available each year for the entomologist's department than many states are able to do with several hundred thousand of dollars for cures after a blight has started.

REPRODUCE LOG CABIN.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Plans are being considered at the suggestion of Dr. F. B. Wynn, of the state centennial committee, to reproduce as near as possible like the original the first log cabin built on the site of Indianapolis. The cabin stood on a little triangle of ground now bounded by the river, Washington street and National avenue. It long has been torn down, and recently a flood prevention levee has been built near where it stood. The commission which selected Indianapolis as the state capital met in the cabin. The plans are being supervised by the Indianapolis park board.

HIBERNIANS TO MEET.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 14.—The annual state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the ladies' auxiliary to the order will be held here Aug. 29, 3 0and 31. Plans for the convention practically have been completed. Elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors are being made.

MERCHANTS' CONGRESS.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Announcement has been made of a three-day merchants' congress for better business, to be held in Indianapolis in September, the exact date to be selected later. The plans are under the auspices of the Indianapolis Advertisers' club. The congress will be a short course in merchandising for Indiana cities. The affair is to be state wide. Twenty commercial secretaries from different cities are expected to bring from five to thirty commercial business men with them to attend the congress. Advertising, better buying and better selling, training of clerks, importance of rapid turnover of stock, and meeting mail order competition will be among the subjects to be considered.

RUMORS OF BURIED GOLD.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Rumors and and visions of buried gold in the old Straight Homestead on East Washington street, once the National Road, have caused hundreds to visit the vacant house and ransack it from cellar to garret. Workmen recently have been engaged in tearing the house down, and the buried wealth seekers became such a nuisance they had to be excluded. They began to make visits at night. The last of the Straight family died a few years ago and the homestead, at one time one of the mansions of the city, has been vacant.

MUCH CEDAR RUST.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Cedar rust, a fungus disease, is stirring up considerable consternation among apple growers in the southern part of the state, according to information received by Frank N. Wallace, State entomologist. The growers are reported to be considering asking the next legislature to regulate the distance of red cedar trees from apple orchards. While orchards of many acres are said to be affected by the blight, the state officials have taken action to fight the disease.

WATCHING MILK AND CREAM.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Hot weather and short pasturage have caused the state officials to begin watching for milk and cream below the standard fixed by law. Several such samples have been examined. It is said that the examination of some samples has led to the suspicion that milk is being skimmed to get the cream for the butter fat, and the milk then sold for whole milk. Prosecutions are threatened in flagrant cases. Milk and cream prices have been raised by dairymen in many parts of the state.

The power development of the government irrigation projects amounts to 35,000 horse power.

After Eating Snakes All Day, Makes Demand for Square Meal.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 14.—After he had eaten snakes all day for the amusement of Sunday fair ground visitors, "Yahoee, a Brazilian wild man," whose real name is Samuel Smith, colored, of Louisville, Ky., demanded that his two employers buy him a square meal. WILL EXCHANGE ENGINES IN YARDS

Nickel Plate is Installing Cross-Overs West of L. E. & W. Tracks.

The Moellering Construction company put its large steam dredge and a big force of men and teams at work today in making the excavation for the Osage street subway at the Nickel Plate yards, south of the tracks, which will practically close the excavation part of the work of that improvement. The company also commenced building the subway wall on the north side of the yards, excavation there having been completed for some days. Another improvement at the west Nickel Plate yards which commenced this morning is the construction of cross-over tracks from the passenger main track to the yards proper, which are to be placed west of the Lake Erie and Western tracks. When these crossover tracks are in position, passenger trains will stop there to exchange engines. The exchange is now made near the depot. Years ago, when the road was young and had only one passenger train, the exchange of engines was affected at the west yards.

Labor Day Committees at Work on Program for Event.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will appropriately observe Labor Day this year and already the program has been "mapped out," though many of the details remain to be looked after. The consensus of opinion is that it should partake of the character of an old fashioned picnic, some races and athletic events and to carry out this idea, the Amateur Driving club has been invited and has agreed to put on a number of interesting horse races and events, but has not completed the list and is not in position at present to announce the number and character of the different events. The federation committee has arranged an athletic program of nine numbers, as follows:

Fifty yard dash, girls 12 to 16 years. Silk waist.

Pie eating contest, boys 12 years and under. Roller skates.

The committee also contemplates an all-day picnic, at which whole families will take the necessaries for dinner and supper and prepare for a good, sociable time. The picnic will be held at Centlivre park.

THOMSON SCHOLARSHIP.

Prize Falls to Columbus and Philadelphia Boys.

Frank Leslie Campbell, of Philadelphia, and Willard Bryant Hufford, of Columbus, O., have been awarded the Frank Thomson scholarships for 1916. Announcement to this effect was made today by the general managers of the Pennsylvania railroad system, lines east and west of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Campbell is 17 years old and is a graduate of the West Philadelphia high school. He is the son of A. J. Campbell, draftsman, employed on the Philadelphia division.

Mr. Hafford is 23 years old and is a graduate of the North high school, Columbus, O. He is the son of J. W. Hafford (deceased), formerly yard clerk in the service of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway. He intends to enter the engineering department of Ohio State university this coming fall.

There were nineteen applicants this year for the Frank Thomson scholarships—eleven from the lines east of Pittsburgh and eight from the lines west of Pittsburgh. The scholarships are awarded each year to the two applicants obtaining the highest averages on the lines east and west of Pittsburgh, respectively.

DIDN'T MEET MR. COTTER.

William Koenig, representing the machinists; F. J. Schwanz, representing the pipefitters; Ed Seabold, representing the boilermakers, and Martin E. Berning, representing the blacksmiths, have returned from St. Louis, where they were summoned last Thursday on business connected with the petition of the several crafts at the Wabash shops for an increase in wages. A conference with General Manager S. E. Cotter was expected, but that gentleman was called away on railway business and the meeting did not take place. Instead, the representatives of the men at various points on the system held a meeting and discussed the situation generally.

BUILDIN GTRADES COUNCIL OFFICERS.

The Building Trades Council, which is in a most prosperous condition, held its semi-annual election last week, with the following result: President, C. E. Krider, of the Carpenters' local, re-elected; vice president, M. G. Wiedeman, of the Electrical Workers, re-elected; secretary, E. T. Drew, of the Painters' local, re-elected; financial secretary-treasurer, W. C. Hugnenard, of the Sheet Metal workers, re-elected; sergeant-at-arms, J. L. Norford, of the Electrical workers; trustee, F. Lallow, of the Carpenters' local, re-elected; trustee, Dan Long, of the Sheet Metal workers, re-elected; trustee, J. J. Conway, of the Structural iron workers.

BIG ORDER FOR DREDGE COMPANY.

Last week the American Steel Dredge company, through the efforts of Paul J. Knothe, assistant secretary, booked an order from parties in Columbus and Marion, Ohio, for two large dredges and a sectional steel boat twenty-four feet wide, eighty-eight feet long and six and a half feet deep, the total weight being over 400,000 pounds. This machinery is intended for use in the swamps in Missouri and Mississippi and is especially adapted for work there because of the great strength of the dredges and their ability to handle timbers, which are frequently encountered in dredging work in those states.

MAKING A WESTERN TRIP.

Passenger Engineer M. J. Maroney, of the Nickel Plate, and Mrs. Maroney are on a western trip which will be extended over a period of two or three weeks. A good portion of the time will be spent in Cripple Creek, Col., and vicinity. Mrs. Maroney suffers from hay fever and expects relief while in Colorado. During Mr. Maroney's absence his runs on passenger trains 3 and 6, on the Fort Wayne division, will be filled by Engineer D. T. Grubb.

PLEASURE TRIP TO TOLEDO.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar E. Guy, Mr. and Mrs. E. McBride, Miss Myrtle Sackman and Earl Thomson composed a jolly party to Toledo yesterday. They spent the day at Toledo beach, where they were served a dinner with spring chicken and other delicacies. The party was in honor of Miss Sackman and Mr. Thomson, who will be married in September. All the gentlemen named are employed by the Wabash. Mr. Guy being chief clerk at the division storekeeper's office in this city.

L. E. & W. IMPROVEMENTS AT LIMA

The Lake Erie and Western has under contemplation new yards and round house at Lima, which will cost approximately $500,000. General Manager George Dyer has petitioned the Lima council for an ordinance authorizing the company to lay eleven tracks across the Wapakoneta road, and if the authority is granted, the railroad company will immediately begin the work and carry it to a speedy consummation.

TRAIN DISPATCHERS TO MOVE.

The room just east of the present room occupied by the Pennsylvania train dispatchers will be ready for occupancy in a few days, when the dispatchers will move into it. The room now occupied by the dispatchers will be fitted up for office quarters for the assistant trainmasters, who expect to get in it early next week. These changes are the result of the building of an addition to the superintendent's building.

EXCURSION MOST PLEASANT ONE

The tenth annual excursion of the Mutual Benefit association of the General Electric works to Cedar Point Saturday, was one of the most enjoyable given by the society, though it did not come up to one or two of the previous excursions in a numerical way. There were 1,498 people in the party.

WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE.

One of the busiest industrial plants in the city and one of the hottest places these hot days is the Fort Wayne rolling mills, which are now having one of the greatest booms in their existence, working the men full time and employing many more men than ever before. Most of the men worked throughout the three or four weeks of the hot weather in the latter part of July and early part of August without losing an hour. Among this class were the men represented in the above picture, a reproduction of a photograph taken at the mills a few days ago. They are, reading from left to right: Harry Beerman, assistant superintendent; Joseph Lapadot, chief roll chipper; Jack Edwards, assistant timekeeper; J. S. Baldwin, general superintendent; Arthur Miller, timekeeper, and Andrew Fox, storekeeper. Nick Marion, assistant roll chipper, another "hustler" at the mills, was with the others when the negative was taken, but unfortunately he stood so far in the shadow of the building that his portrait does not show up on the picture.

THE Whitesburg, Ky., company of state militia has been mustered out. The members considered the work for which this company was organized had been completed, they failed to meet regularly to drill. The state authorities considered their work well and permanently done. The company, when it was mustered out recently, was composed of sons and relatives of men who were the original members.

That is the way a news item might be written. Ordinarily, the local newspaper of a town that boasts of a company of militia, would add to this item the names of the men. The metropolitan newspapers of a state in which a company of militia is disbanded would use a bare mention of the fact if the item did not get lost.

But the Whitesburg company did work that is nationally famous.

The fact that it has been mustered out means volumes to those who reside in Eastern Kentucky.

To those who once resided in Eastern Kentucky, many of whom will never dare return, it recalls deeds that are never discussed except far away from the scenes. To many of the exiles, the news means that possibly they can return, perhaps to fight again.

TO many, the fact that the company recently was composed mostly of sons and relatives of the original members would be significant. That in itself shows the spirit of the Kentucky mountaineer—"Sons and Relatives." It is the feud spirit that will last at least through the present generation.

The Whitesburg Company of the Kentucky National Guard was organized in 1892, a long time ago in Kentucky mountain history, to exterminate a band of Ku Klux Klan which was terrorizing Letcher and adjoining counties, and whose influence was growing constantly. The Whitesburg company immediately began waging a conflict similar to the United States punitive expedition into Mexico. That is why only sons and relatives belonged to the company in 1916.

The deed that caused the formation of the company was the assassination of twelve persons—men, women and children—as they rode in a wagon along a lonely mountain trail near Whitesburg.

This aroused all Eastern Kentucky and the company of militia was immediately formed.

In the same county, but not connected with "Killing Rock," as the boulder has been known since the massacre, is a cemetery containing thirty graves. Twenty-nine of those buried were murdered, it is stated by people who live in the county.

* * *

BEGINNING now on the feuds of the Kentucky mountains, and especially the Ku Klux Klan, it can be said in the outset that every county in that vast region can recite of dastardly crimes and assassinations of the Bloody K. K. K., as it is often termed. Breathitt County saw her exciting days during the Cockrell-Hargis feud. She has also been affected with more or less Ku Klux Klan depredations.

Pike County on the east saw her Hatfield-McCoy feud waged with deathly fervor for the ten long years of its reign. The Hatfield-McCoy feud has been halted indefinitely, but there are yet sympathizers in both factions that delight in relating of the doings of each other with a burning hatred that may one day terminate in something desperate to the peace and quietude of Pike County. Pike has also been the "hot bed" of action for many Ku Klux Klan depredations.

Perry County, on the south, witnessed her dark days of terror during the fifteen long years of the French-Eversole feud—the war that entirely exterminated both factions of the feud—and, as has been said, "Dead men tell no tales."

Fifty persons were killed, while every effort to suppress the lawlessness rampant during the terrible onslaught was without avail. The last victim was Judge Josiah Combs, past 70, assassinated as he sat at his supper table in his home in the town of Hazard, enjoying his supper meal.

Some years later there was an occasional outbreak of the Ku Klux Klan in Perry County, and a number of innocent, helpless women were mistreated. Then the lawbreakers "dispersed" into Bloody Breathitt County. Harlan County, on the southeast, has had a feud—the Howard-Eversole vendetta that waged for five years or more. At least forty persons were killed. Knott County on the north was the scene of the Jones-Wright feud war of ten years' duration.

* * *

More Than Thirty Slain

DETECTIVE JOHN W. WRIGHT of Letcher County, who has done more to bring the Ku Klux Klan war to a close than any other man in the state, commanded the forces on the Wright side in this memorable conflict.

Several skirmishes were fought over the Knott border in Letcher County during the war—the war which put more than thirty people sleeping on the hillsides.

From the organization of the Ku Klux Klan in Letcher County in the year 1880 up to 1892—a reign of twelve years—many murders and robberies were committed.

During these years a spirit of contention was being waged between Dr. M. B. Taylor, once a noted mountain physician, and Cal and Hanan Flemings, brothers, on one side, and the family of Ira Mullins, seven strong, on the other. It was on a beautiful summer morning, June 13, 1892, that the enemy, Dr. Taylor, and the Flemings, lay in wait in a secluded spot near the public roadway on Cumberland Mountains, leading across into Virginia. For days they lay in wait.

The Mullins were driving in a wagon. At length the quietude of the mountains were wrought in confusion, its stillness reverberated by hundreds of rifle shots from the outlaws, and the lives of six of the family of seven were forfeited. Here is the scene that met the eyes of the hundreds who were called to the lonely mountain trail.

Ira Mullins, the head of the household, lay gasping for his last breath across the breast of his devoted wife, who was dead. Two balls had pierced her heart. Near by lay the prostrate form of Eva Mullins, the 17-year-old daughter. One ball had pierced her forehead. On the opposite side lay two sons and a daughter-in-law dead. John Harrison Mullins, 9 years old, the only surviving member, jumped from the shackly old wagon just as the firing was begun and fled for his life.

Shot after shot was fired at him as he disappeared into the underbrush. Two balls pierced the crown of his hat and a third cut his suspender in twain.

An Enemy to End of Time

TODAY, with tears trickling down his cheeks, John Harrison Mullins recites the experiences of that day, while now and forever, even after death, he swears. Mullins is an avowed enemy of the Ku Klux Klan. He has sworn by a higher power that he will fight them to a finish for all time, and, like most mountaineers, Mullins has been true to his words, his convictions. Time nor change can effect nothing in this case.

Three months later it became known that Dr. Taylor and the Flemings were Ku Klux Klan members, were avowed enemies of the Mullins family, and had not been seen since the day before the day of battle. Several notable circumstances were shown that these men were guilty of the murder of the Mullins family, and must be proven so, otherwise a dark blot would be cast upon the officials of the two commonwealths, Kentucky and Virginia.

Wise County and the State of Virginia offered rewards of $500 for each outlaw, while the State of Kentucky and Letcher County put on another $500 for each. Detectives and county sheriffs began systematic searches.

For months the search was kept up. At length the outlaws were found near Camden-on-the-Gauley River, Greenbrier County, West Virginia, heavily fortified.

The officers knew that to charge on them meant death, as they had a wagon load of munitions stored in their retreat. At length a charge was made, which resulted in a glorious victory for the officers. Dr. Taylor, the decided leader, was captured; Cal Flemings was captured and Henan Flemings was wounded, and he gave up in the thickest of the battle.

They were brought to Wise Courthouse, Virginia, and placed in the County Jail amid the most intense excitement that was ever known there. In January following, they were tried in the Wise County Court.

Dr. Taylor received a death sentence, while the two Flemings brothers were each given life sentences in the Virginia Penitentiary. In October, the same year, Dr. Taylor was hanged for his participation in the crime of the Mullins family, thus the chapter in one of the most exciting murders in the history of the Ku Klux Klan depredations was closed. The hanging of Taylor and the life sentences of the Flemings inspired new life and hatred in the veins of the remaining Ku Klux Klan members, but for a time there was quiet in the camps.

Nearly Every Home Robbed

TWO years later, however, the Ku Klux Klan faction showed a membership of perhaps 200 in Letcher County alone, while each of the adjoining counties contained more or less Ku Klux Klan members. From 1895 to the spring of 1900, more than almost the whole of the mountains' peaceful homes were pillaged, farmers were robbed, innocent and helpless women were made the victims of the most inhuman treatment from the hands of the outlaw band. During this period there were many murders committed by the Klan.

In 1991, it seemed as if the Ku Klux Klan faction had broken out anew, and during the first six months of the year fully fifty helpless women were made the victims of their brutal mistreatment, while half as many men were flogged until Eastern Kentucky became a disgrace.

Perhaps twenty persons were killed in Letcher County alone. Operations in this county were along Boone's Fork and Rockhouse creeks and adjacent territory.

It was on Boone's Fork that on a cold night in the month of January, 1901, that Mrs. Jemima Hall, a respectable widow, aged 60, and her 14-year-old son, Sherwood Reynolds, were murdered by the Ku Klux Klan. First, the outlaws robbed the poor woman, then dragged her in her night robe out into the snow and whipped her until she died. Her young son offered resistance and they shot him dead on the ground. They dispersed into the mountain fastnesses, leaving the bodies alone in the snow.

At length it was suspected that John Reynolds was a leader in the depredations, and this was detailed to Gov. Beckham. He likewise placed a reward of $1000 each upon the heads of two Reynolds and a Potter, while $500 was placed upon the remaining thirteen. A few days later, and at the exact moment that Senator William Goebel fell in the Capitol square in Frankfort, William S. Wright, a prominent and wealthy logging man, likewise fell from the hands of assassins as he was riding along the public road near his home, en route to work on Boone's Fork Creek, in the heart of the Ku Klux Klan region.

Entire State Indignant

HUNDREDS of other depredations were committed throughout the county, but the assassination of Wright caused a wave of indignation to sweep over the entire state. One a frosty night in November of the previous year, George Sexton, a blind mail carrier, was called from his home on the Camp Branch Creek at midnight and most horribly whipped. A brother, however, rushed to the scene, procured medical aid and saved his life.

In the same month the band whipped a dozen or more of helpless women in the vicinity and made the nights hideous by the constant fire of their rifle. A few nights later the home of Mr. Rowlet Hale, postmaster at Rockhouse, was fired into, and the family were given a close escape. A steam grist mill and a number of pretty homes were burned in the neighborhood of Rockhouse Creek.

Leaving that section, the Ku Klux Klan members moved to Boone's Fork in the upper part of the county, where they were to renew hostilities. On the second night after their arrival at Boone's Fork they entered the home of John P. Craft, a respectable river farmer, and whipped Mrs. Della Craft and Sarah Cleek, a servant at the Craft home. Hickory clubs were used until the victims were half dead.

A mob of enraged citizens was organized, and went in pursuit of the outlaws. The citizens' band overtook the outlaws at Boone Hill at the mouth of Boone's Fork, a noted camping site, and exactly at the midnight hour, in the moonlight, a fierce, desperate, hand-to-hand battle was fought.

Lead was pumped at both factions for half an hour. In the terrible conflict three horses were killed. One of them proved to be a fine steed, the property of Elaine Combs, but he was believed not to have been a member of the band. It will be remembered that Combs was killed on the streets of Manchester, Clay County, a year ago.

Another murder in the Boone Hill conflict was that of Louis Lucas, whose death was kept a secret for several months. From trails of blood that led into the mountain fastnesses it was evident that others of the outlaws were shot and wounded. However, the extent of the work accomplished in this battle will never be known. Previous to this conflict it was not known that any of the Lucas' were involved.

In April, 1901, the law-abiding element in every corner of the state declared that lawlessness by the Ku Klux Klan in the Letcher County mountains must stop.

Gov. Beckham placed an ample reward upon the heads of all the members of the outlaw band. A detective, John W. Wright, a fearless officer, who has landed more criminals to justice than any other man in the South, was first to volunteer his services.

At length an officers' posse was organized, comprising fifteen men. With Wright in the lead, and with a bountiful supply of munitions, they went into the Boone's Fork Mountains, bent on running the outlaw band to earth at a risk of their lives. After days of ceaseless search the band was found in a fortification in a cave on the leading mountain spur between Millstone Creek and Boone Fork.

Boy, 17, Is Killed

HOWEVER, when the officers' posse confronted the outlaws the latter opened fire. For half an hour a desperate battle waged. A reputed leader of the Ku Klux Klan was a crack marksman, having won many prizes while in camp at Chickamauga Park, Ga., during the Spanish-American war.

When the smoke cleared away young Willie Wright, 17-year-old son of the late William S. Wright, assassinated by the Reynolds faction, lay dead upon the ground, a steel ball having pierced his abdomen. To avenge his father's death, young Wright had joined the officers' posse. Isaac Milliard of Pike County, the second victim, lay dead. He was of the officers' posse. John Henry Elkins, a deputy sheriff of Letcher County, was desperately wounded. The fourth victim was dangerously wounded.

Ku Kluxer John Reynolds was mortally wounded, and was carried to the settlements by the officers' posse, who guarded him for weeks, between life and death, when he at length recovered.

Willie Wright died before he realized that a ball from his rifle had given John Reynolds, his picked man, a desperate wound, but it did. Reynolds, at length recovered, was tried and given a life sentence in the Kentucky Penitentiary. He is now serving his sentence. Following this battle, indignation was aroused in every section of the commonwealth, and a company of state militia, comprising the best men in the county, was organized and equipped for immediate service. For over six months excitement ran high.

At length, and at a time when all of the Ku Klux Klan members seemed determined to die with their boots on, they gave up to the officers, at least five of them.

George Cook, relative or Bill Cook; John and Martin Bently, Dal Johnson and son, Newsome, after they were assured of absolute protection from mob rule.

After a close chase and a heated engagement, Mart and John Wright, Jr., relative to John W. Wright, the detective, gave up to the officers' posse. Thus, with John Reynolds, being confined in a hospital, eight of the desperate Ku Klux Klan were apprehended to await a just and impartial trial. Later Lige and Sol Flemings were apprehended at a country dance on Boones Fork. A desperate battle was narrowly averted.

A Reynolds, who was reputed to be the leader of the Ku Klux Klan at this time, had disappeared as completely as if the earth had swallowed him up. Even his aged mother, his young wife and children knew nothing of his whereabouts. They even mourned him as dead.

The Ku Klux Klan members were removed to Pineville, Bell County, as justice could not have been given them in the home county, owing to the intense excitement that was prevalent. They were all tried separately, and each received life sentences in the Kentucky Penitentiary.

Girls Fight with Rifles

IN many of the battles with the Ku Klux Klan, girls, scarcely out of their teens, have been known to take part in the skirmishes. In one of the fiercest battles at Boones Fork Miss Neva Johnson, barely 17, proved herself a heroine. In the thickest of the battle she rushed into the conflict, rifle in hand, and opened fire. She was the last to retreat, and it is superfluous to say her efforts were effective.

During the reign of the Ku Klux Klan in Knott County the outlaws attacked the home of H. C. Moore, a prosperous farmer, in his absence from home. His 16-year-old daughter rushed outside, killed one of the outlaws with a club, and, wresting his rifle from him, drove the outlaws away.

During the same month Virginia Bill Fraley, past 80, living on Upper Troublesome Creek, in Knott County, was robbed and later murdered by the Ku Klux Klan. His wife, two years his junior, interfered and she was whipped.

This outrage caused much excitement among the law-abiding element of Knott County.

"As long as the present generation survives there will be more or less Ku Klux Klan blood existing in the whole of Eastern Kentucky," spoke a prominent official of Letcher County to the writer recently. That official knew more of the conditions of Eastern Kentucky and her people than any other man in it. There are occasional outbreaks in Pike, Perry, Harlan and Knott.

Woman Brutally Whipped

IN the June following Mrs. Mary Vanover was unmercifully whipped at her home on Lower Elkhorn Creek. Two residences were burned by the Klan on Elkhorn Creek in the same month, and not an arrest was made.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET

New York, Aug. 14.—On the surface there were no indications at the outset of today's trading that Wall street is unduly apprehensive over the more serious aspect of the railway labor situation. Leading transportation issues like Reading and Union Pacific were only fractionally lower with no material changes in others of the same group. Shipping stocks added to their recessions of last week, Marine preferred yielding over a point, with heaviness in the common. Coppers were steady but American Zinc lost two points. United States Steel shaded moderately with extensive offerings of Anglo-French 5s at a slight concession.

Reading became the central feature of the forenoon on its advance of 2½ points to 104¾. Buying of the stock, according to gossip of the board room, was of the most substantial character and stimulated other active issues. This was particularly true of metals, equipments and the Mexican group. Bond dealings, aside from International issues, were nominal. U. S. 5s advanced five points.

Allentown, Pa., has dedicated a new $500,000 high school.

POLICE CHIEF TAKEN AFTER DRUGSTORE RAID

Marion, Ind., Aug. 14.—Steps will be taken today to attack the injunction issued from the court of Judge VanAtta against Chief of Police Ben O. Phillips and his force restraining them from molesting a stock of whisky stored in the W. A. Dugan drug store, North Branston street, part of which was removed to the county jail Saturday night despite the injunction, and which action led to the arrest of the police chief upon a charge of contempt of court. Tried after midnight last night, Chief Phillips agreed to abide by the injunction so long as it stood, and if found sufficient, to return the liquor which he had confiscated and stored in the basement of the county jail.

There were no criminal charges against Dugan, nor was he arrested upon any charge. The police raiding acted under a search warrant the origin of which is still unknown to Dugan's legal representatives. The latter claim that the liquor was found intact as shipped, and the quantity is not in anywise limited by law. Dugan is a wholesaler and the fact seems that the goods attempted to be confiscated were intended for removal within a short time to various saloons which he supplies.

The test of the validity of the injunction remains to demonstrate the powers of the police in the premises. It was issued upon the theory that the police were trespassers upon private property and were confiscating and attempting to destroy private property without warrant of law.

Chief of Police Phillips had advised and ordered his men to proceed without regard to the injunction when his arrest and arraignment followed. Prosecutor Wilbur Williams admitted his personal blame for the police chief's plight. It was the willing agreement when formal judgment was withheld that Chief Phillips would not attempt to ignore the superior court's authority. No steps were taken against the three patrolmen engaged in the actual removal of the liquor, who were between the two fires of disobeying a superior officer and of being cast into jail for contempt of court.

WILL CARRY FIGHT HIGHER.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Having failed in a neffort to get the federal horticultural board to declare a quarantine to prevent the shipment of chestnut trees from Pennsylvania F. N. Wallace, state entomologist, expects to take up the matter with United States Senators Kern and Taggart in hopes of getting federal action.

Chestnut blight, according to Mr. Wallace, has been traced to Pennsylvania, and trees shipped to this state have been affected. He has corresponded with the shipper of the trees, but got no satisfaction. The state board of agriculture of Pennsylvania acknowledged the presence of the blight in trees in that state. Mr. Wallace says, and he then asked the federal government to take action. The reply was that he should quarantine Indiana against Pennsylvania trees. Mr. Wallace says he will do that as a last resort, and the quarantine will be enforced very strictly. The blight has only a slight start in this state, he says, and he proposes that it shall be stamped out now.

BABY BONDS CREATE INDEPENDENT FEELING

A local young man testifies that "since I began saving a small portion of my earnings and investing them in Baby Bonds I have had a nice increase in salary, which I attribute solely to the feeling of independence and confidence that was created within me by the knowledge that I had a nice little 'nest egg' in the shape of my Baby Bonds." Baby Bonds come in 10.00 denominations, bear six per cent. interest and are secured by first mortgages on local real estate. There are also similar bonds of $500.00 denominations, bearing the same rate of interest and secured in the same manner. For details regarding either, see the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.
